BATTLE RAGES ON CONTROLS BILL

Peace Talks Are Recessed Until July 25 By The Reds

Crucial Eighth Agenda Meeting Is Ended With No Explanation

Foreign Troops Political Issue In Doubt

MUNSAN, Korea, Saturday, July 21 (AP)—Crucial armistice talks in the Korean War were recessed today until July 25, at the request of the Reds. There was no immediate explanation.

MUNSAN, Korea, Saturday, July 21 (AP) — The crucial eighth meeting of United Nations and Communists delegates striving to work out an agenda for a Korean War armistice conference got under way today at 10 a.m. (7 p.m. EST Friday).

U. N. delegates arrived by helicopter at the Truce City of Kaesong at 9:40 a.m. They entered the conference room at 9:55 a.m. and two minutes later were followed by the Communist negotiators.

Before the Allied delegation departed it was given copies of Secretary of State Dean Acheson's statement calling the removal of all foreign troops from Korea a political issue. One copy was handed to Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, head of the U. N. negotiators.

War or peace in Korea seemed to hinge on one issue — a Communist demand for agreement now on the question of withdrawing foreign troops from the mountainous, ravaged peninsula.

Insist Issue Political

The Allies have insisted this question is political and cannot be a condition for a military cease-fire.

The U. N. delegation left the nearby advance peace camp at 9:30 a.m. (6:30 p.m., EST, Friday) for the short flight to the Truce City. The meeting was scheduled for 10 a.m.

It was the eighth meeting of the Allied and Red delegations. Yesterday's session was postponed after flooded streams prevented the U. N.-five member group from reaching Kaesong by jeeps.

A motor convoy left for Kaesong with other personnel of the Allied delegation, including correspondents. Swollen creeks along the 15-mile road had subsided.

An Allied source said Friday "there is no great reason for optimism" on the possibility of settling the issue of withdrawing troops from Korea.

Even if this issue is solved, it will not mean a cease-fire, but merely an agreement on what subjects to discuss in seeking a cease-fire.

Through this haze of pessimism sifted reports that the issue might be resolved by a compromise calling

Flood Batters Dikes As Crest Nears Record

Missouri River May Soon Join Mississippi

ST. LOUIS, July 20 (AP) — The muddy Missouri rammed its biggest flood crest in more than a century to within a few miles of the swollen Mississippi tonight, leaving behind at least 27 dead and a billion dollars in damages.

It battered down dike after dike as it completed its paralyzing journey across the state from Kansas City, which suffered the heaviest blow from flood waters that poured down off the Kansas plains last week.

River Five Miles Wide

With its dike-smashing blows, the untameable Missouri flattened out for miles across the countryside. At points it was five miles wide.

Its crest passed St. Charles, Mo., the last town of any size between it and its juncture with the Mississippi, today and was expected to push the Mississippi up to 40.5 feet here by midnight Saturday. That would be the highest mark for the river since 1944.

Most of St.Louis, on high ground, was out of the flood danger zone. But precautions were taken here against a water shortage and contaimination of the supply.

The Red Cross has set up flood relief shelters for 3,720 persons in Missouri, exclusive of the Kansas City area. It is feeding 6,800.

The crest passed St. Charles, 15 miles north of here, this morning. It fell short of the predicted 38.3 feet but it climbed to 37.4, the highest in 107 years.

Thousands of additional acres were flooded there as most of the dikes went out. Altogether 1,500,000 acres of cropland have been inundated between Kansas City and here.

Labor Through Night

R. H. Musser, regional director for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service in the Upper Mississippi, has estimated agricultural damage in Missouri from the flood will exceed $100,000,000.

At New Haven, a town of 1,000 about 50 miles west of here, a terrific fight was being waged to save the business district. All the townspeople have joined in the struggle against the river.

Three hundred labored through last night, plugging up sand boils and blisters in the dikes as the crest surged by. Wilbur Lefmann, newspaper editor there, reported today the town felt it had won its battle. They have been sandbagging for two weeks now.

Crown Prince Wilhelm Dies

HECHINGEN, Germany, July 20 (AP)—Crown Prince Friederich Wilhelm, frustrated eldest son of Kaiser Wilhelm II of World War One, died today at his little villa—far removed from the Berlin palace he hoped to occupy as Emperor of a new Imperial Germany.

The heir-apparent of Germany's last Kaiser died after a long illness within sight of an 80-room Hohenzollern Castle he lacked the money to live in. He was 69.

Crown Princess Cecilie, separated from Wilhelm for many years, rushed here from Bad Kissingen but did not arrive in time. A specialist listed arterial sclerosis as the cause of death.

A great grandson of England's Queen Victoria, Wilhelm lived out two of the most destructive wars in history and two shattering German defeats.

One of the hardest blows of his life came in the battle of Verdun, in World War I. Marshal Henri Phillippe Petain, now a dying old man, declared "they shall not pass" and the Germans, nominally under the Crown Prince's command, did not.

Blast Kills One

Firemen battle a fire in a row of stores on Chicago's South Side yesterday after an explosion in one of the stores killed a fireman and injured a number of spectators. The dead fireman and others were on the roof of the building when the blast occurred. Windows were shattered nearby and about 50 persons, mostly children, were cut by flying glass. The roof and front wall of the building collapsed.

Pretty High School Student Is Raped, Stabbed To Death

Hold Father's Friend; Neighbor Finds Body

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., July 20 (AP)—A pretty 17-year-old brunette was raped and slain today, her nude body punctured 45 times by an implement similar to an ice pick. The victim of the brutal attack was Janet Clark a Champaign High School student.

Police shortly afterward detained a friend of her father's for questioning. Capt. Russell Burke said a wristwatch belonging to the man was found near the body, and that the man admitted visiting the Clark home this morning but denied the slaying.

Police Question Suspect

The girl's father, Paul Clark, said she was in bed when he left for his job with a moving company at 8 this morning. An hour and a half later, a neighbor found her body on the floor of her father's bedroom.

Police were questioning Petey Parmer, 34, who lived some six blocks from the Clark home. Parmer and Dick Barham, 18, Champaign High School football player, spent the evening at the home last night as guests of the girl's father.

Capt. Burke said Parmer was taken into custody today when his wristwatch, its leather strap broke, was found near the girl's body. Parmer, Burke said, admitting owning the watch and said he must have left it at the house last night.

Burke said Parmer told him he went to the Clark home this morning looking for the father. He said he talked to Janet through the screen door but left when she told him her father was not there.

Burke said an acquaintance of Parmer's, Earl Leonard, told police he saw Parmer's station wagon parked around 9 a. m. about a half block from the Clark home at the mouth of an alley.

Parmer, employed by Johns Manville, an insulating firm, is married but childless. His wife is out of town on a vacation trip. No charges have been filed against him.

The girl's body was found when a neighbor woman became suspicious of a man she saw cutting across the Clark back yard.

The neighbor, Mrs. J. H. Foote, told police she was in her back yard next door when she saw the man. She sair she became suspicious because he kept turning his head away from her.

Signs Of Struggle

Mrs. Foote said she found the Clark back door unlocked. She investigated and found the body. The girl lived alone with her father since her mother's death last year. She had a married sister.

The living room of the house bore signs of a struggle. Two tables were overturned and a lamp and ashtray broken. The girl's robe was found neatly folded on the davenport. Scattered about the living room were her torn pajama top, her pajama trousers, turned inside out, and her panties, described by police as "torn to shreds."

A leather awl, which police said inflicted the multiple stab wounds, was found under the bed in Clark's bedroom. Clark said it belonged to him and was customarily kept in the kitchen. A man's blue necktie was knotted about the girl's throat.

Ants Cause Fire When DDT Spray Ignites On Heater

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 20 (AP)—Ah, those ants!

They were the cause of a fire here last night.

The gas water heater ignited the spray.

Stephenson's apartment was badly damaged and he was burned on a hand and foot.

U. S. Invites Treaty Signers

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — The United States today invited 50 nations, including Soviet Russia, to join in signing the Japanese peace treaty at a conference opening September 4 at San Francisco.

Conspicuously missing from the invitation list were both the Communist and Nationalist governments of China and Italy. Also omitted were South Korea and three new French-sponsored states of Indochina.

Russia, which has denounced both the proposed "peace of reconciliation" and the manner in which the terms were worked out, is expected to refuse to sign. It is considered possible, nevertheless, that Moscow might send delegates to the conference to attack the treaty.

Japan will have the right after the treaty goes into effect to make peace separately with the nations which fail to sign at San Francisco.

Rita To Seek Immediate Divorce

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Rita Hayworth's lawyer said today "she wants a speedy divorce." He added that Prince Aly Khan apparently is wasting his time trying to make up with the movie actress.

"Miss Hayworth is definitely of the opinion that the matter is terminated," Attorney Bartley Crum said.

Earth Tremor Felt

CASSINO, Italy, July 20 (AP) — An earth tremor shook Cassino at 1 p.m. (7 a.m., E. S. T.) today. A number of war-damaged buildings collapsed but there were no immediate reports of casualties.

Grief-Stricken Soldier Asks Forgiveness After Slaying

CINCINNATI, July 20 (AP)—The letter read:

"I'm the soldier who is responsible for the death of your son, McNeal.

"Only God knows the torment and grief that remains on my conscience day and night."

Thus wrote Pvt. Carroll Moore of Philadelphia, Pa., to Mrs. McNeal Tate, Cincinnati, of the death of her son in Korea July 2.

Moore said Tate and he "were playing around" in their quarters and that he pointed his rifle at Tate and pulled the trigger, not knowing it was loaded.

Tate, a negro, was struck in the chest and apparently died instantly, his sister, Dorothy, said today in releasing the letter from Moore.

"If you only knew how much I'm being haunted day and night by this terrible incident, I think you'd forgive me," the soldier wrote.

"If it wasn't for God and my faith in him, I don't think I could stand the torment. x x x

"The reason, as I said before, for writing you this letter is to express my sincere sorrow and to ask your forgiveness, for without it I'd never be able to forget this horrible crime I've committed."

Replying to the letter, Mrs. Tate said she wrote the young soldier:

"I understand how you felt, and I put my son in your place. I forgive you and I want you to ask God to forgive you, because if it hadn't been God's will, it wouldn't have been done

Crisis Is Seen In Abdullah's Assassination

Jordan's King Was Friend Of Britain

JERUSALEM, July 20—Jordan's King Abdullah, a friend of Britain who wielded strong force in the Arab world, was assassinated today beside a Mosque in old Jerusalem.

The slaying, on territory Abdullah took over in the Palestine War and ruled as "King Of Jerusalem," brought a new political crisis to the troubled Middle East.

The 69-year-old ruler was cut down by pistol bullets as he was going to pray at the tomb of his father at noon on the Moslem Sabbath.

He had claimed he was the oldest living descendant of the Prophet Mohammed.

He was born in Mecca, and he died on an inner doorstep of the Aqsa Mosque in the compound of the towering Mosque of Omar that embraces the Dome of the Rock. Koranic scripture says Mohammed rose to heaven on a white horse from the rock.

Assassin Is Slain

The assassin was killed on the spot by Abdullah's bodyguard.

An official announcement later said the assassin was a 21-year-old Jerusalem Moslem tailor named Mustapha Shukry Ashsho, or Ashou. The Arab News Agency and other sources said he was a member of the "sabotage corps" or "demolition squad" of an underground group called "The Sacred Struggle Organization." Two high-ranking officers wounded.

An earlier report from informed British sources identified the killer as Mustafa Shakir and said he had past connections with the exiled former Mufti of Jerusalem, now living in Cairo.

There was a feeling that his assassination was a clear blow to the prospects for continued negotiation between Jordan and Isreal. He was the only Arab ruler who dealt with Israel in the past three years.

Abdullah's body was flown back to Amman.

The vigorous, bearded king, 5 feet, 4 tall, had been at odds with his Arab neighbor monarchs from time to time over the years. Abdullah was a first world war ally of Lawrence of Arabia and a protege of Winston Churchill on the checkerboard of Mid-East politics.

The Jordan radio in Abdullah's capital, Amman, announced his 35-year-old second son, Emir (Prince) Naif was immediately named regent to rule over the 300,000 Jordan subjects. The radio then began Jordan's official mourning period with verses from the Koran chanted by the Nullahs (Moslem Priests).

Includes Old Jerusalem

The Jordan rule also includes Old Jerusalem and a slice of Palestine won by Abdullah's British-supported Arab legion in the war against the Israelis in the late 1940s.

Abdullah's assassination was the second involving Jordan within a week.

Riad El Solh, Lebanon's ex-premiar and strong man in the wars for Lebanese independence, was slain in Amman after a visit and dinner last weekend with Abdullah. The three assassins were identified as semi-Fascist Syrian-Lebanese Nationalists who stalked El Solh to Abdullah's capital. One

State To Probe Red Congress

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Three trustees of the Civil Rights Congress bail fund, financial "angel" of arrested Communists, were called on today to testify Wednesday in a State Banking Investigation into the fund.

State Supreme Court Justice Henry Clay Greenberg signed writs of habeas corpus calling on the warden of the Federal House of Detention to produce them at that time.

All three are serving contempt of court sentences for refusing to identify contributors to the fund, which forfeited $80,000 bond when four convicted Communist leaders jumped bail early this month.

The three trustees are Frederick Vanderbilt Field, millionaire leftist; Dashiell Hammett, author of the "Thin Man" and Dr. W. Alphaeus Hunton, a Negro scholar.

Attorneys for the fund contend that the investigation by the state banking superintendent is simply another way of trying to uncover identities of the contributors.

The investigators say they are looking into possible violations of a state banking law which prohibits the soliciting or receiving of deposits—in this case the contributions—without authorization.

RAPED, SLAIN — Janet Clark, 17, was found brutally slain at Champaign, Ill., yesterday in her home where police said her nude body was found in her father's bedroom with 45 stab wounds apparently inflicted by a leather awl. She had been raped and a man's necktie was knotted around her throat.

Crime Probe Witness Is Threatened

Francis L. Smith Gets Death Notice

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — The Senate Crime Committee said today a witness in its probe of Atlantic City gambling had become the target of a death threat. It promptly enlisted the aid of the FBI.

The witness, Francis L. Smith, appeared before the committee shortly after disclosure of the warning that he would be "rubbed out" if he testified.

Smith, a slight, sandy-haired man who operated a game of chance on Atlantic City's boardwalk, told of making a $250 "contribution" two years ago to State Senator Frank S. Farley, the Republican leader there.

Armed Capitol police sat by as he testified.

Chairman O'Conor (D-Md) of the crime committee said that police protection was being provided for Smith and his family while FBI agents investigated the threat against his life.

Praised by O'Conor for having the "guts" to testify, Smith identified Herman "Sumpy" Orman as the man with the real say as to whether various types of games operated in the city.

Other witnesses in the two-day hearing, which ended in late afternoon, described Orman as the gambling kingpin in the resort city. Orman denied it.

It was while Orman was being questioned that Richard Moser, the crime committee's chief counsel, disclosed the threat against Smith's life.

"Last night," said Moser, "a man named Joe Ryan, a jewelry salesman, walked into Smith's store and told the girl behind the counter to tell Smith that if he testified before the crime committee against Mr. Orman he is going to be rubbed out."

Wholesale Prices Drop Half Per Cent

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — Wholesale prices, as measured by the government, dropped another one half of one per cent during the week ended July 17. This was the seventh straight week prices have declined.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, reporting this, said its price index was 178.8 per cent of the 1926 average. This was 14 per cent above the average before the Korean War started.

Final Voting On The Measure Is Expected Soon In House

Anti-Administration Forces Score

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—Administration forces in the House tonight delivered three sudden and unexpected knockout blows to proposed major curbs on the administration's price control authority, notably including a freeze on wage-price ceilings and a "reasonable profit" amendment.

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—Anti-administration forces rolled up a series of thumping victories in the House controls fight tonight and reaffirmed a decision to limit farm price rollbacks, including beef, to 10 per cent of the May 19 price.

This would ban the two rollbacks of 4½ per cent each on live beef prices ordered by Price Director Michael V. DiSalle, They had been scheduled to go into effect on Aug. 1 and Oct. 1, following up a recent 10 per cent rollback.

It would also prevent any rollbacks at all on farm products selling below parity—the government-set formula for assuring farmers a fair return on their products in relation to the things they buy.

Farm products selling above parity would be subject to rollbacks.

However, with a few exceptions, almost all farm products are now selling below parity.

With a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats in absolute control, the Chamber voted 234 to 183 on a name-recording rollcall to ban more than the present 10 per cent rollback on beef prices.

Earlier, the House beat down administration forces in other critical tests centering on amendments previously approved on a tentative basis.

The House refused to reverse its previous action banning livestock slaughtering quotas which the Truman Administration contended are needed to prevent a revival of World War II black markets.

The roll call vote against the quotas was 249 to 167. Foes of the quotas contended they actually encourage black markets by restricting the business of legitimate slaughterers.

Shortly before, the Chamber had dealt the administration another defeat when it voted 265 to 148 to write in a two-year curb on the import of fats, oils, peanuts, butter, cheese, and other dairy products if they compete with domestic products.

Anti-administration forces rolled up another smashing majority on a third test when the House 232 to 184 to stand pat on its previous refusal to empower President Truman to acquire and operate defense plants.

A coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats was completely in the driver's seat in all three votes.

Republican spokesmen contended the defense plant authority proposed for the President was so broad it would conceivably lead to nationalization of industry and would give Mr Truman "life and death" powers over business.

Later the House reaffirmed its stand against granting President Truman authority to create new government corporations to carry out defense production and eco-

Mason Admits Taking Money In "Con" Probe

Fleeced His Victims Of Over $88,000

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) —The fabulous Sam Mason admitted today that he tapped "clients" for thousands in "sewer money" on promise to bribe Washington officials.

"But," he asked senators, "what's wrong with that?"

In answer, a Senate investigating committee turned over his testimony to the Justice Department and Internal Revenue Bureau, with a view to prosecution.

Russian-Born "Con Man"

The committee has charged that Mason fleeced "gullible victims," including two Greek Catholic priests, out of a third of a million dollars.

Most of it was supposed to be used in lining up bargain dollar-a-year leases on government buildings. There would be a lot of buildings available, he told his clients, because the government was going underground to escape an atomic attack.

The committee said the 59-year-old Mason of New York, is really a Russian-born confidence man by the name of Mussman with a criminal record a yard long.

Mason, who said he once stuffed money into his hollow wooden leg, testified he had taken $88,000 from "clients" but said he had turned over most of the money to a mysterious "Mr. Eungart," now in Australia.

He also admitted he had not filed an income tax return since 1929 because he never had any money left at the end of the year. He said he lost a lot on the ponies.

Mason Testifies Calmly

The pudgy, florid-faced witness spoke calmly in a gutteral voice.

The committee included in its testimony a criminal record attributed to Mason under the name of Mussman. It dates from 1922 and includes a long list of indictments and charges for mail fraud, bogus stock deals and larceny. At least two jail sentences are included, the last one a three to four year term at Charlestown, Mass., for larceny. The man was released in November, 1946, and apparently has a clean record ever since.

Fireman Is Killed, 50 Persons Injured

CHICAGO, July 20 (AP)—An explosion in a burning South Side building today killed a fireman and injured many other persons.

About 50 persons, mostly children, were cut by flying glass when windows were blown out by the explosion. The fire took place in a busy shopping neighborhood.

The fireman who lost his life was Edward Paulson.

He and other firemen were on the roof of the building when the blast occurred. It shattered windows in other stores in the block. Some of the dozen badly injured also were cut by glass.

The blaze attacked a row of small stores on the East Side of Ashland Avenue. They are housed in the same building.

American Legion Head Says Russia Air Force Greatest

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—Erle Cocke, American Legion national commander, said tonight the United States is a second-class air power.

Russia has 7,000 modern jet fighters, he said, against no more than 2,000 for this country.

In bomber and freight production, Russia is outbuilding the U. S. at a ratio of 4 to 1, said Cocke, and the Red Air Force has more than 1,000 bombers like the B-29s which "can reach America" with Russian atomic bombs.

"This is a frightening picture. But more frightening is the fact that it will take us until 1954 to match the Russians in the air."

He said "the Air Force build-up from 48 to 97 groups has virtually stopped" at an 87-group level attained the first of this month. Planes which were in storage for equipping new groups have been exhausted and new groups cannot be equipped until new planes come off production lines. He added that:

"About half of the combat planes in our combat units today are obsolete. In the event of war you would be sending your husbands, brothers and sons into battle with second-rate equipment."

Cocke contended Russian air strength clearly demonstrates that the 95-group goal for the U. S. is inadequate and said the Legion supports an increase in both Air Force and Naval aviation.

"To do this," he said, "an Air Force of 150 groups with 20,000 first-line combat planes is the rock-bottom minimum. For the Navy, 7,000 first-line combat planes are required

Police were questioning Petey Parmer, 34, who lived some six blocks from the Clark home. Parmer and Dick Barham, 18, Champaign High School football player, spent the evening at the home last night as guests of the girl's father.

Capt. Burke said Parmer was taken into custody today when his wristwatch, its leather strap broke, was found near the girl's body. Parmer, Burke said, admitting owning the watch and said he must have left it at the house last night.

Burke said Parmer told him he went to the Clark home this morning looking for the father. He said he talked to Janet through the screen door but left when she told him her father was not there.

Burke said an acquaintance of Parmer's, Earl Leonard, told police he saw Parmer's station wagon parked around 9 a. m. about a half block from the Clark home at the mouth of an alley.

Parmer, employed by Johns Manville, an insulating firm, is married but childless. His wife is out of town on a vacation trip. No charges have been filed against him.

The girl's body was found when a neighbor woman became suspicious of a man she saw cutting across the Clark back yard.

The neighbor, Mrs. J. H. Foote, told police she was in her back yard next door when she saw the man. She sair she became suspicious because he kept turning his head away from her.

Signs Of Struggle

Mrs. Foote said she found the Clark back door unlocked. She investigated and found the body. The girl lived alone with her father since her mother's death last year. She had a married sister.

The living room of the house bore signs of a struggle. Two tables were overturned and a lamp and ashtray broken. The girl's robe was found neatly folded on the davenport. Scattered about the living room were her torn pajama top, her pajama trousers, turned inside out, and her panties, described by police as "torn to shreds."

A leather awl, which police said inflicted the multiple stab wounds, was found under the bed in Clark's bedroom. Clark said it belonged to him and was customarily kept in the kitchen. A man's blue necktie was knotted about the girl's throat.

Ants Cause Fire When DDT Spray Ignites On Heater

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 20 (AP)—Ah, those ants!

They were the cause of a fire here last night.

The gas water heater ignited the spray.

Stephenson's apartment was badly damaged and he was burned on a hand and foot.

U. S. Invites Treaty Signers

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — The United States today invited 50 nations, including Soviet Russia, to join in signing the Japanese peace treaty at a conference opening September 4 at San Francisco.

Conspicuously missing from the invitation list were both the Communist and Nationalist governments of China and Italy. Also omitted were South Korea and three new French-sponsored states of Indochina.

Russia, which has denounced both the proposed "peace of reconciliation" and the manner in which the terms were worked out, is expected to refuse to sign. It is considered possible, nevertheless, that Moscow might send delegates to the conference to attack the treaty.

Japan will have the right after the treaty goes into effect to make peace separately with the nations which fail to sign at San Francisco.

Rita To Seek Immediate Divorce

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Rita Hayworth's lawyer said today "she wants a speedy divorce." He added that Prince Aly Khan apparently is wasting his time trying to make up with the movie actress.

"Miss Hayworth is definitely of the opinion that the matter is terminated," Attorney Bartley Crum said.

Earth Tremor Felt

CASSINO, Italy, July 20 (AP) — An earth tremor shook Cassino at 1 p.m. (7 a.m., E. S. T.) today. A number of war-damaged buildings collapsed but there were no immediate reports of casualties.

Crown Prince Wilhelm Dies

HECHINGEN, Germany, July 20 (AP)—Crown Prince Friederich Wilhelm, frustrated eldest son of Kaiser Wilhelm II of World War One, died today at his little villa—far removed from the Berlin palace he hoped to occupy as Emperor of a new Imperial Germany.

The heir-apparent of Germany's last Kaiser died after a long illness within sight of an 80-room Hohenzollern Castle he lacked the money to live in. He was 69.

Crown Princess Cecilie, separated from Wilhelm for many years, rushed here from Bad Kissingen but did not arrive in time. A specialist listed arterial sclerosis as the cause of death.

A great grandson of England's Queen Victoria, Wilhelm lived out two of the most destructive wars in history and two shattering German defeats.

One of the hardest blows of his life came in the battle of Verdun, in World War I. Marshal Henri Phillippe Petain, now a dying old man, declared "they shall not pass" and the Germans, nominally under the Crown Prince's command, did not.

Grief-Stricken Soldier Asks Forgiveness After Slaying

CINCINNATI, July 20 (AP)—The letter read:

"I'm the soldier who is responsible for the death of your son, McNeal.

"Only God knows the torment and grief that remains on my conscience day and night."

Thus wrote Pvt. Carroll Moore of Philadelphia, Pa., to Mrs. McNeal Tate, Cincinnati, of the death of her son in Korea July 2.

Moore said Tate and he "were playing around" in their quarters and that he pointed his rifle at Tate and pulled the trigger, not knowing it was loaded.

Tate, a negro, was struck in the chest and apparently died instantly, his sister, Dorothy, said today in releasing the letter from Moore.

"If you only knew how much I'm being haunted day and night by this terrible incident, I think you'd forgive me," the soldier wrote.

"If it wasn't for God and my faith in him, I don't think I could stand the torment. x x x

"The reason, as I said before, for writing you this letter is to express my sincere sorrow and to ask your forgiveness, for without it I'd never be able to forget this horrible crime I've committed."

Replying to the letter, Mrs. Tate said she wrote the young soldier:

"I understand how you felt, and I put my son in your place. I forgive you and I want you to ask God to forgive you, because if it hadn't been God's will, it wouldn't have been done

Crisis Is Seen In Abdullah's Assassination

Jordan's King Was Friend Of Britain

JERUSALEM, July 20—Jordan's King Abdullah, a friend of Britain who wielded strong force in the Arab world, was assassinated today beside a Mosque in old Jerusalem.

The slaying, on territory Abdullah took over in the Palestine War and ruled as "King Of Jerusalem," brought a new political crisis to the troubled Middle East.

The 69-year-old ruler was cut down by pistol bullets as he was going to pray at the tomb of his father at noon on the Moslem Sabbath.

He had claimed he was the oldest living descendant of the Prophet Mohammed.

He was born in Mecca, and he died on an inner doorstep of the Aqsa Mosque in the compound of the towering Mosque of Omar that embraces the Dome of the Rock. Koranic scripture says Mohammed rose to heaven on a white horse from the rock.

Assassin Is Slain

The assassin was killed on the spot by Abdullah's bodyguard.

An official announcement later said the assassin was a 21-year-old Jerusalem Moslem tailor named Mustapha Shukry Ashsho, or Ashou. The Arab News Agency and other sources said he was a member of the "sabotage corps" or "demolition squad" of an underground group called "The Sacred Struggle Organization." Two high-ranking officers wounded.

An earlier report from informed British sources identified the killer as Mustafa Shakir and said he had past connections with the exiled former Mufti of Jerusalem, now living in Cairo.

There was a feeling that his assassination was a clear blow to the prospects for continued negotiation between Jordan and Isreal. He was the only Arab ruler who dealt with Israel in the past three years.

Abdullah's body was flown back to Amman.

The vigorous, bearded king, 5 feet, 4 tall, had been at odds with his Arab neighbor monarchs from time to time over the years. Abdullah was a first world war ally of Lawrence of Arabia and a protege of Winston Churchill on the checkerboard of Mid-East politics.

The Jordan radio in Abdullah's capital, Amman, announced his 35-year-old second son, Emir (Prince) Naif was immediately named regent to rule over the 300,000 Jordan subjects. The radio then began Jordan's official mourning period with verses from the Koran chanted by the Nullahs (Moslem Priests).

Includes Old Jerusalem

The Jordan rule also includes Old Jerusalem and a slice of Palestine won by Abdullah's British-supported Arab legion in the war against the Israelis in the late 1940s.

Abdullah's assassination was the second involving Jordan within a week.

Riad El Solh, Lebanon's ex-premiar and strong man in the wars for Lebanese independence, was slain in Amman after a visit and dinner last weekend with Abdullah. The three assassins were identified as semi-Fascist Syrian-Lebanese Nationalists who stalked El Solh to Abdullah's capital. One

State To Probe Red Congress

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Three trustees of the Civil Rights Congress bail fund, financial "angel" of arrested Communists, were called on today to testify Wednesday in a State Banking Investigation into the fund.

State Supreme Court Justice Henry Clay Greenberg signed writs of habeas corpus calling on the warden of the Federal House of Detention to produce them at that time.

All three are serving contempt of court sentences for refusing to identify contributors to the fund, which forfeited $80,000 bond when four convicted Communist leaders jumped bail early this month.

The three trustees are Frederick Vanderbilt Field, millionaire leftist; Dashiell Hammett, author of the "Thin Man" and Dr. W. Alphaeus Hunton, a Negro scholar.

Attorneys for the fund contend that the investigation by the state banking superintendent is simply another way of trying to uncover identities of the contributors.

The investigators say they are looking into possible violations of a state banking law which prohibits the soliciting or receiving of deposits —in this case the contributions— without authorization.

RAPED, SLAIN — Janet Clark, 17, was found brutally slain at Champaign, Ill., yesterday in her home where police said her nude body was found in her father's bedroom with 45 stab wounds apparently inflicted by a leather awl. She had been raped and a man's necktie was knotted around her throat.

Crime Probe Witness Is Threatened

Francis L. Smith Gets Death Notice

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — The Senate Crime Committee said today a witness in its probe of Atlantic City gambling had become the target of a death threat. It promptly enlisted the aid of the FBI.

The witness, Francis L. Smith, appeared before the committee shortly after disclosure of the warning that he would be "rubbed out" if he testified.

Smith, a slight, sandy-haired man who operated a game of chance on Atlantic City's boardwalk, told of making a $250 "contribution" two years ago to State Senator Frank S. Farley, the Republican leader there.

Armed Capitol police sat by as he testified.

Chairman O'Conor (D-Md) of the crime committee said that police protection was being provided for Smith and his family while FBI agents investigated the threat against his life.

Praised by O'Conor for having the "guts" to testify, Smith identified Herman "Sumpy" Orman as the man with the real say as to whether various types of games operated in the city.

Other witnesses in the two-day hearing, which ended in late afternoon, described Orman as the gambling kingpin in the resort city. Orman denied it.

It was while Orman was being questioned that Richard Moser, the crime committee's chief counsel, disclosed the threat against Smith's life.

"Last night," said Moser, "a man named Joe Ryan, a jewelry salesman, walked into Smith's store and told the girl behind the counter to tell Smith that if he testified before the crime committee against Mr. Orman he is going to be rubbed out."

Wholesale Prices Drop Half Per Cent

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — Wholesale prices, as measured by the government, dropped another one half of one per cent during the week ended July 17. This was the seventh straight week prices have declined.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, reporting this, said its price index was 178.8 per cent of the 1926 average. This was 14 per cent above the average before the Korean War started.

Final Voting On The Measure Is Expected Soon In House

Anti-Administration Forces Score

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—Administration forces in the House tonight delivered three sudden and unexpected knockout blows to proposed major curbs on the administration's price control authority, notably including a freeze on wage-price ceilings and a "reasonable profit" amendment.

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—Anti-administration forces rolled up a series of thumping victories in the House controls fight tonight and reaffirmed a decision to limit farm price rollbacks, including beef, to 10 per cent of the May 19 price.

This would ban the two rollbacks of 4½ per cent each on live beef prices ordered by Price Director Michael V. DiSalle, They had been scheduled to go into effect on Aug. 1 and Oct. 1, following up a recent 10 per cent rollback.

It would also prevent any rollbacks at all on farm products selling below parity—the government-set formula for assuring farmers a fair return on their products in relation to the things they buy.

Farm products selling above parity would be subject to rollbacks.

However, with a few exceptions, almost all farm products are now selling below parity.

With a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats in absolute control, the Chamber voted 234 to 183 on a name-recording rollcall to ban more than the present 10 per cent rollback on beef prices.

Earlier, the House beat down administration forces in other critical tests centering on amendments previously approved on a tentative basis.

The House refused to reverse its previous action banning livestock slaughtering quotas which the Truman Administration contended are needed to prevent a revival of World War II black markets.

The roll call vote against the quotas was 249 to 167. Foes of the quotas contended they actually encourage black markets by restricting the business of legitimate slaughterers.

Shortly before, the Chamber had dealt the administration another defeat when it voted 265 to 148 to write in a two-year curb on the import of fats, oils, peanuts, butter, cheese, and other dairy products if they compete with domestic products.

Anti-administration forces rolled up another smashing majority on a third test when the House 232 to 184 to stand pat on its previous refusal to empower President Truman to acquire and operate defense plants.

A coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats was completely in the driver's seat in all three votes.

Republican spokesmen contended the defense plant authority proposed for the President was so broad it would conceivably lead to nationalization of industry and would give Mr Truman "life and death" powers over business.

Later the House reaffirmed its stand against granting President Truman authority to create new government corporations to carry out defense production and eco-

Mason Admits Taking Money In "Con" Probe

Fleeced His Victims Of Over $88,000

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) —The fabulous Sam Mason admitted today that he tapped "clients" for thousands in "sewer money" on promise to bribe Washington officials.

"But," he asked senators, "what's wrong with that?"

In answer, a Senate investigating committee turned over his testimony to the Justice Department and Internal Revenue Bureau, with a view to prosecution.

Russian-Born "Con Man"

The committee has charged that Mason fleeced "gullible victims," including two Greek Catholic priests, out of a third of a million dollars.

Most of it was supposed to be used in lining up bargain dollar-a-year leases on government buildings. There would be a lot of buildings available, he told his clients, because the government was going underground to escape an atomic attack.

The committee said the 59-year-old Mason of New York, is really a Russian-born confidence man by the name of Mussman with a criminal record a yard long.

Mason, who said he once stuffed money into his hollow wooden leg, testified he had taken $88,000 from "clients" but said he had turned over most of the money to a mysterious "Mr. Eungart," now in Australia.

He also admitted he had not filed an income tax return since 1929 because he never had any money left at the end of the year. He said he lost a lot on the ponies.

Mason Testifies Calmly

The pudgy, florid-faced witness spoke calmly in a gutteral voice.

The committee included in its testimony a criminal record attributed to Mason under the name of Mussman. It dates from 1922 and includes a long list of indictments and charges for mail fraud, bogus stock deals and larceny. At least two jail sentences are included, the last one a three to four year term at Charlestown, Mass., for larceny. The man was released in November, 1946, and apparently has a clean record ever since.

Fireman Is Killed, 50 Persons Injured

CHICAGO, July 20 (AP)—An explosion in a burning South Side building today killed a fireman and injured many other persons.

About 50 persons, mostly children, were cut by flying glass when windows were blown out by the explosion. The fire took place in a busy shopping neighborhood.

The fireman who lost his life was Edward Paulson.

He and other firemen were on the roof of the building when the blast occurred. It shattered windows in other stores in the block. Some of the dozen badly injured also were cut by glass.

The blaze attacked a row of small stores on the East Side of Ashland Avenue. They are housed in the same building.

American Legion Head Says Russia Air Force Greatest

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—Erle Cocke, American Legion national commander, said tonight the United States is a second-class air power.

Russia has 7,000 modern jet fighters, he said, against no more than 2,000 for this country.

In bomber and freight production, Russia is outbuilding the U. S. at a ratio of 4 to 1, said Cocke, and the Red Air Force has more than 1,000 bombers like the B-29s which "can reach America" with Russian atomic bombs.

In an address prepared for a Legion department convention here, Cocke declared:

"This is a frightening picture. But more frightening is the fact that it will take us until 1954 to match the Russians in the air."

He said "the Air Force build-up from 48 to 97 groups has virtually stopped" at an 87-group level attained the first of this month. Planes which were in storage for equipping new groups have been exhausted and new groups cannot be equipped until new planes come off production lines. He added that:

"About half of the combat planes in our combat units today are obsolete. In the event of war you would be sending your husbands, brothers and sons into battle with second-rate equipment."

Cocke contended Russian air strength clearly demonstrates that the 95-group goal for the U. S. is inadequate and said the Legion supports an increase in both Air Force and Naval aviation.

"To do this," he said, "an Air Force of 150 groups with 20,000 first-line combat planes is the rock-bottom minimum. For the Navy, 7,000 first-line combat planes are required

HISTORIC MARYLAND SEAL IS SECURED—The replica of the seal of Maryland, which was in the ceiling of the House of Representatives in Washington from 1857 to 1949, has been turned over to Maryland through the effort of Rep. J. Glenn Beall. Congress authorized the transfer of the state seal in the old ceiling to the various states when the House Chamber was renovated in 1950, and Rep. Beall immediately took steps to secure the 92-year-old seal for Maryland archives. Rep. Beall invited members of the Maryland Congressional delegation to attend the transfer ceremnoy in the capitol. Left to right are: Rep. Lansdale G. Sasscer, Rep. Beall, Rep. George H. Fallon, Davis Lynn, capitol architect who made the transfer, Secretary of State John H. Reeves of Maryland, who accepted the seal, Rep. Edward A. Garmatz, Rep. Edward T. Miller, and Rep. James P. S. Devereux.

Maryland State 4-H Club Fair To Be Held One Week Earlier

Maryland's State 4-H Club Fair will be held on week earlier with this years dates set at August 28-September 2. The announcement was made by Mylo S. Downey, state boys club leader at his College Park office.

Downey listed several advantages connected with the change in schedules. First of all, the youngsters taking part in the earlier-scheduled Fair will not have to miss the opening of schools as in previous years.

Secondly, less time will be required for judges to place the 4-H classes. Therefore, the animals may be removed from the grounds in three days instead of being kept at the Fair for six days as in previous years.

A third advantage given by Downey is that 4-H members will now be able to judge their animals' worth in the 4-H competition before making the decision to enter them in the open classes. Club members may register for the open classes as late as Friday afternoon, August 31.

These factors, says Downey, are expected to encourage more 4-H'ers to participate in the State Fair this year. He estimated that approximately 600 boys and girls will enter exhibits, in contrast with the 450 who usually take part.

In order that Fair-goers may see the 4-H winners and their animals during the second weeks of the Timonium event, a barn will be set aside to house the champion Club animals. This barn will be called the "4-H Hall of Champions.'

Post Office Fund Cut Is Defeated

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—The Senate today defeated, 30 to 28, a proposal to trim $36,100,000 from Post Office Department funds for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The vote followed a long debate, covering such things as whether the postman could increase his efficiency by making his rounds on a tricycle.

Former Senate Candidate Named In Jobs Probe

Forrest Jackson One Of Trio Arrested

JACKSON, Miss., July 20 (AP) — Three persons, including a former candidate for U. S. Senator, were arrested today on charges of conspiring to sell Federal jobs in Mississippi.

The trio were Forrest Jackson, who once ran for U. S. Senator and an important political figure in Mississippi; and Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Murphy, key witnesses at a U. S. Senate sub-committee investigation into alleged job sales here last April.

Each posted $2,500 bond and was ordered to appear in Federal Court here Sept. 5.

The three were among an undisclosed number indicted yesterday by a Federal Grand Jury after an eight-day investigation into reported job sales. The special grand jury started its investigation after a Senate sub-committee held open hearings both here and in Washington.

Jackson was attorney for the pro-Truman Democratic committee in Mississippi—a rump committee formed after the regular Democratic organization bolted the party to join states rights ranks in 1948.

The pro-Truman committee was accused of soliciting contributions in return for Federal job recommendations.

Mrs. Murphy was a committee member and her husband a former mail carrier.

Eckert Cleared Of Gaming Charge

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., July 20 (AP) — Paul Eckert, of Baltimore, was cleared of charges of conspiring to violate Maryland's gambling laws at Bowie race track in a directed verdict today by Judge J. Dudley Digges.

The Judge handed down his decision in Prince Georges County Circuit Court here in the absence of the jury after the state had rested its case and defense had moved for a directed dismissal of charges against all six who are standing trial.

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Saturday, July 21 (AP) — The Korean War was weathered in Friday.

Rains cut sharply into air operations. Bombers, sighting targets by radar through heavy clouds, attacked railroad yards in North Korea but were unable to observe results.

The biggest ground action reported was between attacking Allied elements and a company of Reds defending dug-in positions northwest of Yanggu in East-Central Korea. An Eighth Army communique last night said the fight began at 11 a. m. and was continuing at last reports.

nomic controls tasks. By a roll call vote of 250 to 167, it sustained an amendment by Rep Hardy (D-Va) knocking the requested authority from the bill.

Before final voting began the House shouted down a move to abolish all credit controls but voted 140-43 to allow 21 months instead of the present 15 months for completing payments on new and used automobiles.

Before starting final rollcalls, the House approved a committee amendment allowing a 20 per cent increase in rents over figures based on June 30, 1947. This follows the Senate bill. The provision applies in areas which are under rent control.

The Chamber shouted down a proposal by Rep. Multer (D-NY) to put a 120-day freeze on rent to conform with the freeze it has voted on wag and price ceilings, and another by Rep. Kennedy (D-Mass) to make the rent increase 10 per cent instead of 20 per cent.

The House also voted additional easing of credit controls on household appliances, furniture and home repairs.

Permits Trade-Ins

It would permit trade-ins to count toward down-payments on household appliances—television sets and the like. It also voted to lower the down payment on such articles from the present 25 per cent to 15 per cent, and to raise the maximum time for payment from 15 months to 18 months.

Installment credits on household furniture and flood coverings were changed from 15 per cent to 10 per cent down payment, and from 15 months to 21 months to pay.

The down payment on household repairs was left at 10 per cent, but the maximum time for payment was hiked from 30 months to 36 months. In case of roofing and siding, down payments were eliminated entirely.

Moving at top speed, the House voted to liberalize down payments on homes on an amendment by Rep. Denton (D-Ind. This would require prospective home owners to pay no more than 10 per cent down on houses costing up to $10,000 with 25 years to pay.

was killed by an Arab legion officer, another killed himself and the third escaped.

One of Abdullah's last acts was a speech condemning assassination as a political instrument.

The king himself, a bundle of energy who always wore the flowing robes and headgear of Araby and strictly observed the Islamic taboos against liquor and tobacco, led his legion on the battlefronts of Eastern Palestine.

In 1948, Palestinian Arabs proclaimed him King of all Palestine. He and his Egyptian, Syrian and other allies failed to take Palestine against the Zionists but Abdullah got what he wanted most out of it.

That was old Jerusalem and its Moslem shrines. He pledged himself to protect the Christian and Jewish holy places as well.

Abdullah's kingdom formerly was part of the British-administered, League of Nations mandate of Palestine. Jordan was split off and Abdullah became its king in 1946.

HISTORIC MARYLAND SEAL IS SECURED—The replica of the seal of Maryland, which was in the ceiling of the House of Representatives in Washington from 1857 to 1949, has been turned over to Maryland through the effort of Rep. J. Glenn Beall. Congress authorized the transfer of the state seal in the old ceiling to the various states when the House Chamber was renovated in 1950, and Rep. Beall immediately took steps to secure the 92-year-old seal for Maryland archives. Rep. Beall invited members of the Maryland Congressional delegation to attend the transfer ceremnoy in the capitol. Left to right are: Rep. Lansdale G. Sasscer, Rep. Beall, Rep. George H. Fallon, Davis Lynn, capitol architect who made the transfer, Secretary of State John H. Reeves of Maryland, who accepted the seal, Rep. Edward A. Garmatz, Rep. Edward T. Miller, and Rep. James P. S. Devereux.

Maryland State 4-H Club Fair To Be Held One Week Earlier

Maryland's State 4-H Club Fair will be held on week earlier with this years dates set at August 28-September 2. The announcement was made by Mylo S. Downey, state boys club leader at his College Park office.

Downey listed several advantages connected with the change in schedules. First of all, the youngsters taking part in the earlier-scheduled Fair will not have to miss the opening of schools as in previous years.

Secondly, less time will be required for judges to place the 4-H classes. Therefore, the animals may be removed from the grounds in three days instead of being kept at the Fair for six days as in previous years.

A third advantage given by Downey is that 4-H members will now be able to judge their animals' worth in the 4-H competition before making the decision to enter them in the open classes. Club members may register for the open classes as late as Friday afternoon, August 31.

These factors, says Downey, are expected to encourage more 4-H'ers to participate in the State Fair this year. He estimated that approximately 600 boys and girls will enter exhibits, in contrast with the 450 who usually take part.

In order that Fair-goers may see the 4-H winners and their animals during the second weeks of the Timonium event, a barn will be set aside to house the champion Club animals. This barn will be called the "4-H Hall of Champions.'

Post Office Fund Cut Is Defeated

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—The Senate today defeated, 30 to 28, a proposal to trim $36,100,000 from Post Office Department funds for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The vote followed a long debate, covering such things as whether the postman could increase his efficiency by making his rounds on a tricycle.

Former Senate Candidate Named In Jobs Probe

Forrest Jackson One Of Trio Arrested

JACKSON, Miss., July 20 (AP) — Three persons, including a former candidate for U. S. Senator, were arrested today on charges of conspiring to sell Federal jobs in Mississippi.

The trio were Forrest Jackson, who once ran for U. S. Senator and an important political figure in Mississippi; and Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Murphy, key witnesses at a U. S. Senate sub-committee investigation into alleged job sales here last April.

Each posted $2,500 bond and was ordered to appear in Federal Court here Sept. 5.

The three were among an undisclosed number indicted yesterday by a Federal Grand Jury after an eight-day investigation into reported job sales. The special grand jury started its investigation after a Senate sub-committee held open hearings both here and in Washington.

Jackson was attorney for the pro-Truman Democratic committee in Mississippi—a rump committee formed after the regular Democratic organization bolted the party to join states rights ranks in 1948.

The pro-Truman committee was accused of soliciting contributions in return for Federal job recommendations.

Mrs. Murphy was a committee member and her husband a former mail carrier.

Eckert Cleared Of Gaming Charge

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., July 20 (AP) — Paul Eckert, of Baltimore, was cleared of charges of conspiring to violate Maryland's gambling laws at Bowie race track in a directed verdict today by Judge J. Dudley Digges.

The Judge handed down his decision in Prince Georges County Circuit Court here in the absence of the jury after the state had rested its case and defense had moved for a directed dismissal of charges against all six who are standing trial.

nomic controls tasks. By a roll call vote of 250 to 167, it sustained an amendment by Rep Hardy (D-Va) knocking the requested authority from the bill.

Before final voting began the House shouted down a move to abolish all credit controls but voted 140-43 to allow 21 months instead of the present 15 months for completing payments on new and used automobiles.

Before starting final rollcalls, the House approved a committee amendment allowing a 20 per cent increase in rents over figures based on June 30, 1947. This follows the Senate bill. The provision applies in areas which are under rent control.

The Chamber shouted down a proposal by Rep. Multer (D-NY) to put a 120-day freeze on rent to conform with the freeze it has voted on wag and price ceilings, and another by Rep. Kennedy (D-Mass) to make the rent increase 10 per cent instead of 20 per cent.

The House also voted additional easing of credit controls on household appliances, furniture and home repairs.

Permits Trade-Ins

It would permit trade-ins to count toward down-payments on household appliances—television sets and the like. It also voted to lower the down payment on such articles from the present 25 per cent to 15 per cent, and to raise the maximum time for payment from 15 months to 18 months.

Installment credits on household furniture and flood coverings were changed from 15 per cent to 10 per cent down payment, and from 15 months to 21 months to pay.

The down payment on household repairs was left at 10 per cent, but the maximum time for payment was hiked from 30 months to 36 months. In case of roofing and siding, down payments were eliminated entirely.

Moving at top speed, the House voted to liberalize down payments on homes on an amendment by Rep. Denton (D-Ind. This would require prospective home owners to pay no more than 10 per cent down on houses costing up to $10,000 with 25 years to pay.

Court House Records Funds Available

New Equipment Can Be Obtained

The office of the Maryland comptroller has approved a recommendation by Associate Judges George Henderson and Morgan C. Harris for funds relative to making improvements at the Court House.

A letter to this effect was read at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

The comptroller's office has approved a request for $1,200 for the purchase of new roller shelves to be used in keeping of records.

To Make Photostats

In addition, $6,000 has been allotted towards the cost of installing a photostatic machine to take care of recordings in the offices of the clerk of the court and register of wills.

The letter, signed by Joseph McCusker, chief deputy of the Office of the Comptroller, says: "We believe this represents a big step forward in recording work."

Photostatic equipment has been installed in a number of offices with successful results, the communication points out. Such equipment is being used at Rockville, Upper Marlboro and Annapolis. Baltimore county has ordered the same equipment and will be making photostats within the next 60 days.

Cost Advances

The comptroller's office suggests that Clerk of the Court Joseph E. Boden contact other clerks of the court who have installed this equipment to get the benefit of their views.

The money from the state is to be withheld from the fees of Boden's office for the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1951.

Judge Henderson said yesterday afternoon that he had just learned that a photostatic machine, of the type which has been used in the court at Uniontown, Pa., for several years, can now be obtained for $10,300.

At yesterday's meeting, the commissioners discussed with Judge Henderson some proposed changes at the Court House, including revamping of the basement.

To Clean Basement

William Lemmert, chairman of the Board of Commissioners, said the basement will have to be cleaned before any decision is made as to the relocation of various rooms and offices.

That, of course, means a number of old records will have to be burned or disposed of in some manner. Judge Henderson said before any disposition is made of old records, they must be offered to the Hall of Records in Annapolis. "They can only be destroyed," he declared, "after certain laws are complied with."

Clerk of the Court Boden hails the approval of the purchase of photostatic equipment as "the biggest improvement we've had here in years," pointing out that it will expedite work in Court House offices and at the same time increase their efficiency.

Preliminary work in clearing the basement is expected to begin next week.

County Will Receive Bids On Repair Work

Separate sealed bids will be received by the Board of County Commissioners until August 10 on proposals for three projects.

The projects in question are the repairing of the south side of the county jail, repairing all windows in the County Welfare Building and alterations and installation of fire escape on the County Home.

Further information may be obtained from James G. Stevenson, clerk to the commissioners.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

When Gloria Lloyd, who not so long ago was one of the buds in my bouquet of long-stemmed beauties and now has blossomed into a Hollywod starlet, made a flying visit to New York I cornered her for a contribution to the model talk that goes on in this column.

As the daughter of my friend Harold Lloyd, I knew I could depend on Gloria for some pointers on how to win in the charm sweepstakes.

Starlet's Secret

"How about leading off with what you consider the most important secret of charm," I prodded.

"That's easy!" said Gloria. "Remembering that the eyes of someone are always on you is the best spur to charm a woman can have. If she keeps that in mind she'll always try to make sure that her posture, clothes and grooming are the best that she can muster. 'It doesn't matter' is a thought that will just never enter her head when it's something that concerns her actions, appearance or speech. With that as an approach to her life no woman can fail to charm."

"Is that what you do?" I inquired.

"Of course! Isn't that what you told me to do when I was a neophyte Powers Girl? It's a principle I've followed always. To carry it out, a girl has to be studying all of the time to learn as much as she can if she is going to keep herself attractive to the eyes and the ears of her world. And the best part of it is that you can't pursue that sort of program and be bored for a minute; you're just too busy keeping up with the world."

Most Valuable Accessory

Sagacious girl, that Gloria! "What do the other starlets think about such matters?" I asked.

"Every single one has a serious program for self improvement; they believe in the model ways just as much as I do. And believe me, they know the value of good grooming! I think it's the most valuable accessory to charm a woman can possess."

"What! More valuable than jewels or furs!" I said with all the mock shock I could muster.

"More valuable than a mink coat in January!" affirmed lovely Gloria.

County Receives Road Complaints

Complaints about the condition of roads throughout the county continue to mount.

At yesterday morning's meeting of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners a number of protests from citizen committees was aired.

J. French VanMeter, judge of the Orphans Court, speaking in behalf of residents of Brant Road, pointed out the road is filled with big holes and urged early repair.

Board Chairman William H. Lemmert said the heavy snows and ice of the past winter has slowed county roads work considerably and promised Van Meter repairs on the Brant Road would be made "just as soon as humanly possible."

Commissioner Holmes added that Brant Road is on the list of those in bad need of repair and said it will be taken care of.

Louis Hartsock told the commissioners Perrin Road, off Route 40, is almost impassable due to the holes and ruts. J. Walter Chapman, supervisor of the County Roads Department, said Perrin Road is next on the list to be fixed and added work will start either Tuesday or Wednesday.

A. L. Comer, Braddock Farms, said heavy rains and subsequent high water have resulted in water undermining an abutment of a bridge and wall along his property. Chapman said he will investigate the complaint immediately.

The State Roads Commission notified the county that in preparing condemnation plats for resurfacing work on Williams Road it would be necessary to determine the width of the existing right-of-way.

Examination of title abstracts, a letter states, shows in several instances a right-of-way of 50 feet. The state roads body wants information relative to the dedicated width or other secured right of way. The matter was referred to Chapman.

4-H Farm Boys To Attend State Conservation Camp

Maryland 4-H farm boys will have an entire week of camp life and valuable conservation training when they attend the State 4-H Conservation Camp at Pleasant Valley, Bittinger, next week. Nearly 100 outstanding 4-H boys from all 23 counties have been selected to take part in the event.

The five-day program is divided into three parts—the boys will be taught soil and water conservation, wildlife and fishery management, and forestry. Specialists from federal and state as well as private organizations will be on hand to instruct the group. All teaching will be done by demonstrations, lectures, and tours.

Harry W. Dengler, extension forester, and W. Sherard Wilson, assistant state boys club leader, are in charge of the camp.

Tuesday has been named as "Wildlife Conservation Day" and the boys, all of whom are required to be at least 15 years old, will be taught identification of ducks, song birds, and wild game animals common to the Maryland area. Proper methods of trapping farm furbearers will be stressed, along with the skinning of the animals and curing of hides.

Game Wardens will demonstrate how wild rabbits are trapped in areas where they are too abundant. The live animals trapped at the camp are to be released in areas where rabbits are scarce to replenish the supply. The 4-H'ers will also learn how to develop game refuges on farms by planting food and cover plants.

Identification of fish and the types of food they feed on will be taken up in the study of fish management. Part of this instruction will include the actual seining of a lake at the camp.

Other subjects taken up will be the management and improvement of fishing conditions in farm ponds and streams. The young anglers will also be taught the proper methods of fishing, even to tying flies.

On the day set aside for soil conservation instruction, the club members will tour a number of Garrett county farms, inspecting terraces, diversion ditches, contour pastures, and strip cropping.

As part of their forestry studies the boys will learn how to plant trees for reforestration, windbreaks, and for use as Christmas trees. They will also be shown the latest equipment and techniques for controlling disastrous forest fires.

Highlighting the camp will be periods set aside for swimming instruction, rifle marksmanship practice, and the exhibition of various firearms. A log-sawing contest and various sports are also scheduled.

4-H Farm Boys To Attend State Conservation Camp

Maryland 4-H farm boys will have an entire week of camp life and valuable conservation training when they attend the State 4-H Conservation Camp at Pleasant Valley, Bittinger, next week. Nearly 100 outstanding 4-H boys from all 23 counties have been selected to take part in the event.

The five-day program is divided into three parts—the boys will be taught soil and water conservation, wildlife and fishery management, and forestry. Specialists from federal and state as well as private organizations will be on hand to instruct the group. All teaching will be done by demonstrations, lectures, and tours.

Harry W. Dengler, extension forester, and W. Sherard Wilson, assistant state boys club leader, are in charge of the camp.

Tuesday has been named as "Wildlife Conservation Day" and the boys, all of whom are required to be at least 15 years old, will be taught identification of ducks, song birds, and wild game animals common to the Maryland area. Proper methods of trapping farm furbearers will be stressed, along with the skinning of the animals and curing of hides.

Game Wardens will demonstrate how wild rabbits are trapped in areas where they are too abundant. The live animals trapped at the camp are to be released in areas where rabbits are scarce to replenish the supply. The 4-H'ers will also learn how to develop game refuges on farms by planting food and cover plants.

Identification of fish and the types of food they feed on will be taken up in the study of fish management. Part of this instruction will include the actual seining of a lake at the camp.

Other subjects taken up will be the management and improvement of fishing conditions in farm ponds and streams. The young anglers will also be taught the proper methods of fishing, even to tying flies.

On the day set aside for soil conservation instruction, the club members will tour a number of Garrett county farms, inspecting terraces, diversion ditches, contour pastures, and strip cropping.

As part of their forestry studies the boys will learn how to plant trees for reforestration, windbreaks, and for use as Christmas trees. They will also be shown the latest equipment and techniques for controlling disastrous forest fires.

Highlighting the camp will be periods set aside for swimming instruction, rifle marksmanship practice, and the exhibition of various firearms. A log-sawing contest and various sports are also scheduled.

Bumper Crops

The Department of Agriculture at Washington reveals that bumper crops are being harvested, with both corn and wheat estimates up from the optimistic predictions of June 1. There will not be a shortage in a single food category.

The prediction now is that 3,295,143,000 bushels of corn and 1,070,132,000 bushels of wheat will be harvested this year. Aggregate crop production, based upon current forecasts, may exceed that of any year of record except 1948, the department says.

The indicated corn crop will be one of the largest in the nation's history. Corn is, of course, the key feed crop for livestock. Broken down, the predicted wheat crop consists of 706,749,000 bushels of winter wheat and 363,383,000 bushels of spring wheat. An increase of 1.4 bushels in indicated yield per acre, plus a 20 per cent increase in seeded acreage resulted in the substantial increase over previous estimates.

Oats production, it is estimated, will exceed the government goal of 1,350,000,000 bushels, while the barley crop, now placed at 262,590,000 bushels, will be 11 per cent below the goal.

Pessimistic reports of crop damage are not being borne out by harvest tallies, and this is something for Americans to be thankful for. A plentiful supply of food at reasonable prices can be achieved only by full scale crop production, and farm prosperity that is based on adequate supplies instead of scarcities is the most firmly founded.

Inflation Note

This may be good news, or bad. It is one of those items that are difficult to evaluate. From Washington, of course.

It seems one government department is about to lay off 300 of the help. On August 10, that is. Technological advancement has made their services kaput. They will no longer be needed, and Uncle Sam wants them off the payroll.

That sounds like a deflation note, and good news for the taxpayers. If the government laid off more of the help, and spent less money, prices might stop going up. Cheapening of the dollar would be halted.

But wait. The 300 employees worked in the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, where they slipsheeted paper money as it was printed—so it wouldn't smudge. Now some genius has invented a quick-drying ink that makes it possible for fast presses to spew out the money in heaps with no danger of smudging. And no slipsheeting is necessary.

But if the government can now print paper money much faster than ever, is that good? Will that provide a brake for inflation.

It all depends upon what use the government makes of its new-found power—whether it learns to know its own strength. If it uses self-restraint and lets the presses cool off between billions, the net result of this advancement in the printing art should be good.

Damming The Flow

Russian and Russian-satellite military planners and industrialists are having more difficulty than previously in getting data on U. S. production, processes, specifications, models. Behind the Iron Curtain, anybody gathering such data would be subject to trial for industrial espionage. But this kind of information is still available to a large extent in the various trade periodicals and technical journals sold openly in this country.

The U. S. Department of Commerce requires an export license for the shipment of such publications to the Soviet bloc. But the journals can still go through the international mails.

The export of war-potential goods to Russia and its satellites "has long been embargoed not only by the U. S., but by . . . most of the free world," Presidential Press Secretary Short declared on June 15. Short was explaining the President's action in suspending the ban of the Kem amendment on economic aid to nations supplying Russia with war materials.

Even if a practicable method of stopping the flow of technical publications could be devised, they could still be sent by diplomatic pouch. But the flow runs two ways. As long as diplomatic relations between Russia and the U. S. are maintained, similar information reaches this country through diplomatic channels.

No Other Peace Like It

The peace treaty which the Allies, under the leadership of the United States, have proposed for Japan is, indeed, a unique document. For the first time in history a nation which started a war and waged it relentlessly is to go unpunished in any substantial way.

The treaty does strip the Japanese of their overseas holdings, including Formosa and various Pacific Islands, but it permits them to rearm, to build up their industries, and otherwise to regain their status as people of a sovereign country.

Of the 50-odd nations which were officially at war with Japan enough have approved the principles of the new treaty to make acceptance certain. The Russians had a plan of their own for establishing peace but were bluntly told they were out of order. The world is going along without them and fortunately they enjoy no veto power.

The Philippines are disappointed because they will receive no rations. Whether they will sign the treaty is a matter of speculation.

Otherwise the nations of the world are prepared to try the experience of a "peace of reconciliation." Whatever happens, it can have no worse results than have followed some peace treaties of the past.

Camps And Kids

This life-begins-at-40 routine is well enough for the old folks at home. But any discerning person from seven to 17 can set you straight on that. Life really begins on that long awaited day, when, with bags packed and fluttering parents giving parting and unheard advice, you finally arrive at railroad station or bus terminal to set off for camp.

It doesn't matter especially what camp, or where it's located. Near or far there are endless Pottawatamies, Cherokees, Onondagas and Shadybrooks to choose from. The locale may vary, also the rates. Otherwise the octane content of each is much the same—crew cuts, freckles, flashing grins, noisy and high.

Yes, indeed, school's out and it's heigh for the merry green woods. The trail awaits the hiker, the water's fine, the fish may or may not bite on your line. Happy days are here again.

See you later, mom; so long, pop.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Care Of The Well Child

Periodic examination of children is becoming an American institution. The plan permits the physician to watch the growth and development of the youngster and affords the opportunity to see what the child is like when healthy to appreciate his condition when ill. It also gives the parents an opportunity to have their questions answered.

In the first year of life the infant should be taken to the physician at least every other month; in the next month, there are quarterly visits; and thereafter, twice annually until the boy or girl goes to school. This may seem like a waste of time and money but such checkups pay dividends that are not always apparent at first. The procedure is like having an architect supervise the building of a house; the physician supervises the child during the most formidable years of life.

In early infancy, feeding is an important consideration because minor deviations may have a lasting effect. During this stage the weight is watched carefully as well as the appearance of the baby. The physician also delves into the eating habits, sensitivity to foods, and the need for vitamin supplements. This is not difficult but its simplicity sometimes fosters neglect. At three months, prophylactic immunization for whooping cough, diphtheria, and tetanus are on the agenda. Vaccination for smallpox follows shortly thereafter.

Routine examinations also disclose abnormalities that may be remediable through early treatment. Congenital defects often escape detection at birth and several weeks may pass before they come to the attention of the physician. In the past, abnormalities of this type sometimes continued until they had progressed beyond the correctable stage. Nowadays surgeons have devised many new operations for defects of the heart, lungs, kidneys, bladder, and other organs.

Meanwhile the physician is watching develoment as well as growth. He is concerned with the muscle power and coordiation of the tike. Child guidance and mental hygiene also are offered under such a program. The mother benefits from the conferences as much as the child because she obtains many helpful hints along this line. Counseling on eating and sleeping habits is not too trivial to be discussed because such problems early in life may contribute to mental disturbances later. This is a form of prophylaxis that is just as vital as smallpox vaccination and diphtheria toxoid. It is surprising how many of us take parenthood for granted and neglect opportunities to learn more about the obligations and responsibilities that go along with being a father or mother. After all, the future of the youngster is at stake.

BAG BREATHING

H. C. writes: In your article on fast breathing due to nervousness, you state that breathing into and out of a paper bag often gives relief. How long should this be done and can a plastic bag be used?

REPLY

Rebreathing for several minutes at a time usually is sufficient and it makes no difference whether the bag is made of paper or plastic material. Everything is plastic nowadays except disease.

SCABIES

N. T. writes: Is it true that the itch lasts seven years?

REPLY

Not if the suffer is treated properly. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on scabies.

MOTTLED SKIN

N. W. writes: My physician has given me calcium and hormones for livedo reticularis but there is no improvement. Can you make any additional suggestions?

REPLY

Not if your physician has done a metabolism test and has made general recommendations concerning poor circulation. If the skin is mottled to such an extent that it is unsightly the lesions can be camouflaged with cosmetics.

OATMEAL AND HEAT

Mrs. L. H. writes: Is there any truth in the idea that oatmeal is not good for one in the summer time? The supposition is that it heats the blood but I find it a good energy food and have never noticed any heating therefrom.

REPLY

There probably are more legends built around oatmeal than any other cereal. There is no more truth to the theory you inquire about than to the statement that "it sticks to the ribs." Like other foods it produces energy but it will not warm the blood to such an extent that the body will catch on fire.

Truman Stages "Fireside Chat" For Congressional Democrats; Solicits Criticism And Confides Hope For Peace; Committee Draws Criticism

WASHINGTON—It was kept out of the newspapers but President Truman had another of his confidential talks with members of Congress at Blair House over coffee and sandwiches some time ago. Most significant development at the session was a blast at William Boyle, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and an impassioned presidential plea for peace by the President.

Present at the meeting were Senators Clements of Kentucky, Hennings of Missouri, Humphrey of Minnesota, Murray of Montana, and Smathers of Florida; together with Representatives Boggs of Louisiana, Hays of Ohio, Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, and Yorty of California—all Democrats.

Truman opened the discussion by urging his guests to speak freely on any gripes they might be nursing. He is used to criticism, he said, after all the brickbats tossed at him following the ouster of MacArthur.

"I don't care what the newspapers or my Republican foes say about me," he declared. "All I hope is that I am able to settle this crisis without one American city being atom-bombed and without the destruction of civilization by a third world war.

"What people say about me is of no importance if I can prevent that. After all, I have no personal ambitions."

Then he added—with a grin:

"Ive gone as high as I can get. There's no future in this job."

Waxing serious again, the President stated that there is a crying need for more constructive criticism, and less mud-slinging and reckless vituperation, if the government is to serve the best interests of the American people on both the foreign and domestic fronts.

Gabrielson's Fees

"A lot of Democrats are peeved about the RFC investigation, but it is constructive to let the public know both sides of the inquiry," Truman remarked. "Anything less is a whitewash I proposed to reorganize the RFC some time ago, but I got little help or encouragement from Congress."

Looking at Congressman Hays of Ohio, he checked himself and added:

"I did get some important help from you. Your speech about those big fees received by Guy Gabrielson (Republican National Chairman) for getting RFC loans for the Carthage Hydrcol Company was a great job."

"The only thing that made me mad about my speech on Gabrielson's fees," Congressman Hays interrupted, "was that the Cleveland Plain Dealer insinuated that the information was planted on me by the Democratic National Committee.

"Planted!" continued Hays. "Imagine that! Why, the Democratic National Committee didn't have either the brains or initiative to dig it up."

"And while we're on the subject, Mr. President," said the Ohio Congressman, "let's talk about our own national committee. I personally think it's a disgrace to the Democratic party and ought to be reorganized from top to bottom.

"The Republican National Committee is always on its toes providing Republicans in Congress with ammunition against the Democrats, but what has Bill Boyle and his outfit ever done for us? The answer is nothing.

Cocktail Democrats

"The only time the Democratic National Committee staff shows any signs of-life is at the cocktail hour."

The President looked surprised, but made no comeback except to say that, while the National Committee had some weaknesses, it wasn't as bad as Hays painted it. He didn't drop the subject of the RFC, however, without a disparaging remark about Senator Fulbright, chief critic of the RFC.

"Everybody knows," remarked the President, "that Fulbright has written letters to the RFC himself in order to get loans for his friends"

When the conversation turned to General MacArthur, Boggs of Louisiana reminded Truman that California's Sam Yorty was the first to commend the President on the House floor for cracking down on the General.

"You know, I served as an officer on MacArthur's staff in the Pacific," observed Yorty, "and I know a lot about him. If anyone under MacArthur had been guilty of the brazen insubordination toward him that MacArthur displayed toward you, that man would have been court-martialed before you could bat an eye."

Acheson Defended

The President strongly defended Secretary of State Acheson, whom he called "the best secretary of state in 50 years." He added that it was not his responsibility to have a popular secretary of state, but one that is smart and able, especially when you have to deal with the Russians.

Truman suggested that, if Acheson's critics had to sit around the table with the Russians and negotiate with them, they would have a far greater respect for Acheson. The President also remarked that he has had "four secretaries of state all with the same policy," apparently meaning that the State Department is following his foreign policy and that the same policy will be followed no matter who is secretary of state.

The President also rehashed his foreign policy from the time he entered the White House, explaining that as a senator he had spent all his time on the Truman Committee investigating war scandals; so when he went into the White House, he had to bone up hurriedly on foreign policy.

Chinese Subterfuge

While the Communists were talking peace at Kaesong, they were shipping steel bridging equipment toward the front—equipment that has no use at the front except for crossing the Han River in anoher Communist drive to retake Seoul.

This is the first heavy bridging equipment that has shown up in North Korea. Shipped into the North Koreah port of Rashin from Russia, it was spotted by the Air Force on four railroad flatcars moving down the East Coast. Air Force planes bombed and strafed the train, succeeded in derailing it, but did not damage the bridging equipment.

A later air patrol, sent to finish the job, couldn't locate the four flatcars. They still may be en route toward the front, and later the Han River.

Consumers' Chance

By MARK SULLIVAN

The controversy in Congress over President Truman's request for continuation of controls and more of them is closely related to next year's Presidential and Congressional elections. But just how will the effect of the controversy work out in the campaign?

In the controversy, the most conspicuous issue was the rollback decreed by Price Controller DiSalle in the price paid farmers for beef cattle. This was strongly supported by the Administration, strongly opposed by farm organizations and by the farm bloc in Congress.

For several reasons this controversy was especially vivid to the great body of the country's consumers. It is true that a rollback in prices to a lower level is an extreme assertion of the power of government, more so than a mere freezing of existing prices. This accounted for some of the opposition in Congress. But the bulk of the opposition was a deference to interest of farmers. This is what consumers saw and were stirred by.

The price of beef is extravagantly high. It is much higher than even the level of artificial "parity prices" which have been brought about for most farm crops by the Department of Agriculture through operation of the price support law The price of beef is indefensible. Yet it was defended, conspicuously and with highly-organized vigor, by farm organizations. It was defended—in the sense that rollback of it was opposed—by farm bloc members of Congress who habitually accord with what farm organizations want.

Consumers Hit Hard

By all this, consumers were made vividly aware of the determination of farm organizations to hold onto advantages farmers have increasingly had during the last several years. At the same time the price of beef has been an especially vivid illustraion of the hardship to which the whole body of consumers generally has been subjected during several years by the government policy of price support of practically all farm products.

Altogether the debate in Congress about the rollback in prices of beef, has made food consumers aware more than ever before, of the conflict between their interest and the interest of farmers as a group. Consumers were made aware also that politically they are a neglected group; that in actions in Congress they do not have weight comparable to that of farmers as a group. This is a familiar fact. Some two years ago (August, 1949) Democratic House Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, speaking about a measure having to do with price support of farm crops, said almost plaintively: "It is about time that somebody in this debate say a few words for a forgotten class in America—the consumer.'

True, individual consumers can write letters to members of Congress and many do. But these do not have the focused force of an organized drive such as was conducted against the rollback in beef by Midwest branches of one of the great national farm organizations. As described by Mr. John W. Ball of the "Washington Post," Grass-roots meetings are..being held nightly in small farm communities ... Those present are urged to write their representatives and senators in Washington."

Farm Vote Important

Consumers have an opportunity in next year's election. Ever since the Presidential election of 1948, members of Congress belonging to both parties, and politicians generally, have remembered that President Truman won mainly through carrying mid-west farm states which previously had been strongly Republican. And they remember that Mr. Truman got this vote mainly by a promise that if elected he would bring about increased support of farm crops, partly through provision by the government of storage facilities for crops. That memoy had a large place in the present debate over the rollback in beef.

In the strictly farm states are nearly a hundred seats in the House of Representatives, and fully a hundred more seats are in states in which farmers have sufficient numbers to be decisive in elections. Both parties understand fully that the farm vote is extremely important in next year's election

But how is the voter to find his way in the maze of contradiction which the debate on the beef rollback has included: President Truman and his administration originated it, and this was a contrast with the strong appeal he made for the farm vote in 1948. At the same time in Congress a large number of Democrats, including some leaders, were for ending the rollback.

On the broad matter of price support for farm crops, over the years, consumers would find it hard to draw a line between the two parties Price support of farm crops, like the beef rollback, and like the other controls in the present debate, is pressure politics rather than party politics. Evidently consumers have not learned the art of pressure politics.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Treaty With Japan

No partisan politics should be permitted to interfere with the signing and ratification of the proposed Dulies treaty with Japan. This is a crucial document in the solution of our Asiatic problems. If the United States can have a line of friendly and allied nations, running unbrokenly from Japan to Australia and New Zealand, we should, at any rate, not be in peril of having the West Coast of territorial United States as our first line of defense.

The "Hongkong Standard," on June 27, called attention to the indisputable fact that the Communists did not start the Korean War merely to possess Korea. This newspaper said editorially:

"The attack on South Korea by the Korean Communists, even if it had been successful, would not have been an end in itself. It was obviously the intention of Russia to have all of Korea occupied as a springboard against Japan. The unexpected decision of the United Nations to defend the Republic of Korea by an international force may have upset Moscow's immediate plan of operation, but it has in no way discouraged Moscow from trying to conquer Japan through its satellites."

This same newspaper close to the scene and often expressive of Nationalist Chinese views, further says:

"The conquest of Japan may take either of two forms. The first is an uprising in Japan with the ready response of the Japanese prisoners of war now under Moscow's command and of the Korean and Chinese Communists. This was perhaps the original plan. The other is an open invasion of Japan by the Chinese Communists under the pretext that Peking has been barred from participating in the Japanese peace treaty or under any other pretext which Communist ingenuity may conceive of."

The State Department is pursuing sound policy in going ahead with the Japanese treaty without waiting for Russian approval. That approval would never be forthcoming by ordinary negotiation; it is doubtful whether there will be Russian participation in the San Francisco Conference. For, no matter how you look at it, the restoration of Japan among the nations and its rebuilding as a military base ipso facto weakens the power of Soviet Russia in Asia.

Japan had, prior to its defeat in 1945, a marked infiltration among the Chinese. Some of the most notable followers of Dr. Sun Yat-sen were pro-Japanese in the sense that they feared Russia more than Japan and they favored an "Asia for the Asiatics" movement. Wartime propaganda painted Wang Ching-wei, as a Japanese puppet, but, in the history of the Chinese movement toward liberty and independence, no figure was closer to Sun Yat-sen or more trusted by him. I was associated with Sun Yat-sen for many years and once carried a message from him to like-minded leaders in Japan.

It is impossible to believe that such a poignant relationship established over a period of 30 years has altogether been killed by war. Many of the older Chinese military men studied in Japan or in Japanese schools in China, particularly in Manchuria. The Chinese Communists are aware of this strong Japanese influence and have been liquidating hundreds of thousands of Chinese who have been under either Japanese or American, especially Christian, cultural influences. However, they would have to kill off many millions of Chinese, and at great speed, even to scratch the surface.

Besides, the Korean War has proved to be an almost fatal error from the Chinese Communist standpoint. They did not expect any resistance and certainly not the force of the resistance which first General MacArthur and then General Ridgway produced. Had they succeeded quickly in Korea they would undoubtedly have pushed into Burma and eventually Siam (Thailand). The significance of Burma is rice. If Soviet China could control the rice of Burma and subsequently Siam, it could reduce the hunger in China and even raise the standard of living of the Chinese people. As it is, every private report I have had from China speaks of hunger.

The standard of living of the Chinese is so low that the lessening of the rice supply has always produced revolution. It is internal revolution — what nowadays is called guerilla warfare — that is the real hope for China.

The Japanese have had a long and competent experience at that. A restored and independent Japan must be a great factor in the affairs of China. That country possesses extraordinarily able men, even now.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — What strange goings on in the world of diplomacy! Just a few short weeks ago the United States was rent asunder by the cry that when Britain and France say they want something done or that they want something undone, there must be no offending of our allies.

'Twas argued, too, that if America didn't go along with its allies, the allies wouldn't go along with us, and that we must not "go it alone."

Yet today, as Britain and France protest that they don't want America to get naval or air bases in Spain or have anything to do with the Franco government there, the United States goes ahead anyhow.

From both President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson come the firm policy that says bases in Spain are essential to collective defense and that, notwithstanding the protests of the British and French governments, an agreement will be made with the Franco government.

Going It Alone

Still ringing in the ears of members of Congress are the recent cries that overseas bases are so important that, if we ventured to assert our maximum force in Korea against their protests, we would be alienating our allies and that this would lose us bases in Europe Again and again administration members of the Joint Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees of the Senate hammered those points home as they interrogated witnesses in the MacArthur hearings. Again and again the "yes men" among the administration's witnesses solemnly concurred.

What has happened since? Are we now defying our allies, deserting our allies—and "going it alone"? or has the American government decided to do what it thinks is best for Europe's defense nothwithstanding the "left wing" protests that are powerful enough to stay the hand of the governments in both London and Paris?

For it doesn't make sense to be reading about opposition by Britain and France to military measures designed primarily to help protect them. They could offer the argument on the Far Eastern controversy that all military forces would be needed for Europe's defense and hence must not get bogged down in Asia. In this instance, the object is Europe's defense. So when internal politics now influences the policies of the British and French governments, it is inevitable that the American government, which is supplying the bulk of the money and the bulk of the naval and air power for Europe's defense, should finally decide to protect its own interests with adequate bases.

There is another strange thing about the British viewpoint. In the case of the diplomatic recognition and British sponsorship of Red China for admission into the UN, official spokesmen for Britain said again and again that, after all, ideological considerations are not vital in giving recognition and that the main criterion is whether a government is in military control of its territory. Certainly General Franco and his government have complete control of the territory of all Spain, Franco has been recognized—so why is his aid unwelcome?

As for military-assistance projects, the British-American plan to aid Tito in Yugoslavia brushes aside ideology, too. For he is still a Communist.

Hypocrisy Of Diplomacy

Such inconsistencies merely illustrate the hypocrisy of present-day diplomacy. The spectacle of the governments of Great Britain and France turning down a chance to get a 400,000-man army—as well as valuable bases beyond the Pyrenees, where big airfields can be operated in relative safety, affording a separate approach to Russian territory—is not one that the average American will understand. To the nonpolitical mind which isn't immersed in ideologies or politics, the matter of defenses is a cold-blooded problem of saving lives and building up military strength to prevent a world war.

Plenty will be said here in Congress about the strange behavior of the British and French governments in urging that America send troops to Europe while at the same time declining to make use of Franco's troops. Plenty will be heard about whether it is wise to continue furnishing more and more economic aid to Britain and France under the guise of stopping communism when the aid of the most powerful anti-Communist regime in Southern Europe is spurned.

These are certainly days of strange arguments but it is gratifying that the President and the Secretary of State are not being swayed by the viewpoint of the British Labor government. Who knows—maybe enough firmness will develop here to disregard also the protests of the British and French about a determined policy in the Far East. There may be occasion for this if the "cease fire" parleys turn out to be just a military tactic by the Communists.

Bumper Crops

The Department of Agriculture at Washington reveals that bumper crops are being harvested, with both corn and wheat estimates up from the optimistic predictions of June 1. There will not be a shortage in a single food category.

The prediction now is that 3,295,143,000 bushels of corn and 1,070,132,000 bushels of wheat will be harvested this year. Aggregate crop production, based upon current forecasts, may exceed that of any year of record except 1948, the department says.

The indicated corn crop will be one of the largest in the nation's history. Corn is, of course, the key feed crop for livestock. Broken down, the predicted wheat crop consists of 706,749,000 bushels of winter wheat and 363,383,000 bushels of spring wheat. An increase of 1.4 bushels in indicated yield per acre, plus a 20 per cent increase in seeded acreage resulted in the substantial increase over previous estimates.

Oats production, it is estimated, will exceed the government goal of 1,350,000,000 bushels, while the barley crop, now placed at 262,590,000 bushels, will be 11 per cent below the goal.

Pessimistic reports of crop damage are not being borne out by harvest tallies, and this is something for Americans to be thankful for. A plentiful supply of food at reasonable prices can be achieved only by full scale crop production, and farm prosperity that is based on adequate supplies instead of scarcities is the most firmly founded.

Inflation Note

This may be good news, or bad. It is one of those items that are difficult to evaluate. From Washington, of course.

It seems one government department is about to lay off 300 of the help. On August 10, that is. Technological advancement has made their services kaput. They will no longer be needed, and Uncle Sam wants them off the payroll.

That sounds like a deflation note, and good news for the taxpayers. If the government laid off more of the help, and spent less money, prices might stop going up. Cheapening of the dollar would be halted.

But wait. The 300 employees worked in the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, where they slipsheeted paper money as it was printed—so it wouldn't smudge. Now some genius has invented a quick-drying ink that makes it possible for fast presses to spew out the money in heaps with no danger of smudging. And no slipsheeting is necessary.

But if the government can now print paper money much faster than ever, is that good? Will that provide a brake for inflation.

It all depends upon what use the government makes of its new-found power—whether it learns to know its own strength. If it uses self-restraint and lets the presses cool off between billions, the net result of this advancement in the printing art should be good.

Damming The Flow

Russian and Russian-satellite military planners and industrialists are having more difficulty than previously in getting data on U. S. production, processes, specifications, models. Behind the Iron Curtain, anybody gathering such data would be subject to trial for industrial espionage. But this kind of information is still available to a large extent in the various trade periodicals and technical journals sold openly in this country.

The U. S. Department of Commerce requires an export license for the shipment of such publications to the Soviet bloc. But the journals can still go through the international mails.

The export of war-potential goods to Russia and its satellites "has long been embargoed not only by the U. S., but by . . . most of the free world," Presidential Press Secretary Short declared on June 15. Short was explaining the President's action in suspending the ban of the Kem amendment on economic aid to nations supplying Russia with war materials.

Even if a practicable method of stopping the flow of technical publications could be devised, they could still be sent by diplomatic pouch. But the flow runs two ways. As long as diplomatic relations between Russia and the U. S. are maintained, similar information reaches this country through diplomatic channels.

No Other Peace Like It

The peace treaty which the Allies, under the leadership of the United States, have proposed for Japan is, indeed, a unique document. For the first time in history a nation which started a war and waged it relentlessly is to go unpunished in any substantial way.

The treaty does strip the Japanese of their overseas holdings, including Formosa and various Pacific Islands, but it permits them to rearm, to build up their industries, and otherwise to regain their status as people of a sovereign country.

Of the 50-odd nations which were officially at war with Japan enough have approved the principles of the new treaty to make acceptance certain. The Russians had a plan of their own for establishing peace but were bluntly told they were out of order. The world is going along without them and fortunately they enjoy no veto power.

The Philippines are disappointed because they will receive no rations. Whether they will sign the treaty is a matter of speculation.

Otherwise the nations of the world are prepared to try the experience of a "peace of reconciliation." Whatever happens, it can have no worse results than have followed some peace treaties of the past.

Camps And Kids

This life-begins-at-40 routine is well enough for the old folks at home. But any discerning person from seven to 17 can set you straight on that. Life really begins on that long awaited day, when, with bags packed and fluttering parents giving parting and unheard advice, you finally arrive at railroad station or bus terminal to set off for camp.

It doesn't matter especially what camp, or where it's located. Near or far there are endless Pottawatamies, Cherokees, Onondagas and Shadybrooks to choose from. The locale may vary, also the rates. Otherwise the octane content of each is much the same—crew cuts, freckles, flashing grins, noisy and high.

Yes, indeed, school's out and it's heigh for the merry green woods. The trail awaits the hiker, the water's fine, the fish may or may not bite on your line. Happy days are here again.

See you later, mom; so long, pop.

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Care Of The Well Child

Periodic examination of children is becoming an American institution. The plan permits the physician to watch the growth and development of the youngster and affords the opportunity to see what the child is like when healthy to appreciate his condition when ill. It also gives the parents an opportunity to have their questions answered.

In the first year of life the infant should be taken to the physician at least every other month; in the next month, there are quarterly visits; and thereafter, twice annually until the boy or girl goes to school. This may seem like a waste of time and money but such checkups pay dividends that are not always apparent at first. The procedure is like having an architect supervise the building of a house; the physician supervises the child during the most formidable years of life.

In early infancy, feeding is an important consideration because minor deviations may have a lasting effect. During this stage the weight is watched carefully as well as the appearance of the baby. The physician also delves into the eating habits, sensitivity to foods, and the need for vitamin supplements. This is not difficult but its simplicity sometimes fosters neglect. At three months, prophylactic immunization for whooping cough, diphtheria, and tetanus are on the agenda. Vaccination for smallpox follows shortly thereafter.

Routine examinations also disclose abnormalities that may be remediable through early treatment. Congenital defects often escape detection at birth and several weeks may pass before they come to the attention of the physician. In the past, abnormalities of this type sometimes continued until they had progressed beyond the correctable stage. Nowadays surgeons have devised many new operations for defects of the heart, lungs, kidneys, bladder, and other organs.

Meanwhile the physician is watching develoment as well as growth. He is concerned with the muscle power and coordiation of the tike. Child guidance and mental hygiene also are offered under such a program. The mother benefits from the conferences as much as the child because she obtains many helpful hints along this line. Counseling on eating and sleeping habits is not too trivial to be discussed because such problems early in life may contribute to mental disturbances later. This is a form of prophylaxis that is just as vital as smallpox vaccination and diphtheria toxoid. It is surprising how many of us take parenthood for granted and neglect opportunities to learn more about the obligations and responsibilities that go along with being a father or mother. After all, the future of the youngster is at stake.

BAG BREATHING

H. C. writes: In your article on fast breathing due to nervousness, you state that breathing into and out of a paper bag often gives relief. How long should this be done and can a plastic bag be used?

REPLY

Rebreathing for several minutes at a time usually is sufficient and it makes no difference whether the bag is made of paper or plastic material. Everything is plastic nowadays except disease.

SCABIES

N. T. writes: Is it true that the itch lasts seven years?

REPLY

Not if the suffer is treated properly. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on scabies.

MOTTLED SKIN

N. W. writes: My physician has given me calcium and hormones for livedo reticularis but there is no improvement. Can you make any additional suggestions?

REPLY

Not if your physician has done a metabolism test and has made general recommendations concerning poor circulation. If the skin is mottled to such an extent that it is unsightly the lesions can be camouflaged with cosmetics.

OATMEAL AND HEAT

Mrs. L. H. writes: Is there any truth in the idea that oatmeal is not good for one in the summer time? The supposition is that it heats the blood but I find it a good energy food and have never noticed any heating therefrom.

REPLY

There probably are more legends built around oatmeal than any other cereal. There is no more truth to the theory you inquire about than to the statement that "it sticks to the ribs." Like other foods it produces energy but it will not warm the blood to such an extent that the body will catch on fire.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman Stages "Fireside Chat" For Congressional Democrats; Solicits Criticism And Confides Hope For Peace; Committee Draws Criticism

WASHINGTON—It was kept out of the newspapers but President Truman had another of his confidential talks with members of Congress at Blair House over coffee and sandwiches some time ago. Most significant development at the session was a blast at William Boyle, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and an impassioned presidential plea for peace by the President.

Present at the meeting were Senators Clements of Kentucky, Hennings of Missouri, Humphrey of Minnesota, Murray of Montana, and Smathers of Florida; together with Representatives Boggs of Louisiana, Hays of Ohio, Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, and Yorty of California —all Democrats.

Truman opened the discussion by urging his guests to speak freely on any gripes they might be nursing. He is used to criticism, he said, after all the brickbats tossed at him following the ouster of MacArthur.

"I don't care what the newspapers or my Republican foes say about me," he declared. "All I hope is that I am able to settle this crisis without one American city being atom-bombed and without the destruction of civilization by a third world war.

"What people say about me is of no importance if I can prevent that. After all, I have no personal ambitions."

Then he added—with a grin:

"Ive gone as high as I can get. There's no future in this job."

Waxing serious again, the President stated that there is a crying need for more constructive criticism, and less mud-slinging and reckless vituperation, if the government is to serve the best interests of the American people on both the foreign and domestic fronts.

Gabrielson's Fees

"A lot of Democrats are peeved about the RFC investigation, but it is constructive to let the public know both sides of the inquiry," Truman remarked. "Anything less is a whitewash I proposed to reorganize the RFC some time ago, but I got little help or encouragement from Congress."

Looking at Congressman Hays of Ohio, he checked himself and added:

"I did get some important help from you. Your speech about those big fees received by Guy Gabrielson (Republican National Chairman) for getting RFC loans for the Carthage Hydrcol Company was a great job."

"The only thing that made me mad about my speech on Gabrielson's fees," Congressman Hays interrupted, "was that the Cleveland Plain Dealer insinuated that the information was planted on me by the Democratic National Committee.

"Planted!" continued Hays. "Imagine that! Why, the Democratic National Committee didn't have either the brains or initiative to dig it up."

"And while we're on the subject, Mr. President," said the Ohio Congressman, "let's talk about our own national committee. I personally think it's a disgrace to the Democratic party and ought to be reorganized from top to bottom.

"The Republican National Committee is always on its toes providing Republicans in Congress with ammunition against the Democrats, but what has Bill Boyle and his outfit ever done for us? The answer is nothing.

Cocktail Democrats

"The only time the Democratic National Committee staff shows any signs of-life is at the cocktail hour."

The President looked surprised, but made no comeback except to say that, while the National Committee had some weaknesses, it wasn't as bad as Hays painted it. He didn't drop the subject of the RFC, however, without a disparaging remark about Senator Fulbright, chief critic of the RFC.

"Everybody knows," remarked the President, "that Fulbright has written letters to the RFC himself in order to get loans for his friends"

When the conversation turned to General MacArthur, Boggs of Louisiana reminded Truman that California's Sam Yorty was the first to commend the President on the House floor for cracking down on the General.

"You know, I served as an officer on MacArthur's staff in the Pacific," observed Yorty, "and I know a lot about him. If anyone under MacArthur had been guilty of the brazen insubordination toward him that MacArthur displayed toward you, that man would have been court-martialed before you could bat an eye."

Acheson Defended

The President strongly defended Secretary of State Acheson, whom he called "the best secretary of state in 50 years." He added that it was not his responsibility to have a popular secretary of state, but one that is smart and able, especially when you have to deal with the Russians.

Truman suggested that, if Acheson's critics had to sit around the table with the Russians and negotiate with them, they would have a far greater respect for Acheson. The President also remarked that he has had "four secretaries of state all with the same policy," apparently meaning that the State Department is following his foreign policy and that the same policy will be followed no matter who is secretary of state.

The President also rehashed his foreign policy from the time he entered the White House, explaining that as a senator he had spent all his time on the Truman Committee investigating war scandals; so when he went into the White House, he had to bone up hurriedly on foreign policy.

Chinese Subterfuge

While the Communists were talking peace at Kaesong, they were shipping steel bridging equipment toward the front—equipment that has no use at the front except for crossing the Han River in anoher Communist drive to retake Seoul.

This is the first heavy bridging equipment that has shown up in North Korea. Shipped into the North Koreah port of Rashin from Russia, it was spotted by the Air Force on four railroad flatcars moving down the East Coast. Air Force planes bombed and strafed the train, succeeded in derailing it, but did not damage the bridging equipment.

A later air patrol, sent to finish the job, couldn't locate the four flatcars. They still may be en route toward the front, and later the Han River.

Consumers' Chance

By MARK SULLIVAN

The controversy in Congress over President Truman's request for continuation of controls and more of them is closely related to next year's Presidential and Congressional elections. But just how will the effect of the controversy work out in the campaign?

In the controversy, the most conspicuous issue was the rollback decreed by Price Controller DiSalle in the price paid farmers for beef cattle. This was strongly supported by the Administration, strongly opposed by farm organizations and by the farm bloc in Congress.

For several reasons this controversy was especially vivid to the great body of the country's consumers. It is true that a rollback in prices to a lower level is an extreme assertion of the power of government, more so than a mere freezing of existing prices. This accounted for some of the opposition in Congress. But the bulk of the opposition was a deference to interest of farmers. This is what consumers saw and were stirred by.

The price of beef is extravagantly high. It is much higher than even the level of artificial "parity prices" which have been brought about for most farm crops by the Department of Agriculture through operation of the price support law The price of beef is indefensible. Yet it was defended, conspicuously and with highly-organized vigor, by farm organizations. It was defended—in the sense that rollback of it was opposed —by farm bloc members of Congress who habitually accord with what farm organizations want.

Consumers Hit Hard

By all this, consumers were made vividly aware of the determination of farm organizations to hold onto advantages farmers have increasingly had during the last several years. At the same time the price of beef has been an especially vivid illustraion of the hardship to which the whole body of consumers generally has been subjected during several years by the government policy of price support of practically all farm products.

Altogether the debate in Congress about the rollback in prices of beef, has made food consumers aware more than ever before, of the conflict between their interest and the interest of farmers as a group. Consumers were made aware also that politically they are a neglected group; that in actions in Congress they do not have weight comparable to that of farmers as a group. This is a familiar fact. Some two years ago (August, 1949) Democratic House Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, speaking about a measure having to do with price support of farm crops, said almost plaintively: "It is about time that somebody in this debate say a few words for a forgotten class in America—the consumer.'

True, individual consumers can write letters to members of Congress and many do. But these do not have the focused force of an organized drive such as was conducted against the rollback in beef by Midwest branches of one of the great national farm organizations. As described by Mr. John W. Ball of the "Washington Post," Grass-roots meetings are being held nightly in small farm communities ... Those present are urged to write their representatives and senators in Washington."

Farm Vote Important

Consumers have an opportunity in next year's election. Ever since the Presidential election of 1948, members of Congress belonging to both parties, and politicians generally, have remembered that President Truman won mainly through carrying mid-west farm states which previously had been strongly Republican. And they remember that Mr. Truman got this vote mainly by a promise that if elected he would bring about increased support of farm crops, partly through provision by the government of storage facilities for crops. That memoy had a large place in the present debate over the rollback in beef.

In the strictly farm states are nearly a hundred seats in the House of Representatives, and fully a hundred more seats are in states in which farmers have sufficient numbers to be decisive in elections. Both parties understand fully that the farm vote is extremely important in next year's election

But how is the voter to find his way in the maze of contradiction which the debate on the beef rollback has included: President Truman and his administration originated it, and this was a contrast with the strong appeal he made for the farm vote in 1948. At the same time in Congress a large number of Democrats, including some leaders, were for ending the rollback.

On the broad matter of price support for farm crops, over the years, consumers would find it hard to draw a line between the two parties Price support of farm crops, like the beef rollback, and like the other controls in the present debate, is pressure politics rather than party politics. Evidently consumers have not learned the art of pressure politics.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Treaty With Japan

No partisan politics should be permitted to interfere with the signing and ratification of the proposed Dulies treaty with Japan. This is a crucial document in the solution of our Asiatic problems. If the United States can have a line of friendly and allied nations, running unbrokenly from Japan to Australia and New Zealand, we should, at any rate, not be in peril of having the West Coast of territorial United States as our first line of defense.

The "Hongkong Standard," on June 27, called attention to the indisputable fact that the Communists did not start the Korean War merely to possess Korea. This newspaper said editorially:

"The attack on South Korea by the Korean Communists, even if it had been successful, would not have been an end in itself. It was obviously the intention of Russia to have all of Korea occupied as a springboard against Japan. The unexpected decision of the United Nations to defend the Republic of Korea by an international force may have upset Moscow's immediate plan of operation, but it has in no way discouraged Moscow from trying to conquer Japan through its satellites."

This same newspaper close to the scene and often expressive of Nationalist Chinese views, further says:

"The conquest of Japan may take either of two forms. The first is an uprising in Japan with the ready response of the Japanese prisoners of war now under Moscow's command and of the Korean and Chinese Communists. This was perhaps the original plan. The other is an open invasion of Japan by the Chinese Communists under the pretext that Peking has been barred from participating in the Japanese peace treaty or under any other pretext which Communist ingenuity may conceive of."

The State Department is pursuing sound policy in going ahead with the Japanese treaty without waiting for Russian approval. That approval would never be forthcoming by ordinary negotiation; it is doubtful whether there will be Russian participation in the San Francisco Conference. For, no matter how you look at it, the restoration of Japan among the nations and its rebuilding as a military base ipso facto weakens the power of Soviet Russia in Asia.

Japan had, prior to its defeat in 1945, a marked infiltration among the Chinese. Some of the most notable followers of Dr. Sun Yat-sen were pro-Japanese in the sense that they feared Russia more than Japan and they favored an "Asia for the Asiatics" movement. Wartime propaganda painted Wang Ching-wei, as a Japanese puppet, but, in the history of the Chinese movement toward liberty and independence, no figure was closer to Sun Yat-sen or more trusted by him. I was associated with Sun Yat-sen for many years and once carried a message from him to like-minded leaders in Japan.

It is impossible to believe that such a poignant relationship established over a period of 30 years has altogether been killed by war. Many of the older Chinese military men studied in Japan or in Japanese schools in China, particularly in Manchuria. The Chinese Communists are aware of this strong Japanese influence and have been liquidating hundreds of thousands of Chinese who have been under either Japanese or American, especially Christian, cultural influences. However, they would have to kill off many millions of Chinese, and at great speed, even to scratch the surface.

Besides, the Korean War has proved to be an almost fatal error from the Chinese Communist standpoint. They did not expect any resistance and certainly not the force of the resistance which first General MacArthur and then General Ridgway produced. Had they succeeded quickly in Korea they would undoubtedly have pushed into Burma and eventually Siam (Thailand). The significance of Burma is rice. If Soviet China could control the rice of Burma and subsequently Siam, it could reduce the hunger in China and even raise the standard of living of the Chinese people. As it is, every private report I have had from China speaks of hunger.

The standard of living of the Chinese is so low that the lessening of the rice supply has always produced revolution. It is internal revolution — what nowadays is called guerilla warfare — that is the real hope for China.

The Japanese have had a long and competent experience at that. A restored and independent Japan must be a great factor in the affairs of China. That country possesses extraordinarily able men, even now.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — What strange goings on in the world of diplomacy! Just a few short weeks ago the United States was rent asunder by the cry that when Britain and France say they want something done or that they want something undone, there must be no offending of our allies.

'Twas argued, too, that if America didn't go along with its allies, the allies wouldn't go along with us, and that we must not "go it alone."

Yet today, as Britain and France protest that they don't want America to get naval or air bases in Spain or have anything to do with the Franco government there, the United States goes ahead anyhow.

From both President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson come the firm policy that says bases in Spain are essential to collective defense and that, notwithstanding the protests of the British and French governments, an agreement will be made with the Franco government.

Going It Alone

Still ringing in the ears of members of Congress are the recent cries that overseas bases are so important that, if we ventured to assert our maximum force in Korea against their protests, we would be alienating our allies and that this would lose us bases in Europe Again and again administration members of the Joint Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees of the Senate hammered those points home as they interrogated witnesses in the MacArthur hearings. Again and again the "yes men" among the administration's witnesses solemnly concurred.

What has happened since? Are we now defying our allies, deserting our allies—and "going it alone"? or has the American government decided to do what it thinks is best for Europe's defense nothwithstanding the "left wing" protests that are powerful enough to stay the hand of the governments in both London and Paris?

For it doesn't make sense to be reading about opposition by Britain and France to military measures designed primarily to help protect them. They could offer the argument on the Far Eastern controversy that all military forces would be needed for Europe's defense and hence must not get bogged down in Asia. In this instance, the object is Europe's defense. So when internal politics now influences the policies of the British and French governments, it is inevitable that the American government, which is supplying the bulk of the money and the bulk of the naval and air power for Europe's defense, should finally decide to protect its own interests with adequate bases.

There is another strange thing about the British viewpoint. In the case of the diplomatic recognition and British sponsorship of Red China for admission into the UN, official spokesmen for Britain said again and again that, after all, ideological considerations are not vital in giving recognition and that the main criterion is whether a government is in military control of its territory. Certainly General Franco and his government have complete control of the territory of all Spain, Franco has been recognized—so why is his aid unwelcome?

As for military-assistance projects, the British-American plan to aid Tito in Yugoslavia brushes aside ideology, too. For he is still a Communist.

Hypocrisy Of Diplomacy

Such inconsistencies merely illustrate the hypocrisy of present-day diplomacy. The spectacle of the governments of Great Britain and France turning down a chance to get a 400,000-man army—as well as valuable bases beyond the Pyrenees, where big airfields can be operated in relative safety, affording a separate approach to Russian territory —is not one that the average American will understand. To the nonpolitical mind which isn't immersed in ideologies or politics, the matter of defenses is a cold-blooded problem of saving lives and building up military strength to prevent a world war.

Plenty will be said here in Congress about the strange behavior of the British and French governments in urging that America send troops to Europe while at the same time declining to make use of Franco's troops. Plenty will be heard about whether it is wise to continue furnishing more and more economic aid to Britain and France under the guise of stopping communism when the aid of the most powerful anti-Communist regime in Southern Europe is spurned.

These are certainly days of strange arguments but it is gratifying that the President and the Secretary of State are not being swayed by the viewpoint of the British Labor government. Who knows—maybe enough firmness will develop here to disregard also the protests of the British and French about a determined policy in the Far East. There may be occasion for this if the "cease fire" parleys turn out to be just a military tactic by the Communists.

Patricia Stapleton To Be Bride Of Harold E. Seifarth

Ceremony Will Be Performed Today

Miss Patricia Ann Stapleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Stapleton, 77 West College Avenue, Frostburg, will become the bride of Harold E. Seifarth, son of Mrs. Lillian Seifarth, RD. 2, Frostburg, today.

The wedding ceremony is to be solemnized at 8:30 p. m., in St. Michael's Catholic Church, Frostburg, with Rev. Regis Larkin officiating. Mrs. David Miller will be the bride's matron of honor and only attendant. Thomas Stapleton, brother of the bride, is serving as Mr. Seifarth's best man. Mrs. Richard Goldsworthy is playing a program of nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride is to be attired in a blue lace ballerina length gown with matching jacket, fashioned with long pointed sleeves, pointed collar and buttoned up the front. With it she is wearing a small matching blue lace hat and shoulder length veil of nylon net. Completing her costume she will carry a white Bible with orchid marker.

Her matron of honor will be in a rose lace gown identical to the bride's. With it she has a halo of net and will carry a Colonial bouquet of assorted flowers.

Mrs. Stapleton has chosen an aqua crepe, street length dress for her daughter's wedding. She is wearing a Navy blue velvet hat and orchid corsage. Mrs. Seifarth will wear a Navy blue sheer with Navy hat and orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Beall High School, class of 1947, and is employed by the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

The bridegroom was graduated from Beall High School in 1942 and is employed at Engle's Market here.

Mr. and Mrs. Stapleton are entertaining with a wedding reception fo their daughter and her bridal party at their home, following the ceremony. The bridal motif is being carried out in the tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom, and repeated in the decorations throughout the house.

Upon their return from their wedding trip Mr. Seifarth and his bride will reside with her parents until their new home in Clarysville is ready.

WRC State Meeting Tues. Party Monday

The Women's Republican Club of Cumberland is entertaining with a reception Monday at the Moose Home. Honor guests are to be the officers of the State Federation of Republican Women here for the state meeting, Tuesday; and the 40 new members of the local club. The party will be from 8:15 until 10:15.

Guests will be received by Mrs. Vada Barncord, Mrs. Brooks Starcher, Miss Flaville Percy, Mrs. Fred Driscoll, Mrs. William Niland and Mrs. Joseph Boden, officers of the club.

Mrs. J. Glenn Beall and Mrs. Lucile Roeder are to preside at the punch bowl. Brief talks are to be given by Mrs. Fred Fisher, Pikesville, president of the state federation; and Mrs. Leona Rush, member of the state legislature from Montgomery county.

An invitation has also been extended to all party leaders.

The committee in charge of arrangements includes Mrs. Ernest Treat, Membership chairman; Mrs. Miles Thompson, in charge of table decorations; Mrs. Starcher, Mrs. Alva Davis, Mrs. Harry Anderson, Mrs. Niland, Mrs. Driscoll, Mrs. Karl Bachman, Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, Mrs. Lena Owens and Mrs. James Orr.

The state meeting is being held Tuesday at the Ali Ghan Country Club, beginning at 11 a. m. It is to be followed by a luncheon, at which time Mrs. Paul Hatch, Washington, is to be the speaker. Known in musical circles as Dorothy Seegar, Mrs. Hatch's topic is, "Where Your Money Goes." There also is to be a musical program.

Flintstone Club Plans Fair Booth

The Flintstone Homemakers Club discussed fair booths and exhibits and received reports at the meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. Blaine C. Robinette.

Mrs. H. V. Bender presided and appointed Mrs. R. O. Dolly, Miss Catherine Robinette, Mrs. Chester Robinette, Mrs. Howard Robinette and Mrs. J. S. Roland a Fair Booth committee.

Reports were given on a rug demonstration at Flintstone High School. There were exhibits of rugs made over a period of years and improvements noted. Charts as to color and design were distributed and instructions on how to make a rug in a frame.

Miss Maude A. Bean suggested a class making copper and aluminum trays. The song of the month, "Fairest Lord Jesus," and "God Bless Our Native Land," were sung and reports on RWSC given by Mrs. Ruland Gilson, Miss Pearl Wilson, Miss Ruth Perrin and Mrs. B. C. Robinette. Miss Lena Twigg was a graduate. Mrs. Chester Robinette collected Blue Cross dues.

Others present were Mrs. Katie Oster, Mrs. William Perrin, Mrs. D. W. Robinette, Mrs. Agnes Roberts, Mrs. William Browning, Mrs. Guy Thompson, Mrs. Leah Twigg and two visitors, Mrs. Irene MacDonald and Mrs. Walter Bender.

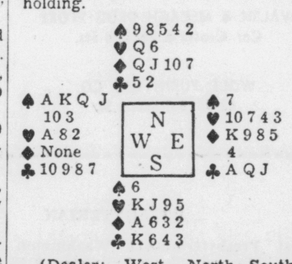
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

GIVE ONE TO GAIN TWO

NONCHALANTLY giving up one trick, in order to gain two or more others, is something you seldom see done by anybody except a fine player. But some of the prettiest, and incidentally most unusual, playing plans you can find are based on application of that principle. In a goodly percentage of such plays, the fundamental urge for it is the entry situation, involving the removal of high cards which otherwise would block the opposite holding.



(Dealer: West. North - South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	3 NT	Pass
4 ♠

Don't try to call that the best rubber bidding of this deal. Lay it partly to West's desire to score his spade honors. Now, looking at all four hands, what double-dummy play would you give it after North leads the diamond Q? Bet you wouldn't guess what West did.

After ruffing the diamond lead, following low cards from dummy and South, West laid down two top trumps and noted South's club 6 discard, marking North with five trumps. After considering alternative plans, West ran all of his trumps, extracting all of North's. You might do the same, but what would you discard on those spades? West saw fit to toss all three of dummy's clubs. Would you?

As West figured it out, this left him only three losers in his hand, two in hearts and one in clubs. Next he led clubs. It made no difference whether South came in at once with his K or held it up. West was able to discard hearts on diamond leads. Dummy's guarded K was sure to win the fourth round of that suit, and it made no difference to West whether he lost two diamonds or two hearts in addition to his club.

* * *

Your Weekend Question

Do you know the play against a No Trump game whereby the defenders, seeing that the declarer can score two of the first three tricks in their suit, must let him win the first, instead of taking the first and letting him win the next two? Can you set up an example of it?

Kathryn MacMannis Is Bride Of Wilbur E. Ruehl

Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. MacMannis, 6210 Mossway, Baltimore, formerly from here, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Kathryn Engle MacMannis, to Wilbur Ewald Ruehl, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ewald Ruehl, Park Heights.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized June 15 in Second Presbyterian Church, Baltimore, with Rev. Paul C. Warren, D.D., officiating. Mrs. Charles T. Beckwith, Arlington, Va., was matron of honor for her sister; and the bridesmaids were Miss Betty Ruehl, Cumberland, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Ann Reynolds, Cumberland; Mrs. A. J. Owens, Norfolk, Va., Miss Donna Lee Andross, West Hartford, Conn. Harry Merrick, Silver Spring, served as Mr. Ruehl's best man while Joseph Moss, Baltimore, formerly of Ridgeley, W. Va.; Joseph Schapp, Joseph Tydings, Havre de Grace and Wayne Burgemeister, Baltimore, were the ushers.

The bride was attired in a white Chantilly lace gown, fashioned with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves and full skirt with long train. A lace cap, decorated with pearls, held her fingertip length veil. She carried a white orchid surrounded by a cascade of white roses.

Her attendants wore light blue, ballerina length nylon marquisette gowns, made with tucked bodice. With them they wore linen shoes to match and headbands matching their cascade bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums, daisies and carnations.

Mrs. MacMannis was attired in a gown of ashes of roses Chantilly lace with a matching headband. She wore a corsage of orchids. Mrs. Ruehl wore a dusty roses Chantilly lace gown with matching hat and had a corsage of gardenias.

The bride is a graduate of Allegany High School and Fairfax Hall Junior College, Waynesboro, Va. The bridegroom graduated from Massanutten Military Academy, Woodstock, Va., and now is a student at the University of Maryland.

Mr. and Mrs. MacMannis entertained with a wedding reception at the Blackstone Apartments, following the ceremony. After which the couple left for a wedding trip to the Poconoe Mountains. The bride's traveling costume was a black pique suit trimmed in white. With it she wore white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruehl are now residing at College Park.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Weisgerber, twin daughters, Marlyn and Carolyn, and another daughter, Anna Marie, Delphos, Ohio, accompanied by Donald Grethouse, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Bloss and daughter, Carol Long, Mexico Farms Road. Carol will accompany them to Ohio next week.

Mrs. Genevieve Wagoner, 808 Greene Street, has returned home after being a patient in Allegany Hospital.

Mrs. Leo C. Cameron, 323 Maryland Avenue has returned home after visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. William P. Cumisky, Ramey Air Force Base, Puerto Rico. Mrs. Cameron was accompanied by her daughter, Wanda Lee.

Circuit Has Reception For Pastor

The congregation of the Oldtown Methodist Circuit entertained with a reception for Rev. William Anderson, the new pastor, and his family. The circuit includes the Olivers Grove, Mt. Tabor, Paradise, Mt. Olive and Oldtown churches. The party was held at the Oldtown parsonage, Thursday evening.

Rev. Anderson, originally from Cumberland, was employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, before becoming a minister.

A welcome was extended by Ralph Buser of the Paradise church. Merle Reckley, Mt. Tabor, led in prayer and a musical program was presented with Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Lenora Taschenberger and Mrs. Sue Ginevan playing the piano. The congregation of each church sang a hymn as its contribution to the program. Solos included, "Beautiful Savious' and "I Never Walk Alone," by Miss Marian Davis; "Danny Boy," Marian and Elaine Twigg; and "It Is No Secret," Roger Anderson.

Concluding the evening refreshments were served in the form of a covered dish luncheon.

Patricia Stapleton To Be Bride Of Harold E. Seifarth

Ceremony Will Be Performed Today

Miss Patricia Ann Stapleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Stapleton, 77 West College Avenue, Frostburg, will become the bride of Harold E. Seifarth, son of Mrs. Lillian Seifarth, RD. 2, Frostburg, today.

The wedding ceremony is to be solemnized at 8:30 p. m., in St. Michael's Catholic Church, Frostburg, with Rev. Regis Larkin officiating. Mrs. David Miller will be the bride's matron of honor and only attendant. Thomas Stapleton, brother of the bride, is serving as Mr. Seifarth's best man. Mrs. Richard Goldsworthy is playing a program of nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride is to be attired in a blue lace ballerina length gown with matching jacket, fashioned with long pointed sleeves, pointed collar and buttoned up the front. With it she is wearing a small matching blue lace hat and shoulder length veil of nylon net. Completing her costume she will carry a white Bible with orchid marker.

Her matron of honor will be in a rose lace gown identical to the bride's. With it she has a halo of net and will carry a Colonial bouquet of assorted flowers.

Mrs. Stapleton has chosen an aqua crepe, street length dress for her daughter's wedding. She is wearing a Navy blue velvet hat and orchid corsage. Mrs. Seifarth will wear a Navy blue sheer with Navy hat and orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Beall High School, class of 1947, and is employed by the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory.

The bridegroom was graduated from Beall High School in 1942 and is employed at Engle's Market here.

Mr. and Mrs. Stapleton are entertaining with a wedding reception for their daughter and her bridal party at their home, following the ceremony. The bridal motif is being carried out in the tiered wedding cake, adorned with a miniature bride and bridegroom, and repeated in the decorations throughout the house.

For traveling the bride is wearing an aqua summer suit, with natural straw hat and beige accessories, and her orchid corsage.

WRC State Meeting Tues. Party Monday

The Women's Republican Club of Cumberland is entertaining with a reception Monday at the Moose Home. Honor guests are to be the officers of the State Federation of Republican Women here for the state meeting, Tuesday; and the 40 new members of the local club. The party will be from 8:15 until 10:15.

Guests will be received by Mrs. Vada Barncord, Mrs. Brooks Starcher, Miss Flaville Percy, Mrs. Fred Driscoll, Mrs. William Niland and Mrs. Joseph Boden, officers of the club.

Mrs. J. Glenn Beall and Mrs. Lucile Roeder are to preside at the punch bowl. Brief talks are to be given by Mrs. Fred Fisher, Pikesville, president of the state federation; and Mrs. Leona Rush, member of the state legislature from Montgomery county.

An invitation has also been extended to all party leaders.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

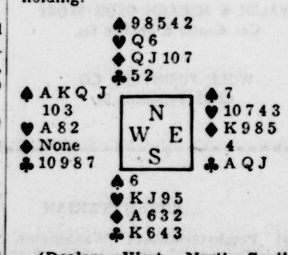
GIVE ONE TO GAIN TWO

NONCHALANTLY giving up one trick, in order to gain two or more others, is something you seldom see done by anybody except a fine player. But some of the prettiest, and incidentally most unusual, playing plans you can find are based on application of that principle. In a goodly percentage of such plays, the fundamental urge for it is the entry situation, involving the removal of high cards which otherwise would block the opposite holding.



(Dealer: West. North - South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
4 ♠

Don't try to call that the best rubber bidding of this deal. Lay it partly to West's desire to score his spade honors. Now, looking at all four hands, what double-dummy play would you give it after North leads the diamond Q? Bet you wouldn't guess what West did.

After ruffing the diamond lead, following low cards from dummy and South, West laid down two top trumps and noted South's club 6 discard, marking North with five trumps. After considering alternative plans, West ran all of his trumps, extracting all of North's. You might do the same, but what would you discard on those spades? West saw fit to toss all three of dummy's clubs. Would you?

As West figured it out, this left him only three losers in his hand, two in hearts and one in clubs. Next he led clubs. It made no difference whether South came in at once with his K or held it up. West was able to discard hearts on diamond leads. Dummy's guarded K was sure to win the fourth round of that suit, and it made no difference to West whether he lost two diamonds or two hearts in addition to his club.

* * *

Your Weekend Question

Do you know the play against a No Trump game whereby the defenders, seeing that the declarer can score two of the first three tricks in their suit, must let him win the first, instead of taking the first and letting him win the next two? Can you set up an example of it?

Kathryn MacMannis Is Bride Of Wilbur E. Ruehl

Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. MacMannis, 6210 Mossway, Baltimore, formerly from here, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Kathryn Engle MacMannis, to Wilbur Ewald Ruehl, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ewald Ruehl, Park Heights.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized June 15 in Second Presbyterian Church, Baltimore, with Rev. Paul C. Warren, D.D., officiating. Mrs. Charles T. Beckwith, Arlington, Va., was matron of honor for her sister; and the bridesmaids were Miss Betty Ruehl, Cumberland, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Ann Reynolds, Cumberland; Mrs. A. J. Owens, Norfolk, Va., Miss Donna Lee Andross, West Hartford, Conn. Harry Merrick, Silver Spring, served as Mr. Ruehl's best man while Joseph Moss, Baltimore, formerly of Ridgeley, W. Va.; Joseph Schapp, Joseph Tydings, Havre de Grace and Wayne Burgemeister, Baltimore, were the ushers.

The bride was attired in a white Chantilly lace gown, fashioned with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves and full skirt with long train. A lace cap, decorated with pearls, held her fingertip length veil. She carried a white orchid surrounded by a cascade of white roses.

Her attendants wore light blue, ballerina length nylon marquisette gowns, made with tucked bodice. With them they wore linen shoes to match and headbands matching their cascade bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums, daisies and carnations.

Mrs. MacMannis was attired in a gown of ashes of roses Chantilly lace with a matching headband. She wore a corsage of orchids. Mrs. Ruehl wore a dusty roses Chantilly lace gown with matching hat and had a corsage of gardenias.

The bride is a graduate of Allegany High School and Fairfax Hall Junior College, Waynesboro, Va. The bridegroom graduated from Massanutten Military Academy, Woodstock, Va., and now is a student at the University of Maryland.

Mr. and Mrs. MacMannis entertained with a wedding reception at the Blackstone Apartments, following the ceremony. After which the couple left for a wedding trip to the Poconoe Mountains. The bride's traveling costume was a black pique suit trimmed in white. With it she wore white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruehl are now residing at College Park.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Weisgerber, twin daughters, Marlyn and Carolyn, and another daughter, Anna Marie, Delphos, Ohio, accompanied by Donald Grethouse, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Bloss and daughter, Carol Long, Mexico Farms Road. Carol will accompany them to Ohio next week.

Mrs. Genevieve Wagoner, 808 Greene Street, has returned home after being a patient in Allegany Hospital.

Mrs. Leo C. Cameron, 323 Maryland Avenue has returned home after visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. William P. Cumisky, Ramey Air Force Base, Puerto Rico. Mrs. Cameron was accompanied by her daughter, Wanda Lee.

Mrs. Martha S. Keller, 108 Elder Street, has returned home, after undergoing a thyroid operation in Memorial Hospital.

Circuit Has Reception For Pastor

The congregation of the Oldtown Methodist Circuit entertained with a reception for Rev. William Anderson, the new pastor, and his family. The circuit includes the Olivers Grove, Mt. Tabor, Paradise, Mt. Olive and Oldtown churches. The party was held at the Oldtown parsonage, Thursday evening.

Rev. Anderson, originally from Cumberland, was employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, before becoming a minister.

A welcome was extended by Ralph Buser of the Paradise church. Merle Reckley, Mt. Tabor, led in prayer and a musical program was presented with Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Lenora Taschenberger and Mrs. Sue Ginevan playing the piano. The congregation of each church sang a hymn as its contribution to the program. Solos included, "Beautiful Savious' and "I Never Walk Alone," by Miss Marian Davis; "Danny Boy," Marian and Elaine Twigg; and "It Is No Secret," Roger Anderson.

Concluding the evening refreshments were served in the form of a covered dish luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Elbin and daughters, Kingsville, Texas, and Mrs. Herman Ball, Hyattsville, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Triplett, 112 Greene Street.

Did you ever pause to listen to the voice of God? We hear it every day, wherever we may be.

In the whispering of tall trees . . . the music of rushing brooks . . . the songs of the birds . . . the gay laughter of happy children . . . we hear the voice of the Great Creator. Through his infinite grace a bird is enabled to serenade his mate, a tiny cricket chirps its faint refrain. God is the Bringer of all blessings to man and beast alike.

Let us give thanks to Him who has so enriched our lives. Open church doors beckon all over our land. Let us seek the House of the Lord, and enter in to pay Him homage. Here through prayer and humility, let us re-dedicate ourselves to His service and glorification.

HOLY BIBLE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Outsiders Win Four Races At Fairgo, Beach Admiral Pays Off At $45.40

Walcott Given Big Reception On Return Home

Champ Gets Rousing Welcome At Camden

CAMDEN, N. J., July 20 (AP) — Jersey Joe Walcott brought the heavyweight boxing championship of the world home to Camden tonight amidst the greatest reception the city ever accorded a native son.

A smiling Walcott, his hands clasped over his head in sign of victory, stepped off a two-engine plane at Camden Airport at 4:15 p. m. E.S.T., to the sands of his fellow Camdenites. The crowd, estimated by Camden Police Chief Gustav Koener at more than 5,000 surged through police ropes and surrounded the plane.

Joe Walcott

"Welcome home, champ," the crowd chanted as Jersey Joe posed for a battery of news photographers and film cameramen. Following Walcott from the plane were his manager, Felix Bocchicchio, Trainer Dan Florio, second Arnold Herman, and press representative Jim McCullough.

The plane, which brought Walcott and his party home from Pittsburgh where he won the heavyweight championship Wednesday night by knocking Ezzard Charles out in 55 seconds of the seventh round, had been loaned to the group by Thomas E. Millsop, vice president of the National Steel Corporation.

E. George Aaron, director of public safety, said at least 100,000 persons lined the streets to watch the motorcade from the airport to city hall.

After police were able to clear a path through the coverging crowd, Walcott managed to reach his wife, Lydia, and six children who had been anxiously awaiting his arrival for some 20 minutes.

The happy champion embraced his wife and did a little dance as the two boys tried to shake his hand and the four girls attempted to kiss him—all at once.

The Walcott family—Arnold, Jr 17; Vince, 11; Ruth, 12; Doris, 14; Elva, 15, and Carol, six — was brought to the airport in a green convertible Cadillac, as part of an 11-car motorcade escorted by motorcycle police.

Waiting on the airport lawn before Jersey Joe's arrival, Mrs. Walcott said she certainly was happy about her husband winning the championship but, "I'd sometimes rather he'd be a champ at something else. I don't like boxing."

Teal Is Leader In Golf Tourney

Holds 3-Stroke Edge With Score Of 134

MILWAUKEE, July 20 (AP)—Glenn Teal, Knoxville, Tenn., pro, fired his second straight four-under-par 67 today to take over the unchallenged lead at the halfway point of the Blue Ribbon Open Golf tournament.

Teal wound up after 36 holes with an eight under 134, three strokes ahead of his nearest rival. A brisk 32 coming in today, four under the scorecard, produced his second successive sub-par round on the par 35-36—71 North Hills Country Club course.

Trailing the Tennessean, three strokes back, were Julius Boros, Mid-Pines, N. C.; Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif.; and Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., with 137.

The low 90 scorers at the end of today's round advance tomorrow into the second half of the $20,000 meet, third richest in the nation this year.

Teal, Snead and two others—Ed Oliver, Wilmington, Del., and Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex.—had shared the top spot jointly when play opened today on the 6,257 yard course. Oliver and Hawkins slipped to 75s today for 142 totals. Snead wound up with a 70, going one over par on the back nine after being two under at the turn.

Boros bettered his 69 opener by one stroke today and Demaret reversed the procedure with a 68-69 for their 137 ties with Snead.

The two leading money-winners of the tournament circuit at this point, Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, were four strokes off Teal's pace with 138. Tied with them were Joe Kirkwood, Jr., Hollywood; George Fazio, Pine Valley, N. J., and Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill.

Walcott Is 37

CAMDEN, N. J., July 20 (AP)—How old is heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott?

Records of the Camden County Bureau of Vital Statistics provided an official answer today: 37.

Jersey Joe, who knocked out Ezzard Charles in Pittsburgh Wednesday night to win the title has been a boxer for at least 20 years.

Downs Tops Riders, Williams Set Down, $190,101 Wagered

Outsiders grabbed the spotlight at Fairgo yesterday by winning four of the eight events for payoffs ranging from $45.40 to $19, as a crowd of 4,300 persons wagered $190,101 to soar the four-day mutuel handle to $722,747.

Fast Feather started the long shots rolling by grabbing off the opener. The F. R. Boone mare beat Tiz Tiz It, owned by Enoch P. Price of Frostburg, by a nose and returned the nice mutuel of $24.80 for each $2 straight investment. Hot Wire finished third and Hal's Play, the favorite, owned by Louis Waingold of Cumberland, finished in 6th place.

Beach Admiral Pays Best

The longest shot af the day registered in the fourth when A. T. Taylor's Beach Admiral with Mike Sorrentino up, defeated Hi-Barry and Charan which were coupled in the betting as the Lee-Ford entry. The payoff on the Admiral was $45.40, $15. and $7.20.

In the fifth event, J. Eversole piloted Four West to a 10 lengths' victory over Sporting Final, the favorite, over the muddy route of 1 1/16 miles and again the form players took a beating. Backers of Four West received $27.80, $11. and $5.20.

Always Late Is Not

Always Late, owned by L. A. Borowy and ridden by H. McKinney, was on time in the 8th and again the long shot players profited—to the tune of $19 for each $2 played on the nose of the winner. Hiya Pop was second and Penny Hill, third.

Chalk players got a chance to cheer in three races yesterday when Dutel captured the third at $6.60, Indian Ballard romped home first in the 6th at $6.20 and Havey B. beat One Up and Tomke to grab off the major portion of the purse in the seventh. The J. G. Cremen gelding returned $6.40 for $2.

Swing High, third choice in the wagering, annexed the second event on the card and coupled with Fast Feather for a winning daily double combination of 2-2 and a payoff of $127.80, the second best double price of the meeting.

Williams Is Suspended

The stewards announced that Jockey Richard Williams has been suspended for the remainder of the Cumberland meeting and for 10 additional days. Williams is charged with deliberately fouling in Thursday's 8th race in which he rode Glacial Run into second money. Williams, incidentally, was leading the race for the jockey's prize prior to yesterday's program.

J. Eversole rode two winners yesterday—Four West and Indian Ballad—but Willie Downs forged into first place with 36 points closely pursued by Mike Correntino with 35. Don Yates continues to set the pace for the trainers with 16 points but Mrs. G. A. Saportas, Jr., jumped into second place and now trails by a single point.

Yesterday's $190,101 mutuel handle was $33,560 above the amount bet on the 4th day of the 1950 meet. The four-day total for the current session tops the corresponding days last year by $100,392.

White Race Is Feature

The eighth renewal of the Clifton W. White, named in honor of the former president and general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association, is the 6th event on today's card at Fairgo. Post time for the first race is 2:30 p. m., E.D.T.

Jenkins Cracks 22 Land Speed Marks In Utah

3,000 See Veteran End Colorful Career

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, July 20 (AP)—Ab Jenkins, the old master racer, smashed 22 land speed records today before smoke and fumes drove him from the cockpit of his huge car.

The disabled Mormon Meteor III ground to a stop just three minutes away from a new one hour record, ending a long and colorful racing career for the former Salt Lake City mayor.

Disappointed, Jenkins crawled from the cockpit and reiterated that this was his last race:

"At 68, I've outworn the car," Jenkins said.

Last Race, Wife Says

"He's never going to race again," she declared.

Jenkins set out today to break 40 American and world records over the vast, crusty salt flats where he first started racing nearly 20 years ago.

When he finished, he had set five world unlimited records, six American unlimited records, five international Class A records and six American Class A records.

The quiet spoken, silver haired dean of America's speed car drivers was running at 141 miles per hour when he was forced to stop. He then jumped from the two and one half ton machine to escape injury.

At the time, he was on his 14th lap, only one half lap away on the 12 mile circular course from the one hour record.

The Meteor apparently ran over a wood marker on the edge of the course. A hose broke and the radiator water started to leak. The temperature rose to 300 degrees. Jenkins, blinded by smoke and fumes, veered from the course and pulled to a stop.

He said it would be a "tremendous job" to recondition the vehicle.

Jenkins, holder of many safety awards for his driving, set a new 100 mile record in the world's unlimited division of 190.6 mph. This was about six miles per hour better than his old mark.

3,000 Watch Farewell

An estimated 3,000 people watched Jenkins in his farewell to racing. They surged around the smoking car at the finish for a hero's welcome.

Jenkins already held all existing records from 25 miles up to 24 hours. Only last Labor Day he came out of retirement to smash 34 of his marks set 10 years earlier.

Four Homers Feature Game At Westernport

WESTERNPORT, July 20—McIntyre's grand slam homer in the first inning today sparked the Tigers to a 16-10 victory over the Pirates in a Tri-Towns Little League game.

Pennsy Woman Shooter Ties Harry Barton For High Gun

Shirley Orndoff Hits 97 At Ridgeley; State Events To Open Today

Miss Shirley Orndorff of Connellsville, Pa., and Harry J. Barton, Pinto dairyman and sportsman, shattered 97 out of a possible 100 16-yard targets to tie for high gun in the warm-up shoot preceding the 31st West Virginia State Trapshooting Tournament yesterday at the traps of the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club.

Three gunners tied for third place, namely, Calvin Collis, Bunker Hill, W. Va.; Tony Francis, Westernport, and Dr. B. R. Kinter, Bluefield, W. Va., with scores of 96.

Lawrence Stefl, Uniontown, Pa., won the handicap event by breaking 49 out of 50 from the 18 yard line. Orville Eberly, also of Uniontown, was the runner-up with 48 from 22 yards.

Richard Hornick, Johnstown, Pa., hit 46 out of 25 pairs to capture first place in the doubles. Eberly was second with 45.

Ray Loring, of Vandalia, Ohio, president of the Amateur Trapshooting Association, and Mrs. Loring are here to cashier the West Virginia state events which get under way today and end on Sunday. The Handicap and doubles championships will be decided today with the program scheduled to start at 10 a. m. Tomorrow the men's and women's singles and all-around champions will be determined. Midland Post nosed out Fort Cumberland Post in a Mountain District, American Legion Junior Baseball League contest yesterday at Community Park by the score of 6-5.

The home team spotted Midland five runs in the first two frames then knotted the count by the fifth by registering five runs on four hits, including "Chuck" Eirich's two-run double, and two walks.

A hit and two errors in the top of the seventh gave Midland the winning run.

Highlighting the contest was the fielding of Richards and Williams, Midland infielders, who turned in several nice plays.

Lefty Arnone went the route for Midland, yielding five hits and fanning 10. Harry McFarland held Midland to six safties and struck out five.

Savitt And Flam Defeat Japanese

U. S. Takes 2-0 Lead In Davis Cup Series

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 20 (AP) — Davis Club fledglings Dick Savitt and Herbie Flam swept over Japanese opponents without the loss of a set today to give the United States a 2-0 lead in the first round of the American Zone tennis eliminations.

Savitt, the big-dark-haired lad from Orange, N. J., who recently won the Wimbledon championship, fought off five set points in the opening series to subdue Fumiteru Nakano, Japan's little international veteran, 7-5, 6-3, 6-2.

Then Flam, Los Angeles' tireless retriever who holds the nation's No. 2 ranking, staged two stout rallies to conquer the Nipponese top-ranked player, Jiro Kumamaru, 7-5, 6-0, 7-5.

The matches — featuring Japan's first Davis Cup competition in 13 years and the first international meeting with the Americans since 1921 — were staged under a warm sun that bathed a crowd of 1,500 at the exclusive Louisville Club.

Thus America's young cup forces moved into a position to clinch the first round victory in tomorrow's doubles, starting at 2:30 p. m. (EST).

The Japanese have little hopes of upsetting Uncle Sam's crack tandem of Billy Talbert of New York and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, a hard-smashing, sharp-volleying pair unbeaten in 16 matches over two years.

Against this team the Japs will send Nakano and Goro Fujikura, a bespectacled left-hander from Tokyo. The final two singles matches, reversing today's lineup, are scheduled Sunday.

LEAD JOCKEYS' RACE—Willie Downs, of Baltimore (left) and Mike Sorrentino of the Bronx, N. Y., are running one-two in the race for the gold wrist watch Harvey's Jewelry Store is offering to the leading rider of the 10-day race meeting at Fairgo. At the close of yesterday's program Downs had a 4-4-4 record and 36 points. Right on his heels, however, was Sorrentino with 4-4-3 and 35 markers. Jimmie Baird was the winner of the prize in 1950. He's not at the present meet.

Times-News tossers defeated the Exchange Club in a ten-inning Hot Stove League battle last night at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 5-4, but the game was played under protest filed by Manager Ernest Killingsworth.

The Exchange Club pilot charged that Bittner, whose hit won the game, stepped across the plate and hit the ball when the sign was on to give him an intentional pass. Killingsworth also charged that the umpire restricted Catcher G. Smith from stepping aside to catch the ball on the intentional pass.

In the 10th, Lynn walked, stole second and third and raced home with the winning run after two out when Bittner reached across the plate and hit the ball over the centerfielder's head.

Grimes, the winning pitcher, struck out the side in the 8th after the Exchange Club had put runners on second and third.

Galen McGregor, Exchange Club pitcher, struck out 21 batsmen in 10 innings. Murphy, Page and Grimes fanned 15.

FAIRGO NOTES

By C. V. BURNS

Walter Haight, racing expert of the Washington Post, was in a reminiscent mood the other afternoon and recalled the days when vaudeville acts were staged during intermission between the races at Fairgo.

Jennings Randolph

Haight still gets a chuckle over the time Rep. Jennings Randolph of the second West Virginia District, was introduced over the loudspeaker as "William Jennings Bryan."

Several years later, Haight was writing about the Cumberland track and he called Randolph, who was still in Congress, to tell him that he would like to use the Bryan yarn in his column if it was O. K. with him.

Randolph told Haight that he would not object but he would like the writer to get the score straight.

"They didn't introduce me as William Jennings Bryan once," the Congressman shouted. "Believe it, or not, they pulled the same boner again last year!"

The West Virginian who served in Congress for 14 consecutive years, (1933-1947) is now assistant to the president of Capital Airlines.

NATS UPSET CHISOX

CHICAGO, July 20 (AP)—The sixth place Washington Senators tonight ruined the chances of the Chicago White Sox to bound into undisputed first place in the American League by defeating them 2-1 in 10 innings.

Outsiders Win Four Races At Fairgo, Beach Admiral Pays Off At $45.40

Downs Tops Riders, Williams Set Down, $190,101 Wagered

Outsiders grabbed the spotlight at Fairgo yesterday by winning four of the eight events for payoffs ranging from $45.40 to $19, as a crowd of 4,300 persons wagered $190,101 to soar the four-day mutuel handle to $722,747.

Fast Feather started the long shots rolling by grabbing off the opener. The F. R. Boone mare beat Tiz Tiz It, owned by Enoch P. Price of Frostburg, by a nose and returned the nice mutuel of $24.80 for each $2 straight investment. Hot Wire finished third and Hal's Play, the favorite, owned by Louis Waingold of Cumberland, finished in 6th place.

Beach Admiral Pays Best

The longest shot af the day registered in the fourth when A. T. Taylor's Beach Admiral with Mike Sorrentino up, defeated Hi-Barry and Charan which were coupled in the betting as the Lee-Ford entry. The payoff on the Admiral was $45.40, $15. and $7.20.

In the fifth event, J. Eversole piloted Four West to a 10 lengths' victory over Sporting Final, the favorite, over the muddy route of 1 1/16 miles and again the form players took a beating. Backers of Four West received $27.80, $11. and $5.20.

Always Late Is Not

Always Late, owned by L. A. Borowy and ridden by H. McKinney, was on time in the 8th and again the long shot players profited—to the tune of $19 for each $2 played on the nose of the winner. Hiya Pop was second and Penny Hill, third.

Chalk players got a chance to cheer in three races yesterday when Dutel captured the third at $6.60, Indian Ballard romped home first in the 6th at $6.20 and Havey B. beat One Up and Tomke to grab off the major portion of the purse in the seventh. The J. G. Cremen gelding returned $6.40 for $2.

Swing High, third choice in the wagering, annexed the second event on the card and coupled with Fast Feather for a winning daily double combination of 2-2 and a payoff of $127.80, the second best double price of the meeting.

Williams Is Suspended

The stewards announced that Jockey Richard Williams has been suspended for the remainder of the Cumberland meeting and for 10 additional days. Williams is charged with deliberately fouling in Thursday's 8th race in which he rode Glacial Run into second money. Williams, incidentally, was leading the race for the jockey's prize prior to yesterday's program.

J. Eversole rode two winners yesterday—Four West and Indian Ballad—but Willie Downs forged into first place with 36 points closely pursued by Mike Correntino with 35. Don Yates continues to set the pace for the trainers with 16 points but Mrs. G. A. Saportas, Jr., jumped into second place and now trails by a single point.

Yesterday's $190,101 mutuel handle was $33,560 above the amount bet on the 4th day of the 1950 meet. The four-day total for the current session tops the corresponding days last year by $100,392.

White Race Is Feature

The eighth renewal of the Clifton W. White, named in honor of the former president and general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association, is the 6th event on today's card at Fairgo. Post time for the first race is 2:30 p. m., E.D.T.

Walcott Given Big Reception On Return Home

Champ Gets Rousing Welcome At Camden

CAMDEN, N. J., July 20 (AP) — Jersey Joe Walcott brought the heavyweight boxing championship of the world home to Camden tonight amidst the greatest reception the city ever accorded a native son.

Joe Walcott

A smiling Walcott, his hands clasped over his head in sign of victory, stepped off a two-engine plane at Camden Airport at 4:15 p. m. E.S.T., to the sands of his fellow Camdenites. The crowd, estimated by Camden Police Chief Gustav Koener at more than 5,000 surged through police ropes and surrounded the plane.

"Welcome home, champ," the crowd chanted as Jersey Joe posed for a battery of news photographers and film cameramen. Following Walcott from the plane were his manager, Felix Bocchicchio, Trainer Dan Florio, second Arnold Herman, and press representative Jim McCullough.

The plane, which brought Walcott and his party home from Pittsburgh where he won the heavyweight championship Wednesday night by knocking Ezzard Charles out in 55 seconds of the seventh round, had been loaned to the group by Thomas E. Millsop, vice president of the National Steel Corporation.

E. George Aaron, director of public safety, said at least 100,000 persons lined the streets to watch the motorcade from the airport to city hall.

After police were able to clear a path through the coverging crowd, Walcott managed to reach his wife, Lydia, and six children who had been anxiously awaiting his arrival for some 20 minutes.

The happy champion embraced his wife and did a little dance as the two boys tried to shake his hand and the four girls attempted to kiss him—all at once.

The Walcott family—Arnold, Jr 17; Vince, 11; Ruth, 12; Doris, 14; Elva, 15, and Carol, six — was brought to the airport in a green convertible Cadillac, as part of an 11-car motorcade escorted by motorcycle police.

Waiting on the airport lawn before Jersey Joe's arrival, Mrs. Walcott said she certainly was happy about her husband winning the championship but, "I'd sometimes rather he'd be a champ at something else. I don't like boxing."

Teal Is Leader In Golf Tourney

Holds 3-Stroke Edge With Score Of 134

MILWAUKEE, July 20 (AP)—Glenn Teal, Knoxville, Tenn., pro, fired his second straight four-under-par 67 today to take over the unchallenged lead at the halfway point of the Blue Ribbon Open Golf tournament.

Teal wound up after 36 holes with an eight under 134, three strokes ahead of his nearest rival. A brisk 32 coming in today, four under the scorecard, produced his second successive sub-par round on the par 35-36—71 North Hills Country Club course.

Trailing the Tennessean, three strokes back, were Julius Boros, Mid-Pines, N. C.; Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif.; and Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., with 137.

The low 90 scorers at the end of today's round advance tomorrow into the second half of the $20,000 meet, third richest in the nation this year.

Teal, Snead and two others—Ed Oliver, Wilmington, Del., and Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex.—had shared the top spot jointly when play opened today on the 6,257 yard course. Oliver and Hawkins slipped to 75s today for 142 totals. Snead wound up with a 70, going one over par on the back nine after being two under at the turn.

Boros bettered his 69 opener by one stroke today and Demaret reversed the procedure with a 68-69 for their 137 ties with Snead.

The two leading money-winners of the tournament circuit at this point, Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, were four strokes off Teal's pace with 138. Tied with them were Joe Kirkwood, Jr., Hollywood; George Fazio, Pine Valley, N. J., and Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill.

Times-News tossers defeated the Exchange Club in a ten-inning Hot Stove League battle last night at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 5-4, but the game was played under protest filed by Manager Ernest Killingsworth.

The Exchange Club pilot charged that Bittner, whose hit won the game, stepped across the plate and hit the ball when the sign was on to give him an intentional pass. Killingsworth also charged that the umpire restricted Catcher G. Smith from stepping aside to catch the ball on the intentional pass.

In the 10th, Lynn walked, stole second and third and raced home with the winning run after two out when Bittner reached across the plate and hit the ball over the centerfielder's head.

Grimes, the winning pitcher, struck out the side in the 8th after the Exchange Club had put runners on second and third.

Galen McGregor, Exchange Club pitcher, struck out 21 batsmen in 10 innings. Murphy, Page and Grimes fanned 15.

Walcott Is 37

CAMDEN, N. J., July 20 (AP)—How old is heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott?

Records of the Camden County Bureau of Vital Statistics provided an official answer today: 37.

Jersey Joe, who knocked out Ezzard Charles in Pittsburgh Wednesday night to win the title has been a boxer for at least 20 years.

Jenkins Cracks 22 Land Speed Marks In Utah

3,000 See Veteran End Colorful Career

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, July 20 (AP)—Ab Jenkins, the old master racer, smashed 22 land speed records today before smoke and fumes drove him from the cockpit of his huge car.

The disabled Mormon Meteor III ground to a stop just three minutes away from a new one hour record, ending a long and colorful racing career for the former Salt Lake City mayor.

Disappointed, Jenkins crawled from the cockpit and reiterated that this was his last race:

"At 68, I've outworn the car," Jenkins said.

Last Race, Wife Says

"He's never going to race again," she declared.

Jenkins set out today to break 40 American and world records over the vast, crusty salt flats where he first started racing nearly 20 years ago.

When he finished, he had set five world unlimited records, six American unlimited records, five international Class A records and six American Class A records.

The quiet spoken, silver haired dean of America's speed car drivers was running at 141 miles per hour when he was forced to stop. He then jumped from the two and one half ton machine to escape injury.

At the time, he was on his 14th lap, only one half lap away on the 12 mile circular course from the one hour record.

The Meteor apparently ran over a wood marker on the edge of the course. A hose broke and the radiator water started to leak. The temperature rose to 300 degrees. Jenkins, blinded by smoke and fumes, veered from the course and pulled to a stop.

He said it would be a "tremendous job" to recondition the vehicle.

Jenkins, holder of many safety awards for his driving, set a new 100 mile record in the world's unlimited division of 190.6 mph. This was about six miles per hour better than his old mark.

3,000 Watch Farewell

An estimated 3,000 people watched Jenkins in his farewell to racing. They surged around the smoking car at the finish for a hero's welcome.

Jenkins already held all existing records from 25 miles up to 24 hours. Only last Labor Day he came out of retirement to smash 34 of his marks set 10 years earlier.

Four Homers Feature Game At Westernport

WESTERNPORT, July 20—McIntyre's grand slam homer in the first inning today sparked the Tigers to a 16-10 victory over the Pirates in a Tri-Towns Little League game.

Midland Post nosed out Fort Cumberland Post in a Mountain District, American Legion Junior Baseball League contest yesterday at Community Park by the score of 6-5.

The home team spotted Midland five runs in the first two frames then knotted the count by the fifth by registering five runs on four hits, including "Chuck" Eirich's two-run double, and two walks.

A hit and two errors in the top of the seventh gave Midland the winning run.

Highlighting the contest was the fielding of Richards and Williams, Midland infielders, who turned in several nice plays.

Lefty Arnone went the route for Midland, yielding five hits and fanning 10. Harry McFarland held Midland to six safties and struck out five.

U. S. Takes 2-0 Lead In Davis Cup Series

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 20 (AP) — Davis Club fledglings Dick Savitt and Herbie Flam swept over Japanese opponents without the loss of a set today to give the United States a 2-0 lead in the first round of the American Zone tennis eliminations.

Savitt, the big-dark-haired lad from Orange, N. J., who recently won the Wimbledon championship, fought off five set points in the opening series to subdue Fumiteru Nakano, Japan's little international veteran, 7-5, 6-3, 6-2.

Then Flam, Los Angeles' tireless retriever who holds the nation's No. 2 ranking, staged two stout rallies to conquer the Nipponese top-ranked player, Jiro Kumamaru, 7-5, 6-0, 7-5.

The matches — featuring Japan's first Davis Cup competition in 13 years and the first international meeting with the Americans since 1921 — were staged under a warm sun that bathed a crowd of 1,500 at the exclusive Louisville Club.

Thus America's young cup forces moved into a position to clinch the first round victory in tomorrow's doubles, starting at 2:30 p. m. (EST).

The Japanese have little hopes of upsetting Uncle Sam's crack tandem of Billy Talbert of New York and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, a hard-smashing, sharp-volleying pair unbeaten in 16 matches over two years.

Against this team the Japs will send Nakano and Goro Fujikura, a bespectacled left-hander from Tokyo. The final two singles matches, reversing today's lineup, are scheduled Sunday.

LEAD JOCKEYS' RACE—Willie Downs, of Baltimore (left) and Mike Sorrentino of the Bronx, N. Y., are running one-two in the race for the gold wrist watch Harvey's Jewelry Store is offering to the leading rider of the 10-day race meeting at Fairgo. At the close of yesterday's program Downs had a 4-4-4 record and 36 points. Right on his heels, however, was Sorrentino with 4-4-3 and 35 markers. Jimmie Baird was the winner of the prize in 1950. He's not at the present meet.

FAIRGO NOTES

By C. V. BURNS

Walter Haight, racing expert of the Washington Post, was in a reminiscent mood the other afternoon and recalled the days when vaudeville acts were staged during intermission between the races at Fairgo.

Jennings Randolph

Haight still gets a chuckle over the time Rep. Jennings Randolph of the second West Virginia District, was introduced over the loudspeaker as "William Jennings Bryan."

Several years later, Haight was writing about the Cumberland track and he called Randolph, who was still in Congress, to tell him that he would like to use the Bryan yarn in his column if it was O. K. with him.

Randolph told Haight that he would not object but he would like the writer to get the score straight.

"They didn't introduce me as William Jennings Bryan once," the Congressman shouted. "Believe it, or not, they pulled the same boner again last year!"

The West Virginian who served in Congress for 14 consecutive years, (1933-1947) is now assistant to the president of Capital Airlines.

Alan T. Clarke, who was so successful during Maryland's spring racing season, used to be a regular visitor at Fairgo.

Cats can see better in the dusk than a human being because cats' eyes are sensitive to ultra-violet rays and their pupils are capable of greater expansion, thus letting more light in.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Harvey E. Devore and Thelma Lorraine Devore, his wife, vs. Catherine Leota Devore Sullivan, Alice Lee Devore and Jean Louise Sullivan and William Sullivan, No. 22264 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the adoption of Jean Louise Sullivan by Harvey E. Devore and Thelma Lorraine Devore, his wife.

The Bill recites that the said Jean Louise Sullivan is the daughter of William Sullivan and Catherine Leota Devore Sullivan, That the said William Sullivan is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, his whereabouts being unknown. That Catherine Leota Devore Sullivan, has signed a consent to the adoption of said minor child. That Harvey E. Devore is the Grandfather of said minor child and Thelma Lorraine Devore is the step grandmother of said child.

It is thereupon ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, this 29th day of June 1951, that the Plaintiffs, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some daily newspaper published in Allegany County Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks, before the 1st day of August, 1951, give notice to the said William Sullivan of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor on or before the 18th day of August 1951, and show cause, if any he may have, why the relief prayed herein by the plaintiffs should not be granted as prayed.

MUTUEL PRICES—Swing High, $7.60, $3.60, $3.00; Beetlebomb, $3.40, $2.80; Hawkwood Aress, $5.80.

WINNER—Owned by Mrs. L. Lamm, trained by L. Lamm.

SWING HIGH showed good ability over the track. Assumed clear lead down the backstretch but weakened slightly and had to be hard driven to stave off the challenge of BEETLEBOMB down the stretch. Latter worked his way up gradually moved towards outside in stretch and was wearing the winner down with each stride. HAWKWOOD ARESS well up throughout, made a strong bid turning into the homestretch but weakened. GOLDEN PLUM was under a strong pull early stages but failed to respond to strong urging. LUCKY LINDA quit after going a half mile.

DAILY DOUBLE—Fast Feather (2) and Swing High (2) paid $127.80.

WINNER—Owned by Mrs. W. B. Dietrich, trained by S. Greene, Jr.

DUTEL ran as though much the best. Assumed a clear lead soon after the start and won with plenty in reserve. VALDINA CLOWN moved through on the inside made a game effort down the back stretch but was no match for the winner. BRAVE LEONA worked her way up gradually and closed well in the final half mile. GOLDIES FUN turned in a good performance. HIGH NOTE on the outside throughout failed to make up any ground in a poor effort. MERRY NYMPH turned in a dull effort.

FOURTH RACE—About 5 furlongs. PURSE—$1,000—700-150-100-50. 2 yr. olds, claiming, $3,000 to $2,500. HANDLE—$22,382.

Cats can see better in the dusk than a human being because cats' eyes are sensitive to ultra-violet rays and their pupils are capable of greater expansion, thus letting more light in.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Harvey E. Devore and Thelma Lorraine Devore, his wife, vs. Catherine Leota Devore Sullivan, Alice Lee Devore and Jean Louise Sullivan and William Sullivan, No. 22264 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the adoption of Jean Louise Sullivan by Harvey E. Devore and Thelma Lorraine Devore, his wife.

The Bill recites that the said Jean Louise Sullivan is the daughter of William Sullivan and Catherine Leota Devore Sullivan, That the said William Sullivan is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, his whereabouts being unknown. That Catherine Leota Devore Sullivan, has signed a consent to the adoption of said minor child. That Harvey E. Devore is the Grandfather of said minor child and Thelma Lorraine Devore is the step grandmother of said child.

It is thereupon ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, this 29th day of June 1951, that the Plaintiffs, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some daily newspaper published in Allegany County Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks, before the 1st day of August, 1951, give notice to the said William Sullivan of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor on or before the 18th day of August 1951, and show cause, if any he may have, why the relief prayed herein by the plaintiffs should not be granted as prayed.

WINNER—Owned by F. R. Boone, trained by J. L. Twigg.

FAST FEATHER raced under restraint, moved up boldly entering homestretch and under a hard ride just got up. TIZ TIZ IT set the pace under hustling tactics came up at the top of the homestretch and just failed to last. HOT WIRE far back in the early stages, circled his field and closed resolutely. BRIARBROOM was in the thick of contention early but weakened when called upon. The others were out matched.

SECOND RACE—6½ furlongs. PURSE—$900—625-125-100-50. 4 and up, claiming, all $1,000. HANDLE—$17,066. DD—$19,332.

WINNER—Owned by Mrs. L. Lamm, trained by L. Lamm.

SWING HIGH showed good ability over the track. Assumed clear lead down the backstretch but weakened slightly and had to be hard driven to stave off the challenge of BEETLEBOMB down the stretch. Latter worked his way up gradually moved towards outside in stretch and was wearing the winner down with each stride. HAWKWOOD ARESS well up throughout, made a strong bid turning into the homestretch but weakened. GOLDEN PLUM was under a strong pull early stages but failed to respond to strong urging. LUCKY LINDA quit after going a half mile.

DAILY DOUBLE—Fast Feather (2) and Swing High (2) paid $127.80.

WINNER—Owned by Mrs. W. B. Dietrich, trained by S. Greene, Jr.

DUTEL ran as though much the best. Assumed a clear lead soon after the start and won with plenty in reserve. VALDINA CLOWN moved through on the inside made a game effort down the back stretch but was no match for the winner. BRAVE LEONA worked her way up gradually and closed well in the final half mile. GOLDIES FUN turned in a good performance. HIGH NOTE on the outside throughout failed to make up any ground in a poor effort. MERRY NYMPH turned in a dull effort.

FOURTH RACE—About 5 furlongs. PURSE—$1,000—700-150-100-50. 2 yr. olds, claiming, $3,000 to $2,500. HANDLE—$22,382.

WINNER—Owned by A. T. Taylor, trained by Mrs. G. A. Saportas, Jr.

BEACH ADMIRAL was much the best. Took clear lead at the start, went extremely wide entering stretch but was quickly straightened out and won under clever handling. HI-BARRY moved between horses down the back stretch and made up ground at the end. CHARAN was well up throughout and had no excuses. SPEEDY DUST weakened after showing good speed for two furlongs. GLITTER BIT made a strong challenge along inside in the stretch but was well beaten off. THRONE and SAPLING failed to display any speed in the going.

FIFTH RACE—1 1/16 miles. PURSE—$1,000—700-150-100-50. 3 and 4 yr. old maidens. HANDLE—$21,115.

WINNER—Owned by H. Meyers, trained by W. F. Parks.

FOUR WEST far back in early stages, moved through on the inside after going six furlongs, opened up a long lead entering stretch and won easily. SPORTING FINAL displaced SEA LEVEL for command after going half mile but could not menace the winner. SEA LEVEL took command at the start, but weakened badly when called upon. BUSY BONES made a strong challenge but flattened out turning into the homestretch. VIOLATION failed to display any speed during the running.

Concert, Talent Program Open Area Playground

Group Singing Is Led At Piedmont By Seaman

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — A band concert by the junior band, sponsored by the Potomac Fire Company, Westernport, directed by Charles Ducas, and a talent program featured the official opening of the Piedmont Playground on the high school grounds Thursday evening.

The program announced by Edward Seaman, a member of the Piedmont High School faculty, included a cowboy song and yodle by Arbutus Taylor; clarinet solo, Jerry Harrison; song and dance, Betty Lee Dixon; solo, Tommy Kooken; vocal solo, Bonnie Kooken; band selection; song and dance, Becky and Carolyn Harshbarger; accordion solo, George Matthews; song and dance, Sue Nofsinger; cornet solo, Bobby Broadwater; vocal duet, Sue Nofsinger and Bonnie Kooken.

Group singing was led by Seaman. Harold Marsh, co-director of the playgrounds, sponsored by the Tri-Towns Recreation Association, outlined the programs being carried out each week on the various playgrounds and appealed for more volunteer help.

Members of the Piedmont City Council attended and Mervin High, a city councilman, made brief remarks.

The program closed with the band playing the grand march, with many persons participating. Following was an announcement by "Smoky" Householder of Keyser, thanking those who helped Keyser in the recent program at one of their playgrounds'. The program ended with the band playing the National Anthem.

Concrete Work On Keyser Span Almost Complete

Parkersburg Fire Delays Steel

KEYSER, W. Va.—The last stretch of concrete for the deck of the new Potomac River Bridge from Keyser to McCoole was poured about noon Friday.

Superintendent Henry Dye, in charge of the present contract work, said that through the rest of the day, concrete was poured for that portion of the sidewalks that have not been completed over the river and through to the McCoole section. He said also, that he expects to have additional information on the metal for the bridge railings by Monday.

There was some fear that a part of the railing material had been seriously damaged in the fire that spread through the plant in Parkersburg last Sunday night, where the rails and upright portions of the railing was being fabricated. He will visit the plant over the weekend to get additional information.

If a great amount of the metal parts was destroyed there might be a long delay in completing the bridge, but there is hope that some of the metal may be available.

With all concrete poured for the deck, only the two inch surfacing of the deck with black top remains for that part of the bridge. Concrete posts are to be placed on the sidewalk edge for supports for the fencing and the pouring of concrete for the sidewalks. Painting of the structure will probably be the last of the operations on the bridge.

The English artist G. F. Watts did not sell his paintings. He gave them to the nation.

Mt. Savage Marine Receives Award For Heroism In Korea

MT. SAVAGE.—Marine First Lt. Howard G. Blank, son of Walter F. Blank, Mt. Savage, received a letter of commendation ribbon with combat "V" at Parris Island, S. C. recently for heroism in Korea.

The Mt. Savage marine received the decoration at special ceremonies from Major Gen. Robert H. Pepper, commanding general of the Recruit Depot at Parris Island.

Lieutenant Blank was cited for his actions from November 27 to December 12 while serving as a mortar section leader in Korea. His commendation pointed out that, regardless of danger, he continually exposed himself to enemy fire to deploy his section in the most advantageous position for accurate, effective fire.

The marine officer came into the corps in December, 1942, and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Reserve January 1, 1945. After two years on inactive duty following World War II, Lieutenant Blank was appointed a regular marine officer and has been on active duty since June of 1948.

The Korean veteran is now serving as a company officer for a class of platoon leaders taking their primary training leading up to a commission for themselves.

Group Singing Is Led At Piedmont By Seaman

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — A band concert by the junior band, sponsored by the Potomac Fire Company, Westernport, directed by Charles Ducas, and a talent program featured the official opening of the Piedmont Playground on the high school grounds Thursday evening.

The program announced by Edward Seaman, a member of the Piedmont High School faculty, included a cowboy song and yodle by Arbutus Taylor; clarinet solo, Jerry Harrison; song and dance, Betty Lee Dixon; solo, Tommy Kooken; vocal solo, Bonnie Kooken; band selection; song and dance, Becky and Carolyn Harshbarger; accordion solo, George Matthews; song and dance, Sue Nofsinger; cornet solo, Bobby Broadwater; vocal duet, Sue Nofsinger and Bonnie Kooken.

Group singing was led by Seaman. Harold Marsh, co-director of the playgrounds, sponsored by the Tri-Towns Recreation Association, outlined the programs being carried out each week on the various playgrounds and appealed for more volunteer help.

Members of the Piedmont City Council attended and Mervin High, a city councilman, made brief remarks.

The program closed with the band playing the grand march, with many persons participating. Following was an announcement by "Smoky" Householder of Keyser, thanking those who helped Keyser in the recent program at one of their playgrounds'. The program ended with the band playing the National Anthem.

Concrete Work On Keyser Span Almost Complete

Parkersburg Fire Delays Steel

KEYSER, W. Va.—The last stretch of concrete for the deck of the new Potomac River Bridge from Keyser to McCoole was poured about noon Friday.

Superintendent Henry Dye, in charge of the present contract work, said that through the rest of the day, concrete was poured for that portion of the sidewalks that have not been completed over the river and through to the McCoole section. He said also, that he expects to have additional information on the metal for the bridge railings by Monday.

There was some fear that a part of the railing material had been seriously damaged in the fire that spread through the plant in Parkersburg last Sunday night, where the rails and upright portions of the railing was being fabricated. He will visit the plant over the weekend to get additional information.

If a great amount of the metal parts was destroyed there might be a long delay in completing the bridge, but there is hope that some of the metal may be available.

With all concrete poured for the deck, only the two inch surfacing of the deck with black top remains for that part of the bridge. Concrete posts are to be placed on the sidewalk edge for supports for the fencing and the pouring of concrete for the sidewalks. Painting of the structure will probably be the last of the operations on the bridge.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 20—(INS)—As good as Loretta Young is in comedy—and there are few actresses who are better—she's still going to have to stick to the straight and narrow path—and no nonsense. Her picture, "Half Angel," brought on an avalanche of criticism from her fans. They didn't like their Loretta in this sort of thing.

Loretta Young

So, I am sure it's good news to her many admirers that Loretta goes to Columbia to star in "The Mother," for Harry Cohn. With that title it couldn't be anything but a sweet, sentimental story.

Larry Marcus, who wrote "Cause For Alarm" for Loretta, is the author of "The Mother," an original. Buddy Adler is set to produce, and Rudy Mate to direct her. You may remember that "Cause For Alarm" rated rave reviews from the highbrow critics—most of whom would have given Loretta an academy nomination if they had had their way.

When Jean Peters joined 20th Century-Fox, there was quite a fanfare and much talk about her. Then for some reason we heard little about her and she seemed to be lost amidst all the other glamor girls on that lot.

Now again we're hearing about Jean. After she finishes "Viva Zapata" she'll have the top role in "Wait Till The Sun Shines, Nellie" opposite David Wayne. This is the story that takes place in a small town over a span of sixty years and Jean plays her own grandmother—if you know what I mean.

Henry King, who directs only the biggest, and George Jessel, who produces only the best musicals, are the team elected to bring this to the screen. It starts August 13.

If it hadn't been sheer music to their ears, the Paramount bosses might have been embarrassed at the way Dixie Crosby was bent double with loud laughter at the preview of "Here Comes The Groom."

When she came out, Dixie said she thought it was the funniest picture Bing has ever made—and Der Bingle has always said she is his No. 1 critic (Editorial comment! I agree with Dixie — it's such a funny comedy.)

The end of the week, Dixie and Gary just recovering from an operation) leave for Lake Tahoe and then Hayden Lake, joining Bing and the other boys at the latter spot.

Mrs. Dean Martin has given up the road tour with Dean. It was too strenuous so she's coming home to stay until after her baby is born.

I suppose I should feel flattered. A French movie columnist writing for the Cinemonde, by-lines his movie column, Louella Tout Le Monde—meaning, Louella Everybody.

What does this mean? Farley Granger has been dating Janet Thompson, Los Angeles socialite who was recently presented at court. Farley and the young lady have been at Mocambo several times.

Bill Bendix planes out July 26 to do "Detective Story" in Norwich, Connecticut.

During the flood Mary Carlyle and her baby were in Kansas City visiting her husband, Jimmy Blakely, who was making a government film there. Mary and the children got out of the hotel only to discover she had left her jewels. Jimmy went back to get them and was stuck on a fire escape for twelve hours.

Jon (Cosmopolitan) Whitcomb and Steve Dohannos are giving a party in Westport in honor of Claudette Colbert—not Colbert the star, but Colbert the painter, the artist.

If you think Tony Curtis' marriage to Janet Leigh has hurt his popularity with the femmes listen to this. His fan mail has jumped to 1500 letters a week.

Lucille Rymer and John Carroll were at the King's for a business confab with George Distel, the owner. The Carrols have bought a ranch and they're going to raise beef, and Distel is a customer.

Charles Bennett writes me from Cuernavaca, Mexico, to say he and Betty have not broken up and there's been no suggestion of it. That I'm glad to hear. He says "Madness Of The Heart," a Margaret Lockwood picture which he wrote two years ago, is a smash hit in Mexico.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Whist Expert Dies

Florida Governor Refuses To Testify

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — The Senate Crime Committee has dropped its efforts to question Gov. Fuller Warren of Florida about crime in his state.

It said "he refuses to testify under oath'—the committee statement underlined the words "under oath'—and that it did not want to hear from him otherwise.

Chairman O'Conor (D-Md) of the committee said the Governor has turned down all opportunities to testify on committee statements that organized criminal operations have been tolerated by law enforcement authorities responsible to the Governor.

It is not good form to accept an invitation to a card game if you cannot play the game.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Should you resent having someone forget you?

Answer: It is certainly not flattering to have someone whom you met and talked with at an evening party show no sign of recognizing you on the street next day. But the "slur" may be less serious than you think. The person may be short-sighted, or you yourself may look some different than you realized in street clothes. At best, you rarely are as important to your neighbors or make as profound an impression on them as you would like, and the more self-centered any other person is, the truer this will be. It is the other fellow's self-absorption, not anything wrong with you, that is most apt to make him (or her) forget you.

Has your child a right to dislike you?

Answer: Yes, says P. M. Freeston in the English magazine, Childhood. "The angry child has a point of view," which he cannot help holding for the moment, and there is no use in trying to deny it, or blaming or punishing him for it. As he sees the situation, it is: "I want this. Mummy can give it to me. She doesn't. Therefore she is unkind." He sees things this way because he lives not only one day, but one moment at a time, so that at a given moment all that you did for him yesterday—or ten minutes ago—has vanished from his conscious mind. He will acquire memory and "perspective" by degrees as he grows older.

Have your worries a real basis?

Answer: You can probably "prove" they have to your own satisfaction, yet their unreal sources almost certainly outweigh the real ones. For just as it is unconscious impulses that make you worry in the first place, so you select certain things to worry about because of the unconscious "meaning" they have for you. The extent to which you worry about going broke, for instance, depends much less upon the actual chances of your doing so than on such unconscious feelings as that you do not deserve to have money. To cut down your worrying, face the worst of any given danger involved and realize that you could live through it.

Lemon squash is the term used in England for lemonade.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

LONDON—(INS)—If you plan to come to England this summer, don't let anyone talk you out of taking in the festival. It's a first class show—not as overwhelming as were the fairs of New York, San Francisco and Chicago before the war, but worth your time and shillings.

The festival's focal points are on the south bank of the Thames at London, where the bulk of the exhibits are handsomely based on land once corroded by poverty and Nazi bombing, and at Battersea, a bit up the river, where a tame amusement park named "Pleasure Gardens" has been built.

But unlike our remembered fairs and expositions, England's festival is nation-wide. Every city and nearly every hamlet is celebrating its contribution to British life with a show of some sort. You can't get very far away from the festival in England this year. It's broad scale ranges from the manuscripts and cottage at Stratford-On-Avon to the obscure likes of a wizard little stamp and pewter exhibit at High Uppington, Middlesex.

This spreading of what we usually consider an activity which normally must be concentrated has enabled the British to add such "exhibits" as Buckingham Palace, Parliament, The Tower, Westminster, Big Ben and the like—all superbly lighted each evening of what has been a surprisingly temperate London summer.

One would have to be a pretty determined anglophobe to fail to be touched by the British outlook on their 'festival. This is, with the exception of the short-lived Olympic games in 1948, the only touch of color this rationed and tax-burdened land has had in more than a dozen years.

The fact that the South Bank Exposition has risen from festering slum and blasted brick is considered symbolic of the entire country's struggle to get back on its feet. The British are justly proud that no American money was needed to stage the festival; proud, too, of the fact that Britain was the first voluntarily to give up Marshall Plan aid; proud of the way the RAF is paying half the cost of making the Anglo-American airbases of England the strongest in the world.

Fun-seekers among the U. S. visitors will find the Pleasure Gardens about as flat as British beer, though there is one horrifying "ride" which flattens its customers against the interior of a large vat, in grotesque positions, by means of centrifugal force. Sufferers from heart trouble please omit.

The South Bank exhibits, especially those housed under the largest dome ever constructed, place a rather heavy strain on pilgrims who do not have university degrees in chemistry, engineering, archaeology, meteorology, zoology, physics and the like. As one who never finished high school, I had to be led by the hand. But what one of Sir Alexander Maxwell's men explained to me was impressive.

There is a "modern housing" exhibit which has attracted enormous crowds of wistful people, come to stare at such futuristic devices as central heating, refrigerators, deep freezes, venetian blinds and other things we take for granted. An exhibit of hens and cows at work is a smash success, too. As is a garbage dis-pos-al.

But the longest queues are drawn by the telecinema, a 400-seat theater which may be the prototype of larger temples of our own. Its program is made up of full-screen television, clear as crystal, and breath-taking, if still primitive, three-dimensional films and cartoons.

A good show and a good-natured one. In the colorful "Lion and Unicorn" building (the Lion symbolizes strength and the Unicorn legend and tradition) there is an exhibit of English language newspapers from all over the world—and a fun-poking caption which reads:

"English is understood almost everywhere . . . and the English almost nowhere."

KEEPING UP WITH

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 20—(INS)—As good as Loretta Young is in comedy—and there are few actresses who are better—she's still going to have to stick to the straight and narrow path—and no nonsense. Her picture, "Half Angel," brought on an avalanche of criticism from her fans. They didn't like their Loretta in this sort of thing.

Loretta Young

So, I am sure it's good news to her many admirers that Loretta goes to Columbia to star in "The Mother," for Harry Cohn. With that title it couldn't be anything but a sweet, sentimental story.

Larry Marcus, who wrote "Cause For Alarm" for Loretta, is the author of "The Mother," an original. Buddy Adler is set to produce, and Rudy Mate to direct her. You may remember that "Cause For Alarm" rated rave reviews from the highbrow critics—most of whom would have given Loretta an academy nomination if they had had their way.

• — • — •

When Jean Peters joined 20th Century-Fox, there was quite a fanfare and much talk about her. Then for some reason we heard little about her and she seemed to be lost amidst all the other glamor girls on that lot.

Now again we're hearing about Jean. After she finishes "Viva Zapata" she'll have the top role in "Wait Till The Sun Shines, Nellie" opposite David Wayne. This is the story that takes place in a small town over a span of sixty years and Jean plays her own grandmother—if you know what I mean.

Henry King, who directs only the biggest, and George Jessel, who produces only the best musicals, are the team elected to bring this to the screen. It starts August 13.

• — • — •

If it hadn't been sheer music to their ears, the Paramount bosses might have been embarrassed at the way Dixie Crosby was bent double with loud laughter at the preview of "Here Comes The Groom."

When she came out, Dixie said she thought it was the funniest picture Bing has ever made—and Der Bingle has always said she is his No. 1 critic (Editorial comment! I agree with Dixie — it's such a funny comedy.)

The end of the week, Dixie and Gary just recovering from an operation) leave for Lake Tahoe and then Hayden Lake, joining Bing and the other boys at the latter spot.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Mrs. Dean Martin has given up the road tour with Dean. It was too strenuous so she's coming home to stay until after her baby is born.

I suppose I should feel flattered. A French movie columnist writing for the Cinemonde, by-lines his movie column, Louella Tout Le Monde—meaning, Louella Everybody.

What does this mean? Farley Granger has been dating Janet Thompson, Los Angeles socialite who was recently presented at court. Farley and the young lady have been at Mocambo several times.

Bill Bendix planes out July 26 to do "Detective Story" in Norwich, Connecticut.

During the flood Mary Carlyle and her baby were in Kansas City visiting her husband, Jimmy Blakely, who was making a government film there. Mary and the children got out of the hotel only to discover she had left her jewels. Jimmy went back to get them and was stuck on a fire escape for twelve hours.

Jon (Cosmopolitan) Whitcomb and Steve Dohannos are giving a party in Westport in honor of Claudette Colbert—not Colbert the star, but Colbert the painter, the artist.

If you think Tony Curtis' marriage to Janet Leigh has hurt his popularity with the femmes listen to this. His fan mail has jumped to 1500 letters a week.

Lucille Rymer and John Carroll were at the King's for a business confab with George Distel, the owner. The Carrols have bought a ranch and they're going to raise beef, and Distel is a customer.

Charles Bennett writes me from Cuernavaca, Mexico, to say he and Betty have not broken up and there's been no suggestion of it. That I'm glad to hear. He says "Madness Of The Heart," a Margaret Lockwood picture which he wrote two years ago, is a smash hit in Mexico.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Whist Expert Dies

Florida Governor Refuses To Testify

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — The Senate Crime Committee has dropped its efforts to question Gov. Fuller Warren of Florida about crime in his state.

It said "he refuses to testify under oath'—the committee statement underlined the words "under oath'—and that it did not want to hear from him otherwise.

Chairman O'Conor (D-Md) of the committee said the Governor has turned down all opportunities to testify on committee statements that organized criminal operations have been tolerated by law enforcement authorities responsible to the Governor.

It is not good form to accept an invitation to a card game if you cannot play the game.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Should you resent having someone forget you?

Answer: It is certainly not flattering to have someone whom you met and talked with at an evening party show no sign of recognizing you on the street next day. But the "slur" may be less serious than you think. The person may be shortsighted, or you yourself may look some different than you realized in street clothes. At best, you rarely are as important to your neighbors or make as profound an impression on them as you would like, and the more self-centered any other person is, the truer this will be. It is the other fellow's self-absorption, not anything wrong with you, that is most apt to make him (or her) forget you.

Has your child a right to dislike you?

Answer: Yes, says P. M. Freeston in the English magazine, Childhood. "The angry child has a point of view," which he cannot help holding for the moment, and there is no use in trying to deny it, or blaming or punishing him for it. As he sees the situation, it is: "I want this. Mummy can give it to me. She doesn't. Therefore she is unkind." He sees things this way because he lives not only one day, but one moment at a time, so that at a given moment all that you did for him yesterday—or ten minutes ago—has vanished from his conscious mind. He will acquire memory and "perspective" by degrees as he grows older.

Have your worries a real basis?

Answer: You can probably "prove" they have to your own satisfaction, yet their unreal sources almost certainly outweigh the real ones. For just as it is unconscious impulses that make you worry in the first place, so you select certain things to worry about because of the unconscious "meaning" they have for you. The extent to which you worry about going broke, for instance, depends much less upon the actual chances of your doing so than on such unconscious feelings as that you do not deserve to have money. To cut down your worrying, face the worst of any given danger involved and realize that you could live through it.

Lemon squash is the term used in England for lemonade.

By BOB CONSIDINE

LONDON—(INS)—If you plan to come to England this summer, don't let anyone talk you out of taking in the festival. It's a first class show—not as overwhelming as were the fairs of New York, San Francisco and Chicago before the war, but worth your time and shillings.

The festival's focal points are on the south bank of the Thames at London, where the bulk of the exhibits are handsomely based on land once corroded by poverty and Nazi bombing, and at Battersea, a bit up the river, where a tame amusement park named "Pleasure Gardens" has been built.

But unlike our remembered fairs and expositions, England's festival is nation-wide. Every city and nearly every hamlet is celebrating its contribution to British life with a show of some sort. You can't get very far away from the festival in England this year. It's broad scale ranges from the manuscripts and cottage at Stratford-On-Avon to the obscure likes of a wizard little stamp and pewter exhibit at High Uppington, Middlesex.

This spreading of what we usually consider an activity which normally must be concentrated has enabled the British to add such "exhibits" as Buckingham Palace, Parliament, The Tower, Westminster, Big Ben and the like—all superbly lighted each evening of what has been a surprisingly temperate London summer.

One would have to be a pretty determined anglophobe to fail to be touched by the British outlook on their festival. This is, with the exception of the short-lived Olympic games in 1948, the only touch of color this rationed and tax-burdened land has had in more than a dozen years.

The fact that the South Bank Exposition has risen from festering slum and blasted brick is considered symbolic of the entire country's struggle to get back on its feet. The British are justly proud that no American money was needed to stage the festival; proud, too, of the fact that Britain was the first voluntarily to give up Marshall Plan aid; proud of the way the RAF is paying half the cost of making the Anglo-American airbases of England the strongest in the world.

Fun-seekers among the U. S. visitors will find the Pleasure Gardens about as flat as British beer, though there is one horrifying "ride" which flattens its customers against the interior of a large vat, in grotesque positions, by means of centrifugal force. Sufferers from heart trouble please omit.

The South Bank exhibits, especially those housed under the largest dome ever constructed, place a rather heavy strain on pilgrims who do not have university degrees in chemistry, engineering, archaeology, meteorology, zoology, physics and the like. As one who never finished high school, I had to be led by the hand. But what one of Sir Alexander Maxwell's men explained to me was impressive.

There is a "modern housing" exhibit which has attracted enormous crowds of wistful people, come to stare at such futuristic devices as central heating, refrigerators, deep freezes, venetian blinds and other things we take for granted. An exhibit of hens and cows at work is a smash success, too. As is a garbage dis-pos-al.

But the longest queues are drawn by the telecinema, a 400-seat theater which may be the prototype of larger temples of our own. Its program is made up of full-screen television, clear as crystal, and breathtaking, if still primitive, three-dimensional films and cartoons.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Our Tragic Sense Of Smell

I was lying in bed the other day singing that old folk song "Dream Girl, Dream Girl, Beautiful Lustre Cream Girl" and reading NBC's new code of practices for radio and television when I fell upon a paragraph which arrested the song just before that poignant line, "You owe your crowning glory to—Lustre Cream Shampoo.".

John Crosby

"Intimately personal products which are not acceptable conversational topics in mixed social groups; laxatives and deodorants are not accepted unless the program and commercial presentation are handled in accordance with the highest standards of good taste and business ethics," says NBC in this paragraph.

• — • — •

I don't fully understand this paragraph. You mean, NBC, deodorants are not acceptable conversational topics? They are in our house. We never get over discussing the romances blighted because the girls weren't half safe. Frankly, I never thought any girl was half safe or even one quarter safe; I consider them dangerous no matter what you drench them with, but that's neither here nor there.

Anyhow, that side of the story—the fact that the course of true love is largely dependent on what deodorant a girl uses—is well known. But there is another side of the story, NBC, and this one had better be suppressed over the air too. This one is the story of a friend of mine, name of Halligan, whose life was ruined, not because he didn't read the deodorant ads and take heed, but because he did.

Halligan was on the verge of marrying one of those horse-loving girls who never get more than a brief canter from the stables. Naturally, she was a little gamey and Halligan, I think, might have endured this with equanamity but for the deodorant ads. He was overeducated in this respect, reading all of them and listening to them carefully on the air. Finally, he did what he thought was the proper thing for any normal, red-blooded, full-nostrilled American. He broke it off, as he had been carefully instructed to do.

Well, sir, it was just the other day this girl inherited $20,000,000. Halligan's heart, which had survived the loss of the girl without serious damage, was broken right in half by the loss of the $20,000,000. He has, to put it mildly, lost faith in the deodorant people. In fact, if he ever meets one on the street, the deodorant man better take cover if he wants to be anywhere near half safe.

Last time I saw Halligan, he was brooding darkly over a glass of beer, muttering: "For 20,000,000 fish a man could have his nose operated on or maybe even cuf it off."

As far as television is concerned, my sympathies are on the side of the deodorant mob. They've had a terrible time trying to mix what NBC calls "the highest standards of good taste" with a reasonable approximation of coherence. There is one TV commercial, for example, which shows three witches—lovely sleek, well-groomed girls, but witches, nevertheless—their eyes alight with scandal, whispering to one another: "Mary lost her man because of that. Because of that! Because of that!" Because of what? Her brother's an embezzler? She's got maybe two heads? Speak up, man.

• — • — •

The most abstract of them all, a commercial which is almost as pure an art form as music in that it's hard to explain by anything so mundane as words, is one where a robed woman—half in the light, half in shadow—goes down a gloomy corridor as doors close on either side of her.

Pure mysticism, that one. My explanation is that this girl is half woman, half elf and she isn't welcome either in the world of people or the world of elves because neither world can see her, touch her or—the most sinister tragedy of all—smell her.

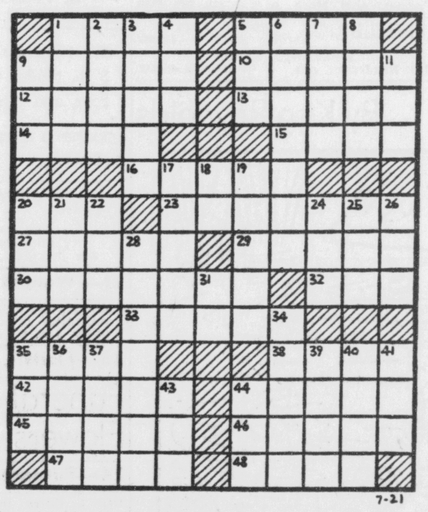
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Our Tragic Sense Of Smell

I was lying in bed the other day singing that old folk song "Dream Girl, Dream Girl, Beautiful Lustre Cream Girl" and reading NBC's new code of practices for radio and television when I fell upon a paragraph which arrested the song just before that poignant line, "You owe your crowning glory to—Lustre Cream Shampoo.".

John Crosby

"Intimately personal products which are not acceptable conversational topics in mixed social groups; laxatives and deodorants are not accepted unless the program and commercial presentation are handled in accordance with the highest standards of good taste and business ethics," says NBC in this paragraph.

I don't fully understand this paragraph. You mean, NBC, deodorants are not acceptable conversational topics? They are in our house. We never get over discussing the romances blighted because the girls weren't half safe. Frankly, I never thought any girl was half safe or even one quarter safe; I consider them dangerous no matter what you drench them with, but that's neither here nor there.

Anyhow, that side of the story—the fact that the course of true love is largely dependent on what deodorant a girl uses—is well known. But there is another side of the story, NBC, and this one had better be suppressed over the air too. This one is the story of a friend of mine, name of Halligan, whose life was ruined, not because he didn't read the deodorant ads and take heed, but because he did.

Halligan was on the verge of marrying one of those horse-loving girls who never get more than a brief canter from the stables. Naturally, she was a little gamey and Halligan, I think, might have endured this with equanamity but for the deodorant ads. He was overeducated in this respect, reading all of them and listening to them carefully on the air. Finally, he did what he thought was the proper thing for any normal, red-blooded, full-nostrilled American. He broke it off, as he had been carefully instructed to do.

Well, sir, it was just the other day this girl inherited $20,000,000. Halligan's heart, which had survived the loss of the girl without serious damage, was broken right in half by the loss of the $20,000,000. He has, to put it mildly, lost faith in the deodorant people. In fact, if he ever meets one on the street, the deodorant man better take cover if he wants to be anywhere near half safe.

Last time I saw Halligan, he was brooding darkly over a glass of beer, muttering: "For 20,000,000 fish a man could have his nose operated on or maybe even cuf it off."

As far as television is concerned, my sympathies are on the side of the deodorant mob. They've had a terrible time trying to mix what NBC calls "the highest standards of good taste" with a reasonable approximation of coherence. There is one TV commercial, for example, which shows three witches—lovely sleek, well-groomed girls, but witches, nevertheless—their eyes alight with scandal, whispering to one another: "Mary lost her man because of that. Because of that! Because of that!" Because of what? Her brother's an embezzler? She's got maybe two heads? Speak up, man.

The most abstract of them all, a commercial which is almost as pure an art form as music in that it's hard to explain by anything so mundane as words, is one where a robed woman—half in the light, half in shadow—goes down a gloomy corridor as doors close on either side of her.

Pure mysticism, that one. My explanation is that this girl is half woman, half elf and she isn't welcome either in the world of people or the world of elves because neither world can see her, touch her or—the most sinister tragedy of all—smell her.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

I N X V G Z F M Z N B Z O F G J U J B P U, C F G
J Y J B I J C U P B C F W J B P Z V Z Y J ' U
J F J R M. T J C V Z N U M — R C U U X F W J B.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: WE REMEMBER LOVE OURSELF IN OUR SWEET YOUTH—TENNYSON.

School For Area Firemen Planned At LaVale Hall

A ten-week training school to qualify area firemen as instructors will get underway August 23 at the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department Hall.

Plans for the course were discussed last night at a meeting attended by Robert Byrus, new director of the Fire Service Extension Service of the University of Maryland, College Park. He is formerly of Iowa.

William A. Wilson, Midland, treasurer of the Maryland State Firemen's Association, said three-hour classes will be held every Thursday night. The minimum number of registrants is ten.

The training program, Wilson added, has been set for firemen in Allegany and Garrett counties. It is one of six to be conducted throughout the state for instructor aspirants.

Various district fire companies were represented at the meeting and methods to improve training were outlined. The Cumberland delegation included Fire Chief Jeremiah T. Defibaugh, Assistant Chiefs Robert C. Long and Virgil A. Parker and H. Clifford Spiker.

Today, four officials of the state association will leave for Baltimore to attend the organization's first executive meeting of the year. They are Cromwell C. Zembower, LaVale, state president; John S. Pritchard, Grantsville, member of the board of trustees; Homer Ambrose, McCoole, member of the state fire prevention committee, and Wilson.

Durocher Will Stay As Giants Manager

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Leo Durocher signed a one-year contract today to continue as manager of the New York Giants through the 1952 season.

No terms were announced but both Durocher, who came to the Giants from Brooklyn in July of 1948, and owner Horace Stoneham said they were "mutually satisfied." Guesses as to the salary were in the neighborhood of $50,000.

Name Coach Today

PITTSBURGH, July 20 (AP)—The University of Pittsburgh said today a new head football coach to succeed Len Casanova will be named at 9 a. m. (EST) press conference tomorrow.

Speculation immediately rose that it would be Lowell P. (Red) Dawson, now assistant coach at Michigan State College. Neither university officials nor Dawson would confirm this report.

To Undergo Operation

PHILADELPHIA, July 20—(AP)—Ed Burtschy, Philadelphia Athletics' right hand pitcher will be operated on Monday in Union Hospital, Baltimore, for removal of bone chips from his right elbow.

Arthur Ehlers, club general manager, said the doctor predicted Burtschy's pitching arm would be as good as new after the chips were removed.

Grid Loop Quits

PATTERSON, N. J., July 20 (AP)—The American Football League, oldest professional minor league in the nation, will not operate in 1951, it was announced tonight.

Joseph Rosentover, AFL commissioner, said the decision was "due to many factors, the most important of which is the critical manpower situation at present."

Rosentover, who headed the league since its inception in 1935, said the league will be back in competition in 1952 unless "unforseen obstacles develop."

Dodgers And Braves Win In Little Loop

The Athletics scored their 7th consecutive victory over the Giants, 16-2, the Braves whipped the Indians, 9-1, and the Dodgers trimmed the Tigers, 8-1, in Little League games played yesterday.

Page, Pope and Farrell hit homers in the Athletics' victory. Manager Charley Hornbrook sent 12 players into the game and the A's were credited with executing their first double play of the season in the third inning when Hedrick speared a fly ball in left and doubled a runner off second.

McCullough, Hedrick and Smith, Athletics' pitchers, held the Giants to one hit—a single by Beckward. Page had a perfect day at bat for the A's with a home run, triple and walk in three trips.

Weltman and Beck hit four-baggers in the Braves' triumph. Wolford banged a triple and double, Cumiskey had two singles and Weltman got a one-base knock in addition to his homer. Judy had two hits for the Indians.

Bill Buzzard's Dodgers made it 11 wins in 13 starts by whipping the last place Tigers. Valentine limited the Tigers to two hits while Fair, Wallace and Valentine paced the Dodgers' offensive with two blows each. Valentine smacked two doubles and Wallace smashed a four-bagger. Johnson and Weatherholt obtained the Tigers' hits. Scores:

Pennsylvania Hopes To Telecast Five Football Contests

PHILADELPHIA, July 20 (AP)The University of Pennsylvania has agreed to a "changed" NCAA television plan, but still hopes to telecast five games, Athletic Director Francis T. Murray said today.

Murray announced that Penn has agreed to report to NCAA on all revenues, attendance and contracts, and to pay its share of the approved expense of the NCAA television committee. He said the university would abide by whatever decision the NCAA television committee makes on its request to telecast five home games, including the Army and Navy games.

Murray said he had requested permission to televise five games so that the university could, in part carry out its television contract with the American Broadcasting Company. Penn had contracted with ABC to telecast all eight home games for a reported $200,000.

Keyser Ridge Wins Over Garrett, 3-2

Keyser Ridge nosed out Garrett in a Southern Somerset County Baseball League game yesterday at Garrett, Pa., by the score of 3-2.

Harry Keister won his own game in the top of the 7th when he doubled to score Pete McKenzie who had led off the final stanza with a three base wallop. Keister held the home team to three safeties.

McKenzie, Drew and Keister shared six of Keyser Ridge's eight hits. The score:

Market Develops Split-Price Personality But Goes Ahead

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—The stockmarket developed a split-price personality today, but nevertheless it managed to maintain its forward movement.

Railroads and utilities were leaders of the advance.

Steels, motors and radio-televisions kept dragging down all day long.

Eastern Air Lines, which this week announced long-range plans to convert to pet power, gained 1⅛ to 21⅞. Pan American World Airways was sixth most active issue of the day up ¼ at 10. The company reported operating revenues up 30 per cent in the first five months of this year and passenger revenue miles up 27 per cent over a year ago.

Twentieth Century-Fox jumped 1⅛ at 19⅜ after announcement that it would use the Columbia Broadcasting System's TV color process in its big creeen television shows.

Hudson fell off ⅞ at 13½ after directors announced that they were not taking dividend action at this time. The company previously paid 25 cents quarterly and 25-cent specials in March and June. Hudson production has been halted for six weeks in a dispute with the union.

Admiral was off ¼ at 21⅞. The company reported first half earnings equal to $2.12 a share as against $4.24 a year ago.

Radio Corp. was the day's most active issue, off ¾ at 21⅜. In second spot was Fedders-Quigan off ⅜ at 12¾. They were the only two in the list of 15 most active issues to decline.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 30 cents at $92.30 with the industrial average unchanged, rails up 60 cents and utilities 30 cents.

There were 1,051 individual issues traded of which 511 advanced and 293 declined. There were 29 new highs and 21 new lows for the year.

Volume totaled 1,390,000 shares, compared with 1,130,000 shares yesterday.

Moving up were Santa Fe up 1½ at 152, Nickel Plate 2 at 191, Northern Pacific ½ at 46¼ (fourth most active), Standard Oil (NJ) 1 at 64¼, Superior Oil of California 10 at 440, Consolidated Natural Gas 2¼ at 60¾, Chas. Pfizer 1¼ at 41¼ (11th most active), Goodyear 1½ at 85½, Douglas Aircraft 1⅛ at 47¾, the Milwaukee Road 1¼ at 20½, and Marine Midland ⅝ at 10⅞ (third most active).

Some wider gains included Firestone up 2 at 107½, Pan American Petroleum 3½ at 36, Peoples Gas 2⅞ at 119 and Reynolds Tobacco 2 at 45.

Lower were American Cyanamid 1 at 114⅛, Dow Chemical 1½ at 108¾, General Electric ⅝ at 54⅜, International Paper ⅝ at 49, U. S. Steel ¼ at 40, Chrysler 1 at 66¼, and Emerson Radio ⅜ at 12⅞.

School For Area Firemen Planned At LaVale Hall

A ten-week training school to qualify area firemen as instructors will get underway August 23 at the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department Hall.

Plans for the course were discussed last night at a meeting attended by Robert Byrus, new director of the Fire Service Extension Service of the University of Maryland, College Park. He is formerly of Iowa.

William A. Wilson, Midland, treasurer of the Maryland State Firemen's Association, said three-hour classes will be held every Thursday night. The minimum number of registrants is ten.

The training program, Wilson added, has been set for firemen in Allegany and Garrett counties. It is one of six to be conducted throughout the state for instructor aspirants.

Various district fire companies were represented at the meeting and methods to improve training were outlined. The Cumberland delegation included Fire Chief Jeremiah T. Defibaugh, Assistant Chiefs Robert C. Long and Virgil A. Parker and H. Clifford Spiker.

Today, four officials of the state association will leave for Baltimore to attend the organization's first executive meeting of the year. They are Cromwell C. Zembower, LaVale, state president; John S. Pritchard, Grantsville, member of the board of trustees; Homer Ambrose, McCoole, member of the state fire prevention committee, and Wilson.

Durocher Will Stay As Giants Manager

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Leo Durocher signed a one-year contract today to continue as manager of the New York Giants through the 1952 season.

No terms were announced but both Durocher, who came to the Giants from Brooklyn in July of 1948, and owner Horace Stoneham said they were "mutually satisfied." Guesses as to the salary were in the neighborhood of $50,000.

Name Coach Today

PITTSBURGH, July 20 (AP)—The University of Pittsburgh said today a new head football coach to succeed Len Casanova will be named at 9 a. m. (EST) press conference tomorrow.

Speculation immediately rose that it would be Lowell P. (Red) Dawson, now assistant coach at Michigan State College. Neither university officials nor Dawson would confirm this report.

To Undergo Operation

PHILADELPHIA, July 20—(AP)—Ed Burtschy, Philadelphia Athletics' right hand pitcher will be operated on Monday in Union Hospital, Baltimore, for removal of bone chips from his right elbow.

Arthur Ehlers, club general manager, said the doctor predicted Burtschy's pitching arm would be as good as new after the chips were removed.

Grid Loop Quits

PATTERSON, N. J., July 20 (AP)—The American Football League, oldest professional minor league in the nation, will not operate in 1951, it was announced tonight.

Joseph Rosentover, AFL commissioner, said the decision was "due to many factors, the most important of which is the critical manpower situation at present."

Rosentover, who headed the league since its inception in 1935, said the league will be back in competition in 1952 unless "unforseen obstacles develop."

Dodgers And Braves Win In Little Loop

The Athletics scored their 7th consecutive victory over the Giants, 16-2, the Braves whipped the Indians, 9-1, and the Dodgers trimmed the Tigers, 8-1, in Little League games played yesterday.

Page, Pope and Farrell hit homers in the Athletics' victory. Manager Charley Hornbrook sent 12 players into the game and the A's were credited with executing their first double play of the season in the third inning when Hedrick speared a fly ball in left and doubled a runner off second.

McCullough, Hedrick and Smith, Athletics' pitchers, held the Giants to one hit—a single by Beckward. Page had a perfect day at bat for the A's with a home run, triple and walk in three trips.

Weltman and Beck hit four-baggers in the Braves' triumph. Wolford banged a triple and double, Cumiskey had two singles and Weltman got a one-base knock in addition to his homer. Judy had two hits for the Indians.

Bill Buzzard's Dodgers made it 11 wins in 13 starts by whipping the last place Tigers. Valentine limited the Tigers to two hits while Fair, Wallace and Valentine paced the Dodgers' offensive with two blows each. Valentine smacked two doubles and Wallace smashed a four-bagger. Johnson and Weatherholt obtained the Tigers' hits. Scores:

Pennsylvania Hopes To Telecast Five Football Contests

PHILADELPHIA, July 20 (AP)The University of Pennsylvania has agreed to a "changed" NCAA television plan, but still hopes to telecast five games, Athletic Director Francis T. Murray said today.

Murray announced that Penn has agreed to report to NCAA on all revenues, attendance and contracts, and to pay its share of the approved expense of the NCAA television committee. He said the university would abide by whatever decision the NCAA television committee makes on its request to telecast five home games, including the Army and Navy games.

Murray said he had requested permission to televise five games so that the university could, in part carry out its television contract with the American Broadcasting Company. Penn had contracted with ABC to telecast all eight home games for a reported $200,000.

Keyser Ridge Wins Over Garrett, 3-2

Keyser Ridge nosed out Garrett in a Southern Somerset County Baseball League game yesterday at Garrett, Pa., by the score of 3-2.

Harry Keister won his own game in the top of the 7th when he doubled to score Pete McKenzie who had led off the final stanza with a three base wallop. Keister held the home team to three safeties.

McKenzie, Drew and Keister shared six of Keyser Ridge's eight hits. The score:

Virginia Once Had 15 Race Tracks

According to the American Turf Register of 1830 there were in that year forty-five race courses in the United States. Virginia led the list with fifteen tracks. Kentucky was next with eight, then came Maryland and North Carolina with four each; Alabama and South Carolina with three each; New York, Tennessee and Pennsylvania with two each and Ohio, Mississippi, New Jersey and the District of Columbia each had one.

Market Develops Split-Price Personality But Goes Ahead

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—The stockmarket developed a split-price personality today, but nevertheless it managed to maintain its forward movement.

Railroads and utilities were leaders of the advance.

Steels, motors and radio-televisions kept dragging down all day long.

Eastern Air Lines, which this week announced long-range plans to convert to pet power, gained 1⅛ to 21⅞. Pan American World Airways was sixth most active issue of the day up ⅛ at 10. The company reported operating revenues up 30 per cent in the first five months of this year and passenger revenue miles up 27 per cent over a year ago.

Twentieth Century-Fox jumped 1⅛ at 19⅜ after announcement that it would use the Columbia Broadcasting System's TV color process in its big creeen television shows.

Hudson fell off ⅞ at 13⅛ after directors announced that they were not taking dividend action at this time. The company previously paid 25 cents quarterly and 25-cent specials in March and June. Hudson production has been halted for six weeks in a dispute with the union.

Admiral was off ⅛ at 21⅞. The company reported first half earnings equal to $2.12 a share as against $4.24 a year ago.

Radio Corp. was the day's most active issue, off ⅜ at 21⅜. In second spot was Fedders-Quigan off ⅜ at 12¾. They were the only two in the list of 15 most active issues to decline.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 30 cents at $92.30 with the industrial average unchanged, rails up 60 cents and utilities 30 cents.

There were 1,051 individual issues traded of which 511 advanced and 293 declined. There were 29 new highs and 21 new lows for the year.

Two Army Planes Crash Near Petersburg, W.Va.

Pilots Escape Injury As Ships Collide On Field

Poor Visibility Blamed By Officers

Two F-47-D Air Force planes were smashed at the Petersburg, W. Va., emergency airport about 10 o'clock last night but the pilots of the two craft miraculously escaped injury, residents in the Petersburg area reported.

The two aircraft, attached to the 133rd Fighter Interceptor Squadron, Brenier Air Base, Manchester, N. H., were on a routine flight to the Greater Pittsburgh area.

Poor Visibility

Because of poor visibility in Eastern Pennsylvania the two pilots got off their course. They finally were attracted to the Petersburg air strip by a beacon light.

The first pilot to land, First Lt. John D. Bayles, made a safe landing on the field although he brought the plane to a stop only three or four feet from the end of the runway.

However, the other flyer, Capt. Sherman R. Smith, came in for a landing traveling at greater speed and his craft smashed into the other plane. Lt. Bayles was standing nearby at the time of the crash.

Although spectators said that the crafts were virtually demolished they did not catch fire, probably because both were virtually out of gasoline at the time.

Custodian Witness

Clyde McUlty, custodian at the airport, witnessed the crash. Petersburg firemen and many residents of the community, who heard the collision, hurried to the scene to find the two officers unhurt.

West Virginia State Police Cpl. F. H. Tribbett arrived at the airport a short time later and took charge of the investigation.

The two pilots planned to spend the night in Petersburg. Other craft are expected to be flown to Petersburg today to get the men and check the damage to the planes.

PARK ADDITIONS—Some fine feathered friends have been added to Constitution Park this year. Shown above are a pair of peacocks acquired about two weeks ago from Mrs. Frank J. Trammel, Hedgesville, W. Va. Robert R. Golden, superintendent of the park, is proud of the new additions and says they present a beautiful sight for Cumberland residents who daily go to the park for relaxation. In the lower picture are a group of ducklings which were born recently and will soon grace the waters of the park's pond.

Constitution Park Adds Colorful Birds To Display

Probably the most colorful attraction at Constitution Park this season is a pair of recently acquired peacocks now making their home here.

The pair of beautiful birds was presented to the park about two weeks ago by Mrs. Frank J. Trammel, Hedgesville, W. Va. near Martinsburg who up until the death of her husband a few months ago had made a hobby of raising birds and other pets.

The Trammel estate located along the Potomac River is named "Honeywood Farms" and it was there the peacocks were born and raised. Last year the Trammels had 14 peacocks but 12 were destroyed by a weasel that made its way into their pen.

Following her husbands death Mrs. Trammel found caring for the variety of birds and pets too much and sought a place for them. Mr. and Mrs. William Duthie, 217 Union Street, close friends for years visited her and suggested Constitution Park as an ideal home. Two weeks ago Duthie brought them to Cumberland.

The beautiful birds have become accustomed to their new home and Robert R. Golden, superintendent of the park, said yesterday that one of the most colorful sights he has beheld thus far is when "Tom" the male, struts around with his tail fanned and is caught in the glow of the morning sun.

The newly acquired attraction at the city park are being well cared for and daily are attracting many residents who go to the park for moments of relaxation.

Naval Reserve Draft Immunity Is Explained

Only Three Groups Considered Exempt

How Selective Service affects members of the Naval Reserve was explained today by ICDR W. E. Woodson, Jr., Inspector-Instructor, local Naval Reserve.

Inquiries being received at the Naval Training Center indicate that many non-drilling naval reservists consider themselves to be draft exempt. Commander Woodson emphasized that such is not the case and pointed out that only three groups of reservists are currently not subject to draft call.

Group 1 consists of members of drilling units on or before June 24, 1948. Reservists in this category are not subject to the draft so long as they remain in good standing in their units.

Group 2 consists of persons who have joined drilling units since June 24, 1948. Although they have no legal protection from the draft, under a working agreement between the Navy and Selective Service they may expect not to be inducted unless demands increase sharply.

Group 3 consists of advanced students in the Naval reserve and certain other officer candidates NROTC students in their junior and senior years are deferred from induction if they agree to serve for two years on active duty after being commissioned.

There is no "draft immunity", either permanent or temporary, for non-drilling naval reservists, Commander Woodson said. Members of this group have virtually the same relation to Selective Service as would non-reservists.

Men liable for induction may be enlisted in the Naval Reserve unless they are holding one of the following type classifications issued by local Selective Service Boards: 1-A, 1-A-O, 4-E, 4-F.

No person who has received a call for pre-induction examination will be accepted or enlisted in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Oak Conditions Being Studied To Find Cause

Pathologists Take Samples From Area

Samples of dead and dying oak trees from Allegany and Garrett Counties have been taken to College Park and Beltsville where cultures will be made in an effort to determine the cause of their condition, District Forester William H. Johnson said yesterday.

Dr. W. F. Jeffers and Dr. Curtis May, pathologists at the University of Maryland, were in the two Western Maryland counties Wednesday and Thursday gathering specimens for their study.

Johnson explained that they spent most of Wednesday in the Green Ridge area, where a number of white oak trees are dead or dying. Thursday they collected more evidence on Savage Mountain and in the area above the Savage River dam. Most of the trees checked Thursday were red oaks, the forester stated.

These dead and dying trees are not widespread in this area, Johnson emphasized. They are found in scattered places and in small groups.

Dr. Jeffers and Dr. May, were accompanied to Western Maryland by A. R. Bond, assistant state forester. They left on the return trip Thursday afternoon.

Some concern has been expressed that the ailment affecting the oak trees may be oak wilt, which has been found in neighboring West Virginia and Pennsylvania. The studies by the pathologists should find the answer, Johnson observed.

Youths Waive Local Hearing

Two Alexandria, Va., youths, charged with transporting a stolen automobile across state lines, yesterday were ordered held under $1,000 bond for Federal District Court in Baltimore after they waived preliminary hearings before United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett.

The youths, Preston S. German 20, and Charles P. Spilman, 18, were returned to the County Jail, pending the arrival of representatives from the United States Marshal's office in Baltimore.

German and Spilman have admitted they stole an automobile bearing New York license plates in Alexandria Tuesday night, according to the sheriff's office here. They were picked up about noon Wednesday on Route 40, between Frostburg and Cumberland.

Authorities reported the youths had taken the stolen automobile into Pennsylvania beyond Frostburg and then turned around and headed toward Cumberland.

Ridgeley Post Arranges Picnic

The annual basket picnic for members of Knobley Mountain Post No. 136 American Legion, Ridgeley, W. Va., and their families and guest members and their families will be held Sunday on Helmick's Farm, along Patterson's Creek, near Fort Ashby, W. Va., Post Commander Leo V. Mills said last night.

Transportation to the picnic grounds will be provided from the Post Home, beginning at 10 a. m. Sunday. The picnic will begin at 11 o'clock. Although each family will bring its own basket, refreshments will be served by the picnic committee, K. Albert Wolfe, chairman.

Those driving to the picnic grounds are reminded that they should turn right at the bridge in Fort Ashby. Signs directing motorists to the farm will be placed at frequent intervals. Games will be played and there will be prizes for children.

The Post entertainment committee also is planning to have a shrimp feed for members and friends at the Post Home at 8 p. m. Friday, July 27. Tickets for this feed may be obtained only at the home.

Court Probates Widows' Wills

Wills of two widows, both of whom died July 11, were admitted to probate yesterday in Allegany County Orphans' Court.

The will of Mrs. Rose Williams, 67, 77 Armstrong Street, Grahamtown, designated her son, Reynold Dale Williams, LaVale, as executor of the estate. The document stipulated that her estate should be divided equally among her five children, Reynold Dale Williams, June Reiber, Pauline R. Scott, Percy L. Williams and Harley R. Williams. It was dated February 19.

Mrs. Elizabeth Burnworth, 79, 226 Emily Street, in her will named her son by a previous marriage, Earl F. Wolfe, 130 Polk Street, as executor of her estate. She left her entire estate to Wolfe. The will was dated November 10, 1938.

Invitations Sent For Teachers' Salary Meeting

Session Planned At West Side School

Form letters inviting interested citizens of four Western Maryland counties to attend a regional meeting in Cumberland Thursday, August 2, for the study of teachers' salaries have been distributed this week by State Senator Louis L. Goldstein, chairman of the Legislative Council's sub-committee on teachers' salaries.

The first of the sub-committee's three regional meetings was held Wednesday at Salisbury. The second will be Wednesday, July 25, in Annapolis and the last will be here at West Side School, Paca and Chase Streets, at 10 a. m. August 2.

Senator Goldstein's letters have been sent to members of the General Assembly, the several Boards of County Commissioners, the several County Boards of Education, the several County Superintendents of Schools, the several presidents of Teachers' Colleges and other interested citizens.

"It is the hope of the sub-committee to obtain a close survey of public opinion throughout the state as to the extent of the state's participation in the payment of teachers' salaries," Senator Goldstein's letter reads in part.

"In order to systematize arrangements for the meetings, the subcommittee is requesting that the State Senator from each county take charge of listing and presenting the speakers from his county. Speakers are urged, if possible, to present to the committee a written summary of their remarks," he concludes.

Serving on the sub-committee with Senator Goldstein, who is from Calvert County, are Senator Robert B. Kimble from Allegany County and Delegate John C. Luber of Baltimore City.

The local meeting is for the citizens of Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick Counties.

Jr. Symphony Parents Form Booster Unit

Parents of orchestra members and friends of the Allegany County Junior Orchestra organized and elected officers at a meeting in Mt. Royal School auditorium Thursday night.

Those elected were: Mrs. A. E. Christner, LaVale, president; Albert H. Kiiffner, 905 Shades Lane, vice president; Mrs. Richard W. Trevaskis, 220 Baltimore Avenue, secretary; and Mrs. Charles E. Nield, 111 Grand Avenue, treasurer.

Mrs. Christner said the purpose of the new organization was to establish a fund to enable the orchestra to travel as a demonstration concert group, and to stress the idea that the orchestra is a county-wide organization. She said the symphony orchestra which is directed by Martin Eric Weisman, LaVale, is the only one of its kind in the state.

The new group has not decided on a name for the organization but will meet every fourth Tuesday of the month in Mt. Royal School auditorium at 8 p.m. The next meeting is scheduled for August 28.

The Junior Symphony Orchestra is comprised of children from eight to 16 years of age.

Uniforms For Deputies Unlikely

Allegany County will not follow Washington County's lead in having deputy sheriffs uniformed, Sheriff Edward R. Muir said yesterday.

His statement was made in comment upon the recent developments in Washington County, where Sheriff Edward Rowland has just obtained permission from the county commissioners to have his deputies wear uniforms. Rowland said the deputies are sometimes hampered in their duties because they don't look like law enforcement officers when thy are in civilian clothes.

Last year Roy E. Van Fleet, who was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff of this county proposed that deputy sheriffs be uniformed.

Postal Reserve Unit To Train At Meade

Part of the 729th Army Postal Unit, 2nd Army Organized Reserve Corp, will leave tomorrow afternoon for two weeks of active duty summer training at Ft. George G. Meade, according to 1st Lt. Thomas B. Comiskey, Jr., commanding officer.

The two-week training period will cover basic and postal subjects.

Those going with the unit are: 1st Lt. Thomas B. Comiskey, Jr., 418 Holland Street; Sgt. First Class Thomas A. Carscaden, Jr., 211 South Allegany Street; Sgt. First Class Charles E. Hartung, 314 Piedmont Avenue; Sgt. Donald G. Paulman, 1202 Holland Street; Cpl. Paul A. Nicholson, 112 North Cedar Street, and Pfc. Charles R. Ross, 1118 Quantril Way, Baltimore.

Election To Close

The election of 13 new directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will come to a close Tuesday at 3 p. m., according to G. William Bibby, chairman of the committee on elections.

Local Negro Boy Takes Top Honors In Talent Program

The dancing ability and agility of 12-year-old Donald Keyes of Pine Avenue Playground took first honors in the Intra-City Talent program staged in the amphitheater at Constitution Park, last night.

Edmund F. Hoey director of city recreation, said last night the young Negro boy really stole the show with his version of the Spanish Tap, a rhumba tap and an acrobatic dance.

Taking second honors was Fred Hillegas, 8, of Post Playground who played "Too Young" on his accordion. Hillegass is a student at Fort Hill High School.

Third place honors were taken by a young lassie named Janet Hemming who sang "Little Curly Hair" and did an Hawaiian and acrobatic dance, accompanied by Mrs. Bertie Rank.

The three first prize winners in last night's finals each received bronze medals. Joe Schellinger, 14, of North End Playground and who attends LaSalle, won fourth prize by singing "To Young", "You Made Me Love You" and "Blue Skies." The fifth award winner was Jenetta Markley, Fort Hill student who represented Penn Avenue Playground and played the guitar and sang "I Sail My Ship Along."

Hoey said last night the top five contestants will receive points toward a playground intra-city banner to be awarded the playground with the most points. The playground will retain the banner for next summer and relinquish it to the 1952 winner. Points last night were given according to placement 25, 20, 15, 10 and five.

Judges at last nights show were Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, William H. Buchholtz, commissioner of finance, and John I. Spiker. All 15 playgrounds had contestants in last night's program.

Horse Shoe Contest Held At North End

Post Playground Wins City Title

Competition was keen and excitement ran high in the city recreational horse shoe and box hockey contests held at North End Playground yesterday afternoon.

Director Edmund Hoey announced the Post Playground contenders garnered most points in the horseshoe pitching bouts with a total of 13, with East Side and North End each getting ten points, Gephart and Pennsylvania Avenue eight and Johnsons Heights one.

In Class A competition for boys from 16 to 17 on a 40 feet throw, Eddie Winters, representing Penn Avenue won out over Gene Wieber, East Side. Russell Brant, Post Playground took honors in Class B competition over Joseph McIntosh in the 13 to 15 age group, with a throwing distance of 34 feet.

Class C group for girls from 13-15 years was won by Jean Weltman, Post Playground, over Nancy Kegg, North End. Their tossing distance was 32 feet. Dick McGann, North End, defeated Bill Hanekamp in the finals of the Class D group from nine-12 at a pitching distance of 30 feet.

Class E girls competition with age groups of nine to 12 was won by JoAnn Knepp, Gephart over Donna Smith, East Side, at a tossing distance of 28 feet.

Pennsylvania Avenue representatives led the way in getting 16 points in box hockey competition with East Side garnering 15, Gephart 11 and Post and North End four each.

In Class A for boys William Rice, Penn Avenue, won out over Gene Weber, East Side. Kerry Kroll of Penn Avenue, took top honors in Class B over Joseph Martin, Gephart. Class C box hockey for girls was won by Wenda Adams, East Side, over Mary Librant, North End. William Hanekamp, East Side, won out over Kenny Yandelvitz, Gephart in the Class D group. In Class E competition Ella Mae Divelbess, Penn Avenue won over Regina Eichner, Gephart.

State FFA To Hold Convention At Md. University Next Week

Maryland members of the Future Farmers of America will hold their annual convention at the University of Maryland July 24-26. The State Department of Education sponsors the convention.

There will be three half day convention sessions, and 8 contests under the supervision of Harry McDonald, supervisor of agriculture.

Maryland Farmer Degrees will be awarded approximately 35 boys. The most outstanding FFA boy will receive the Star Farmer award. Officers will be elected. The chapter winning the state FFA safety contest will also be announced at the convention which is being held during National Farm Safety Week.

Property Sold

Property on Vine Street in Westernport has been sold for about $5,500, according to a deed filed yesterday in the office of the clerk of Circuit Court. The property was sold by R. Heber Poland, Katherine Poland, Robert H. Maybury and Margaret Maybury to Clyde E. Frankland and Mabel Frances Frankland.

Boy Scouts See Fire Fighting Demonstrations

Approximately 100 Attend Program

Boy Scouts at Potomac Council Camp were given demonstrations of forest fire fighting equipment Thursday night by members of the Maryland Department of State Forests and Parks, according to Willis V. Smith, executive secretary of Potomac Council Boy Scouts of America.

The youths were shown how to use a Panama pumper which operates from a fan belt on a truck. The truck which carries the pump also has a hundred gallon water storage tank.

Various tools and their uses in fighting a forest fire were also explained to the Scouts. The boys were given another demonstration on how a two-way radio can be of use in forest fire fighting.

After the demonstration period, a question and answer session about forest fire fighting was conducted. The boys were then taken to the camp dining hall to see a color motion picture showing the work carried on by the Department of State Forests and Parks.

Smith said approximately 100 boys and scout leaders attended the demonstrations and movie. He announced a similar program will be held next week as part of the regular camp activity.

Industry Group Is Sent Check

A check for $5,000 to the Cumberland and Allegany County Industrial Promotion Company was mailed yesterday afternoon by James G. Stevenson, clerk of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

This $5,000 is provided in the commissioners' budget for the 1951-52 fiscal year to aid in the promotion of new industry in this county. An act of the recent session of the State Legislature authorizes payment of the $5,000.

Funds for industrial promotion have come from three sources this year. The Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, the county commissioners and the Promotion Company contribute $5,000 each.

News Briefs

Delegate and Mrs. Noel Spier Cook went to Baltimore yesterday to attend a rally by the Anne Arundel County Young Republican Club near Annapolis today. U. S. Senator Robert Taft is scheduled to speak.

Waste Paper Collection

The weekly collection of waste paper will be made Monday at 9 a. m. on all streets south of Baltimore Street and Baltimore Avenue to Oldtown Road.

RIU Will Hold Open Meetings For Road Crews

The Railroad Industrial Union, which recently won the right to continue as bargaining agent for engineers and firemen on the Western Marylan Railway, will open an organization drive here soon.

Elmer E. Davis, this city, president, said meetings of RIU locals will be thrown open to Baltimore and Ohio engineers, firemen, conductors and yard switchmen.

The Cumberland local, he said, meets the first and third Wednesdays at 7:30 p. m. (EST) in the Knights of Malta Hall. At 9 p. m., Davis said, the meeting will be open to all railroaders who are interested in the industrial movement.

Early this month, Davis said, the RIU defeated the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen for the third time since the RIU was organized here in 1947.

The National Mediation Board said the RIU got 108 votes to 100 for the Brotherhood in the balloting among engineers. The Industrial Union won 158 to 94 in the polling among firemen.

Davis said the B. of L. F. and E. also tried unsuccessfully to gain bargaining rights also in 1945 and 1947.

Two Divorces Granted

Two divorce decrees were granted yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. Katie M. Hook was divorced from Philip P. Hook and is entitled to resume her maiden name of Katie Dorsey. Dorothy A. Swarner was given a divorce from Charles F. Swarner and was granted the right to resume her maiden name of Dorothy G. Abe.

Frostburg Elks Improve Home

FROSTBURG — Frostburg Lodge No. 470, B.P.O. Elks, has had a new asphalt tile floor laid in the reception hall of the Elks Home, East Main Street. The new flooring is a combination of red and black, and adds to the beauty of the building.

The improvement of the reception hall is one of a number of improvements now underway by the Board of Goernors of the lodge, for the purpose of making the interior of the building more attractive.

Virginia Telephone Workers To Request New Wage Talks

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — Officers of the CIO's Communications Workers of America said today they will request further negotiations with the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. to seek better terms than those rejected by employes in Virginia.

Workers represented by the union voted down a pay raise which had been tentatively agreed upon by the company and union negotiators. The tentative agreement called for weekly wage increases ranging from $3 to $9.50. The union represents about 6,000 company employes.

Glenn Watts, the union's director for Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia, conferred with CWA president Joseph A. Beirne after the company offer was turned down by union members.

CWA headquarters here said the union's Virginia leaders will meet with Watts in Richmond Monday to makep lans for reopening negotiations with the company.

Local Pastor Will Speak At Small Clan Reunion

Rev. E. W. Gearhart, pastor of the First Christian Church, here will be the principal speaker at the William Small clan reunion this afternoon at St. Thomas Church near Hooversville, Pa.

The entertainment committee has planned a program of sports, music and games for the all-day basket picnic form of event. A. R. Small is clan president and officers will be elected for the coming year.

Rev. Gearhart will also be speaker at the annual Daley Day Homecoming, August 5, at Daley Christian Church about five miles east of Central City, Pa. He will speak at the afternoon services at 2:30 o'clock.

The afternoon program includes: selections by Shade Township High School Band, directed by Dave Dysert; "America"; silent prayer for deceased members; prayer, P. D. Reitz, Johnstown, Pa.; welcoming remarks, F. G. Sine, Johnstown, Pa.; remarks by persons attending; band selections; historical talk, James M. Miller, Central City, Pa.; songs, girls quartette; announcements and acknowledgments; offering; band selection; report of the secretary-treasurer; report of the nomination committee; talk, Rev. Gearhart; song, "The Church in the Valley by the Wildwood"; benediction; and band selection.

The new planning committee will meet after the program.

Rev. Howard Byers of the Central City Christian Church will be preacher for the Sunday school service at 10 a. m. Mrs. Howard Fleegle is superintendent. F. G. Sine and W. E. Lohr, Johnstown, will be elders.

Russell M. Pebley, Johnstown, Pa., is president of the homecoming committee. Other members are: Forrest M. Cable, Johnstown; assistant; Henry Fleegle, Daley, vice-president; D. W. Lambert, secretary-treasurer; James M. Miller, historian; Lowell B. Herkebile, publicity; Elmer Lambert, Daley, grove and water; and Howard Fleegle and sons, grove preparation.

The Daley Church was built in the summer of 1881.

Maryland Life Insurance Increases 157 Per Cent

Maryland ownership of life insurance has increased by $2,400,000,000 since 1930, the greatest 20-year growth in the history of the state, in spite of the slowing up during the early '30s, the Institute of Life Insurance reports. This is a gain of 157 percent.

Some of this increase was due to population increase, but the institute points out that, even adjusting for the gain in number of people living in the state, the rise in life insurance ownership per capita in the 20-year period was 79 percent.

At the start of this year, life insurance owned by Maryland families totaled $3,932,000,000. This compares with $1,532,000,000 owned in this state 20 years before.

The 1930 population in this state of 1,632,000 had risen to 2,334,000 at the start of this year.

For the nation as a whole, the 20-year gain in life insurance ownership was 120 percent, rising from $106,413,000,000 to $234,047,000,000. In the same period, however, population increased from 122,775,000 to 150,521,000. Adjusting for this population growth, the gain in life insurance ownership countrywide was 79 percent.

The state with the greatest gain was New Mexico, with 170 percent. The areas with the greatest overall increase included the southern tier of states and the upper belt of the mountain states. This has been in part a reflection of the economic advances in the south and the improvement of farm conditions during the period, the institute commented. The states with the largest industrial centers showed the smallest per capita gains, generally, but this was primarily because they had developed their insurance base more effectively than other areas by the start of this last 20-year period.

Weather

Yesterday was a cool, comfortable day with clouds obstructing the sun's rays from time to time. A somewhat stiff breeze made the air dry and less humid. Temperatures stayed in the high 70's. Constitution Park's weather station reported the high temperature as 78 degrees, the low as 55, and at 8:20 p. m., the mercury leveled at 71 degrees. Humidity was marked at 49 per cent. The weatherman predicts fair weather for today with hardly any change in temperature.

Two Army Planes Crash Near Petersburg, W.Va.

Pilots Escape Injury As Ships Collide On Field

Poor Visibility Blamed By Officers

Two F-47-D Air Force planes were smashed at the Petersburg, W. Va., emergency airport about 10 o'clock last night but the pilots of the two craft miraculously escaped injury, residents in the Petersburg area reported.

The two aircraft, attached to the 133rd Fighter Interceptor Squadron, Brenier Air Base, Manchester, N. H., were on a routine flight to the Greater Pittsburgh area.

Poor Visibility

Because of poor visibility in Eastern Pennsylvania the two pilots got off their course. They finally were attracted to the Petersburg air strip by a beacon light.

The first pilot to land, First Lt. John D. Bayles, made a safe landing on the field although he brought the plane to a stop only three or four feet from the end of the runway.

However, the other flyer, Capt. Sherman R. Smith, came in for a landing traveling at greater speed and his craft smashed into the other plane. Lt. Bayles was standing nearby at the time of the crash.

Although spectators said that the crafts were virtually demolished they did not catch fire, probably because both were virtually out of gasoline at the time.

Custodian Witness

Clyde McUlty, custodian at the airport, witnessed the crash. Petersburg firemen and many residents of the community, who heard the collision, hurried to the scene to find the two officers unhurt.

West Virginia State Police Cpl. F. H. Tribbett arrived at the airport a short time later and took charge of the investigation.

The two pilots planned to spend the night in Petersburg. Other craft are expected to be flown to Petersburg today to get the men and check the damage to the planes.

PARK ADDITIONS—Some fine feathered friends have been added to Constitution Park this year. Shown above are a pair of peacocks acquired about two weeks ago from Mrs. Frank J. Trammel, Hedgesville, W. Va. Robert R. Golden, superintendent of the park, is proud of the new additions and says they present a beautiful sight for Cumberland residents who daily go to the park for relaxation. In the lower picture are a group of ducklings which were born recently and will soon grace the waters of the park's pond.

Constitution Park Adds Colorful Birds To Display

Probably the most colorful attraction at Constitution Park this season is a pair of recently acquired peacocks now making their home here.

The pair of beautiful birds was presented to the park about two weeks ago by Mrs. Frank J. Trammel, Hedgesville, W. Va. near Martinsburg who up until the death of her husband a few months ago had made a hobby of raising birds and other pets.

The Trammel estate located along the Potomac River is named "Honeywood Farms" and it was there the peacocks were born and raised. Last year the Trammels had 14 peacocks but 12 were destroyed by a weasel that made its way into their pen.

Following her husbands death Mrs. Trammel found caring for the variety of birds and pets too much and sought a place for them. Mr. and Mrs. William Duthie, 217 Union Street, close friends for years visited her and suggested Constitution Park as an ideal home. Two weeks ago Duthie brought them to Cumberland.

The beautiful birds have become accustomed to their new home and Robert R. Golden, superintendent of the park, said yesterday that one of the most colorful sights he has beheld thus far is when "Tom" the male, struts around with his tail fanned and is caught in the glow of the morning sun.

The newly acquired attraction at the city park are being well cared for and daily are attracting many residents who go to the park for moments of relaxation.

RIU Will Hold Open Meetings For Road Crews

The Railroad Industrial Union, which recently won the right to continue as bargaining agent for engineers and firemen on the Western Marylan Railway, will open an organization drive here soon.

Elmer E. Davis, this city, president, said meetings of RIU locals will be thrown open to Baltimore and Ohio engineers, firemen, conductors and yard switchmen.

The Cumberland local, he said, meets the first and third Wednesdays at 7:30 p. m. (EST) in the Knights of Malta Hall. At 9 p. m., Davis said, the meeting will be open to all railroaders who are interested in the industrial movement.

Early this month, Davis said, the RIU defeated the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen for the third time since the RIU was organized here in 1947.

The National Mediation Board said the RIU got 108 votes to 100 for the Brotherhood in the balloting among engineers. The Industrial Union won 158 to 94 in the polling among firemen.

Davis said the B. of L. F. and E. also tried unsuccessfully to gain bargaining rights also in 1945 and 1947.

Two Divorces Granted

Two divorce decrees were granted yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. Katie M. Hook was divorced from Philip P. Hook and is entitled to resume her maiden name of Katie Dorsey. Dorothy A. Swarner was given a divorce from Charles F. Swarner and was granted the right to resume her maiden name of Dorothy G. Abe.

Local Pastor Will Speak At Small Clan Reunion

Rev. E. W. Gearhart, pastor of the First Christian Church, here will be the principal speaker at the William Small clan reunion this afternoon at St. Thomas Church near Hooversville, Pa.

The entertainment committee has planned a program of sports, music and games for the all-day basket picnic form of event. A. R. Small is clan president and officers will be elected for the coming year.

Rev. Gearhart will also be speaker at the annual Daley Day Homecoming, August 5, at Daley Christian Church about five miles east of Central City, Pa. He will speak at the afternoon services at 2:30 o'clock.

The afternoon program includes: selections by Shade Township High School Band, directed by Dave Dysert; "America"; silent prayer for deceased members; prayer, P. D. Reitz, Johnstown, Pa.; welcoming remarks, F. G. Sine, Johnstown, Pa.; remarks by persons attending; band selections; historical talk, James M. Miller, Central City, Pa.; songs, girls quartette; announcements and acknowledgments; offering; band selection; report of the secretary-treasurer; report of the nomination committee; talk, Rev. Gearhart; song, "The Church in the Valley by the Wildwood"; benediction; and band selection.

The new planning committee will meet after the program.

Rev. Howard Byers of the Central City Christian Church will be preacher for the Sunday school service at 10 a. m. Mrs. Howard Fleegle is superintendent. F. G. Sine and W. E. Lohr, Johnstown, will be elders.

Russell M. Pebley, Johnstown, Pa., is president of the homecoming committee. Other members are: Forrest M. Cable, Johnstown; assistant; Henry Fleegle, Daley, vice-president; D. W. Lambert, secretary-treasurer; James M. Miller, historian; Lowell B. Herkebile, publicity; Elmer Lambert, Daley, grove and water; and Howard Fleegle and sons, grove preparation.

The Daley Church was built in the summer of 1881.

Frostburg Elks Improve Home

FROSTBURG — Frostburg Lodge No. 470, B.P.O. Elks, has had a new asphalt tile floor laid in the reception hall of the Elks Home, East Main Street. The new flooring is a combination of red and black, and adds to the beauty of the building.

The improvement of the reception hall is one of a number of improvements now underway by the Board of Goernors of the lodge, for the purpose of making the interior of the building more attractive.

Naval Reserve Draft Immunity Is Explained

Only Three Groups Considered Exempt

How Selective Service affects members of the Naval Reserve was explained today by ICDR W. E. Woodson, Jr., Inspector-Instructor, local Naval Reserve.

Inquiries being received at the Naval Training Center indicate that many non-drilling naval reservists consider themselves to be draft exempt. Commander Woodson emphasized that such is not the case and pointed out that only three groups of reservists are currently not subject to draft call.

Group 1 consists of members of drilling units on or before June 24, 1948. Reservists in this category are not subject to the draft so long as they remain in good standing in their units.

Group 2 consists of persons who have joined drilling units since June 24, 1948. Although they have no legal protection from the draft, under a working agreement between the Navy and Selective Service they may expect not to be inducted unless demands increase sharply.

Group 3 consists of advanced students in the Naval reserve and certain other officer candidates NROTC students in their junior and senior years are deferred from induction if they agree to serve for two years on active duty after being commissioned.

There is no "draft immunity", either permanent or temporary, for non-drilling naval reservists, Commander Woodson said. Members of this group have virtually the same relation to Selective Service as would non-reservists.

Men liable for induction may be enlisted in the Naval Reserve unless they are holding one of the following type classifications issued by local Selective Service Boards: 1-A, 1-A-O, 4-E, 4-F.

No person who has received a call for pre-induction examination will be accepted or enlisted in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Virginia Telephone Workers To Request New Wage Talks

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — Officers of the CIO's Communications Workers of America said today they will request further negotiations with the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. to seek better terms than those rejected by employes in Virginia.

Workers represented by the union voted down a pay raise which had been tentatively agreed upon by the company and union negotiators. The tentative agreement called for weekly wage increases ranging from $3 to $9.50. The union represents about 6,000 company employes.

Glenn Watts, the union's director for Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia, conferred with CWA president Joseph A. Beirne after the company offer was turned down by union members.

CWA headquarters here said the union's Virginia leaders will meet with Watts in Richmond Monday to makep lans for reopening negotiations with the company.

Oak Conditions Being Studied To Find Cause

Pathologists Take Samples From Area

Samples of dead and dying oak trees from Allegany and Garrett Counties have been taken to College Park and Beltsville where cultures will be made in an effort to determine the cause of their condition, District Forester William H. Johnson said yesterday.

Dr. W. F. Jeffers and Dr. Curtis May, pathologists at the University of Maryland, were in the two Western Maryland counties Wednesday and Thursday gathering specimens for their study.

Johnson explained that they spent most of Wednesday in the Green Ridge area, where a number of white oak trees are dead or dying. Thursday they collected more evidence on Savage Mountain and in the area above the Savage River dam. Most of the trees checked Thursday were red oaks, the forester stated.

These dead and dying trees are not widespread in this area, Johnson emphasized. They are found in scattered places and in small groups.

Dr. Jeffers and Dr. May, were accompanied to Western Maryland by A. R. Bond, assistant state forester. They left on the return trip Thursday afternoon.

Some concern has been expressed that the ailment affecting the oak trees may be oak wilt, which has been found in neighboring West Virginia and Pennsylvania. The studies by the pathologists should find the answer, Johnson observed.

Youths Waive Local Hearing

Two Alexandria, Va., youths, charged with transporting a stolen automobile across state lines, yesterday were ordered held under $1,000 bond for Federal District Court in Baltimore after they waived preliminary hearings before United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett.

The youths, Preston S. German 20, and Charles P. Spilman, 18, were returned to the County Jail, pending the arrival of representatives from the United States Marshal's office in Baltimore.

German and Spilman have admitted they stole an automobile bearing New York license plates in Alexandria Tuesday night, according to the sheriff's office here. They were picked up about noon Wednesday on Route 40, between Frostburg and Cumberland.

Authorities reported the youths had taken the stolen automobile into Pennsylvania beyond Frostburg and then turned around and headed toward Cumberland.

Ridgeley Post Arranges Picnic

The annual basket picnic for members of Knobley Mountain Post No. 136 American Legion, Ridgeley, W. Va., and their families and guest members and their familles will be held Sunday on Helmick's Farm, along Patterson's Creek, near Fort Ashby, W. Va., Post Commander Leo V. Mills said last night.

Transportation to the picnic grounds will be provided from the Post Home, beginning at 10 a. m. Sunday. The picnic will begin at 11 o'clock. Although each family will bring its own basket, refreshments will be served by the picnic committee, K. Albert Wolfe, chairman.

Those driving to the picnic grounds are reminded that they should turn right at the bridge in Fort Ashby. Signs directing motorists to the farm will be placed at frequent intervals. Games will be played and there will be prizes for children.

The Post entertainment committee also is planning to have a shrimp feed for members and friends at the Post Home at 8 p. m. Friday, July 27. Tickets for this feed may be obtained only at the home.

Court Probates Widows' Wills

Wills of two widows, both of whom died July 11, were admitted to probate yesterday in Allegany County Orphans' Court.

The will of Mrs. Rose Williams, 67, 77 Armstrong Street, Grahamtown, designated her son, Reynold Dale Williams, LaVale, as executor of the estate. The document stipulated that her estate should be divided equally among her five children, Reynold Dale Williams, June Reiber, Pauline R. Scott, Percy L. Williams and Harley R. Williams. It was dated February 19.

Mrs. Elizabeth Burnworth, 79, 226 Emily Street, in her will named her son by a previous marriage, Earl F. Wolfe, 130 Polk Street, as executor of her estate. She left her entire estate to Wolfe. The will was dated November 10, 1938.

Invitations Sent For Teachers' Salary Meeting

Session Planned At West Side School

Form letters inviting interested citizens of four Western Maryland counties to attend a regional meeting in Cumberland Thursday, August 2, for the study of teachers' salaries have been distributed this week by State Senator Louis L. Goldstein, chairman of the Legislative Council's sub-committee on teachers' salaries.

The first of the sub-committee's three regional meetings was held Wednesday at Salisbury. The second will be Wednesday, July 25, in Annapolis and the last will be here at West Side School, Paca and Chase Streets, at 10 a. m. August 2.

Senator Goldstein's letters have been sent to members of the General Assembly, the several Boards of County Commissioners, the several County Boards of Education, the several presidents of Teachers' Colleges and other interested citizens.

"It is the hope of the sub-committee to obtain a close survey of public opinion throughout the state as to the extent of the state's participation in the payment of teachers' salaries," Senator Goldstein's letter reads in part.

"In order to systematize arrangements for the meetings, the subcommittee is requesting that the State Senator from each county take charge of listing and presenting the speakers from his county. Speakers are urged, if possible, to present to the committee a written summary of their remarks," he concludes.

Serving on the sub-committee with Senator Goldstein, who is from Calvert County, are Senator Robert B. Kimble from Allegany County and Delegate John C. Luber of Baltimore City.

The local meeting is for the citizens of Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick Counties.

Jr. Symphony Parents Form Booster Unit

Parents of orchestra members and friends of the Allegany County Junior Orchestra organized and elected officers at a meeting in Mt. Royal School auditorium Thursday night.

Those elected were: Mrs. A. E. Christner, LaVale, president; Albert H. Kiiffner, 905 Shades Lane, vice president; Mrs. Richard W. Trevaskis, 220 Baltimore Avenue, secretary; and Mrs. Charles E. Nield, 111 Grand Avenue, treasurer.

Mrs. Christner said the purpose of the new organization was to establish a fund to enable the orchestra to travel as a demonstration concert group, and to stress the idea that the orchestra is a county-wide organization. She said the symphony orchestra which is directed by Martin Eric Weisman, LaVale, is the only one of its kind in the state.

The new group has not decided on a name for the organization but will meet every fourth Tuesday of the month in Mt. Royal School auditorium at 8 p.m. The next meeting is scheduled for August 28.

The Junior Symphony Orchestra is comprised of children from eight to 16 years of age.

Uniforms For Deputies Unlikely

Allegany County will not follow Washington County's lead in having deputy sheriffs uniformed, Sheriff Edward R. Muir said yesterday.

His statement was made in comment upon the recent developments in Washington County, where Sheriff Edward Rowland has just obtained permission from the county commissioners to have his deputies wear uniforms. Rowland said the deputies are sometimes hampered in their duties because they don't look like law enforcement officers when thy are in civilian clothes.

Last year Roy E. Van Fleet, who was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff of this county proposed that deputy sheriffs be uniformed.

Postal Reserve Unit To Train At Meade

Part of the 729th Army Postal Unit, 2nd Army Organized Reserve Corp, will leave tomorrow afternoon for two weeks of active duty summer training at Ft. George G. Meade, according to 1st Lt. Thomas B. Comiskey, Jr., commanding officer.

The two-week training period will cover basic and postal subjects.

Those going with the unit are: 1st Lt. Thomas B. Comiskey, Jr., 418 Holland Street; Sgt. First Class Thomas A. Carscaden, Jr., 211 South Allegany Street; Sgt. First Class Charles E. Hartung, 314 Piedmont Avenue; Sgt. Donald G. Paulman, 1202 Holland Street; Cpl. Paul A. Nicholson, 112 North Cedar Street, and Pfc. Charles R. Ross, 1118 Quantril Way, Baltimore.

Election To Close

The election of 13 new directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will come to a close Tuesday at 3 p. m., according to G. William Bibby, chairman of the committee on elections.

Local Negro Boy Takes Top Honors In Talent Program

The dancing ability and agility of 12-year-old Donald Keyes of Pine Avenue Playground took first honors in the Intra-City Talent program staged in the amphitheater at Constitution Park, last night.

Edmund F. Hoey director of city recreation, said last night the young Negro boy really stole the show with his version of the Spanish Tap, a rhumba tap and an acrobatic dance.

Taking second honors was Fred Hillegas, 8, of Post Playground who played "Too Young" on his accordion. Hillegass is a student at Fort Hill High School.

Third place honors were taken by a young lassie named Janet Hemming who sang "Little Curly Hair" and did an Hawaiian and acrobatic dance, accompanied by Mrs. Bertie Rank.

The three first prize winners in last night's finals each received bronze medals. Joe Schellinger, 14, of North End Playground and who attends LaSalle, won fourth prize by singing "To Young", "You Made Me Love You" and "Blue Skies." The fifth award winner was Jenetta Markley, Fort Hill student who represented Penn Avenue Playground and played the guitar and sang "I Sail My Ship Along."

Hoey said last night the top five contestants will receive points toward a playground intra-city banner to be awarded the playground with the most points. The playground will retain the banner for next summer and relinquish it to the 1952 winner. Points last night were given according to placement 25, 20, 15, 10 and five.

Judges at last nights show were Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, William H. Buchholtz, commissioner of finance, and John I. Spiker. All 15 playgrounds had contestants in last night's program.

Horse Shoe Contest Held At North End

Post Playground Wins City Title

Competition was keen and excitement ran high in the city recreational horse shoe and box hockey contests held at North End Playground yesterday afternoon.

Director Edmund Hoey announced the Post Playground contenders garnered most points in the horseshoe pitching bouts with a total of 13, with East Side and North End each getting ten points. Gephart and Pennsylvania Avenue eight and Johnsons Heights one.

In Class A competition for boys from 16 to 17 on a 40 feet throw, Eddie Winters, representing Penn Avenue won out over Gene Wieber, East Side. Russell Brant, Post Playground took honors in Class B competition over Joseph McIntosh in the 13 to 15 age group, with a throwing distance of 34 feet.

Class C group for girls from 13-15 years was won by Jean Weltman, Post Playground, over Nancy Kegg, North End. Their tossing distance was 32 feet. Dick McGann, North End, defeated Bill Hanekamp in the finals of the Class D group from nine-12 at a pitching distance of 30 feet.

Class E girls competition with age groups of nine to 12 was won by JoAnn Knepp, Gephart over Donna Smith, East Side, at a tossing distance of 28 feet.

Pennsylvania Avenue representatives led the way in getting 16 points in box hockey competition with East Side garnering 15, Gephart 11 and Post and North End four each.

In Class A for boys William Rice, Penn Avenue, won out over Gene Weber, East Side. Kerry Kroll of Penn Avenue, took top honors in Class B over Joseph Martin, Gephart. Class C box hockey for girls was won by Wenda Adams, East Side, over Mary Librant, North End. William Hanekamp, East Side, won out over Kenny Yandelvitz, Gephart in the Class D group. In Class E competition Ella Mae Divelbess, Penn Avenue won over Regina Eichner, Gephart.

State FFA To Hold Convention At Md. University Next Week

Maryland members of the Future Farmers of America will hold their annual convention at the University of Maryland July 24-26. The State Department of Education sponsors the convention.

There will be three half day convention sessions, and 8 contests under the supervision of Harry McDonald, supervisor of agriculture.

Maryland Farmer Degrees will be awarded approximately 35 boys. The most outstanding FFA boy will receive the Star Farmer award. Officers will be elected. The chapter winning the state FFA safety contest will also be announced at the convention which is being held during National Farm Safety Week.

Property Sold

Property on Vine Street in Westernport has been sold for about $5,500, according to a deed filed yesterday in the office of the clerk of Circuit Court. The property was sold by R. Heber Poland, Katherine Poland, Robert H. Maybury and Margaret Maybury to Clyde E. Frankland and Mabel Frances Frankland.

Boy Scouts See Fire Fighting Demonstrations

Approximately 100 Attend Program

Boy Scouts at Potomac Council Camp were given demonstrations of forest fire fighting equipment Thursday night by members of the Maryland Department of State Forests and Parks, according to Willis V. Smith, executive secretary of Potomac Council Boy Scouts of America.

The youths were shown how to use a Panama pumper which operates from a fan belt on a truck. The truck which carries the pump also has a hundred gallon water storage tank.

Various tools and their uses in fighting a forest fire were also explained to the Scouts. The boys were given another demonstration on how a two-way radio can be of use in forest fire fighting.

After the demonstration period, a question and answer session about forest fire fighting was conducted. The boys were then taken to the camp dining hall to see a color motion picture showing the work carried on by the Department of State Forests and Parks.

Smith said approximately 100 boys and scout leaders attended the demonstrations and movie. He announced a similar program will be held next week as part of the regular camp activity.

Industry Group Is Sent Check

A check for $5,000 to the Cumberland and Allegany County Industrial Promotion Company was mailed yesterday afternoon by James G. Stevenson, clerk of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

This $5,000 is provided in the commissioners' budget for the 1951-52 fiscal year to aid in the promotion of new industry in this county. An act of the recent session of the State Legislature authorizes payment of the $5,000.

Funds for industrial promotion have come from three sources this year. The Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, the county commissioners and the Promotion Company contribute $5,000 each.

News Briefs

Delegate and Mrs. Noel Spier Cook went to Baltimore yesterday to attend a rally by the Anne Arundel County Young Republican Club near Annapolis today. U. S. Senator Robert Taft is scheduled to speak.

Waste Paper Collection

The weekly collection of waste paper will be made Monday at 9 a. m. on all streets south of Baltimore Street and Baltimore Avenue to Oldtown Road.

Maryland Life Insurance Increases 157 Per Cent

Maryland ownership of life insurance has increased by $2,400,000,000 since 1930, the greatest 20-year growth in the history of the state, in spite of the slowing up during the early '30s, the Institute of Life Insurance reports. This is a gain of 157 percent.

Some of this increase was due to population increase, but the institute points out that, even adjusting for the gain in number of people living in the state, the rise in life insurance ownership per capita in the 20-year period was 79 percent.

At the start of this year, life insurance owned by Maryland families totaled $3,932,000,000. This compares with $1,532,000,000 owned in this state 20 years before.

The 1930 population in this state of 1,632,000 had risen to 2,334,000 at the start of this year.

For the nation as a whole, the 20-year gain in life insurance ownership was 120 percent, rising from $106,413,000,000 to $234,047,000,000. In the same period, however, population increased from 122,775,000 to 150,521,000. Adjusting for this population growth, the gain in life insurance ownership countrywide was 79 percent.

The state with the greatest gain was New Mexico, with 170 percent. The areas with the greatest overall increase included the southern tier of states and the upper belt of the mountain states. This has been in part a reflection of the economic advances in the south and the improvement of farm conditions during the period, the institute commented. The states with the largest industrial centers showed the smallest per capita gains, generally, but this was primarily because they had developed their insurance base more effectively than other areas by the start of this last 20-year period.

Weather

Yesterday was a cool, comfortable day with clouds obstructing the sun's rays from time to time. A somewhat stiff breeze made the air dry and less humid. Temperatures stayed in the high 70's. Constitution Park's weather station reported the high temperature as 78 degrees, the low as 55, and at 8:20 p. m., the mercury leveled at 71 degrees. Humidity was marked at 49 per cent. The weatherman predicts fair weather for today with hardly any change in temperature.

BATTLE RAGES ON CONTROLS BILL

Crucial Eighth Agenda Meeting Is Ended With No Explanation

Foreign Troops Political Issue In Doubt

MUNSAN, Korea, Saturday, July 21 (AP)—Crucial armistice talks in the Korean War were recessed today until July 25, at the request of the Reds. There was no immediate explanation.

MUNSAN, Korea, Saturday, July 21 (AP) — The crucial eighth meeting of United Nations and Communists delegates striving to work out an agenda for a Korean War armistice conference got under way today at 10 a.m. (7 p.m. EST Friday).

U. N. delegates arrived by helicopter at the Truce City of Kaesong at 9:40 a.m. They entered the conference room at 9:55 a.m. and two minutes later were followed by the Communist negotiators.

Before the Allied delegation departed it was given copies of Secretary of State Dean Acheson's statement calling the removal of all foreign troops from Korea a political issue. One copy was handed to Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, head of the U. N. negotiators.

War or peace in Korea seemed to hinge on one issue — a Communist demand for agreement now on the question of withdrawing foreign troops from the mountainous, ravaged peninsula.

Insist Issue Political

The Allies have insisted this question is political and cannot be a condition for a military cease-fire.

The U. N. delegation left the nearby advance peace camp at 9:30 a.m. (6:30 p.m., EST, Friday) for the short flight to the Truce City. The meeting was scheduled for 10 a.m.

It was the eighth meeting of the Allied and Red delegations. Yesterday's session was postponed after flooded streams prevented the U. N.-five member group from reaching Kaesong by jeeps.

A motor convoy left for Kaesong with other personnel of the Allied delegation, including correspondents. Swollen creeks along the 15-mile road had subsided.

An Allied source said Friday "there is no great reason for optimism" on the possibility of settling the issue of withdrawing troops from Korea.

Even if this issue is solved, it will not mean a cease-fire, but merely an agreement on what subjects to discuss in seeking a cease-fire.

Through this haze of pessimism sifted reports that the issue might be resolved by a compromise calling

Flood Batters Dikes As Crest Nears Record

Missouri River May Soon Join Mississippi

ST. LOUIS, July 20 (AP) — The muddy Missouri rammed its biggest flood crest in more than a century to within a few miles of the swollen Mississippi tonight, leaving behind at least 27 dead and a billion dollars in damages.

It battered down dike after dike as it completed its paralyzing journey across the state from Kansas City, which suffered the heaviest blow from flood waters that poured down off the Kansas plains last week.

River Five Miles Wide

With its dike-smashing blows, the untameable Missouri flattened out for miles across the countryside. At points it was five miles wide.

Its crest passed St. Charles, Mo., the last town of any size between it and its juncture with the Mississippi, today and was expected to push the Mississippi up to 40.5 feet here by midnight Saturday. That would be the highest mark for the river since 1944.

Most of St.Louis, on high ground, was out of the flood danger zone. But precautions were taken here against a water shortage and contaimination of the supply.

The Red Cross has set up flood relief shelters for 3,720 persons in Missouri, exclusive of the Kansas City area. It is feeding 6,800.

The crest passed St. Charles, 15 miles north of here, this morning. It fell short of the predicted 38.3 feet but it climbed to 37.4, the highest in 107 years.

Thousands of additional acres were flooded there as most of the dikes went out. Altogether 1,500,000 acres of cropland have been inundated between Kansas City and here.

Labor Through Night

R. H. Musser, regional director for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service in the Upper Mississippi, has estimated agricultural damage in Missouri from the flood will exceed $100,000,000.

At New Haven, a town of 1,000 about 50 miles west of here, a terrific fight was being waged to save the business district. All the townspeople have joined in the struggle against the river.

Three hundred labored through last night, plugging up sand boils and blisters in the dikes as the crest surged by. Wilbur Lefmann, newspaper editor there, reported today the town felt it had won its battle. They have been sandbagging for two weeks now.

Crown Prince Wilhelm Dies

HECHINGEN, Germany, July 20 (AP)—Crown Prince Friederich Wilhelm, frustrated eldest son of Kaiser Wilhelm II of World War One, died today at his little villa—far removed from the Berlin palace he hoped to occupy as Emperor of a new Imperial Germany.

The heir-apparent of Germany's last Kaiser died after a long illness within sight of an 80-room Hohenzollern Castle he lacked the money to live in. He was 69.

Crown Princess Cecilie, separated from Wilhelm for many years, rushed here from Bad Kissingen but did not arrive in time. A specialist listed arterial sclerosis as the cause of death.

A great grandson of England's Queen Victoria, Wilhelm lived out two of the most destructive wars in history and two shattering German defeats.

One of the hardest blows of his life came in the battle of Verdun, in World War I. Marshal Henri Phillippe Petain, now a dying old man, declared "they shall not pass" and the Germans, nominally under the Crown Prince's command, did not.

Grief-Stricken Soldier Asks Forgiveness After Slaying

CINCINNATI, July 20 (AP)—The letter read:

"I'm the soldier who is responsible for the death of your son, McNeal.

"Only God knows the torment and grief that remains on my conscience day and night."

Thus wrote Pvt. Carroll Moore of Philadelphia, Pa., to Mrs. McNeal Tate, Cincinnati, of the death of her son in Korea July 2.

Moore said Tate and he "were playing around" in their quarters and that he pointed his rifle at Tate and pulled the trigger, not knowing it was loaded.

Tate, a negro, was struck in the chest and apparently died instantly, his sister, Dorothy, said today in releasing the letter from Moore.

"If you only knew how much I'm being haunted day and night by this terrible incident, I think you'd forgive me," the soldier wrote.

"If it wasn't for God and my faith in him, I don't think I could stand the torment. x x x

"The reason, as I said before, for writing you this letter is to express my sincere sorrow and to ask your forgiveness, for without it I'd never be able to forget this horrible crime I've committed."

Replying to the letter, Mrs. Tate said she wrote the young soldier:

"I understand how you felt, and I put my son in your place. I forgive you and I want you to ask God to forgive you, because if it hadn't been God's will, it wouldn't have been done

Blast Kills One

Firemen battle a fire in a row of stores on Chicago's South Side yesterday after an explosion in one of the stores killed a fireman and injured a number of spectators. The dead fireman and others were on the roof of the building when the blast occurred. Windows were shattered nearby and about 50 persons, mostly children, were cut by flying glass. The roof and front wall of the building collapsed.

Pretty High School Student Is Raped, Stabbed To Death

Hold Father's Friend; Neighbor Finds Body

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., July 20 (AP)—A pretty 17-year-old brunette was raped and slain today, her nude body punctured 45 times by an implement similar to an ice pick. The victim of the brutal attack was Janet Clark a Champaign High School student.

Police shortly afterward detained a friend of her father's for questioning. Capt. Russell Burke said a wristwatch belonging to the man was found near the body, and that the man admitted visiting the Clark home this morning but denied the slaying.

Police Question Suspect

The girl's father, Paul Clark, said she was in bed when he left for his job with a moving company at 8 this morning. An hour and a half later, a neighbor found her body on the floor of her father's bedroom.

Police were questioning Petey Parmer, 34, who lived some six blocks from the Clark home. Parmer and Dick Barham, 18, Champaign High School football player, spent the evening at the home last night as guests of the girl's father.

Capt. Burke said Parmer was taken into custody today when his wristwatch, its leather strap broke, was found near the girl's body. Parmer, Burke said, admitting owning the watch and said he must have left it at the house last night.

Burke said Parmer told him he went to the Clark home this morning looking for the father. He said he talked to Janet through the screen door but left when she told him her father was not there.

Burke said an acquaintance of Parmer's, Earl Leonard, told police he saw Parmer's station wagon parked around 9 a. m. about a half block from the Clark home at the mouth of an alley.

Parmer, employed by Johns Manville, an insulating firm, is married but childless. His wife is out of town on a vacation trip. No charges have been filed against him.

The girl's body was found when a neighbor woman became suspicious of a man she saw cutting across the Clark back yard.

The neighbor, Mrs. J. H. Foote, told police she was in her back yard next door when she saw the man. She sair she became suspicious because he kept turning his head away from her.

Signs Of Struggle

Mrs. Foote said she found the Clark back door unlocked. She investigated and found the body. The girl lived alone with her father since her mother's death last year. She had a married sister.

The living room of the house bore signs of a struggle. Two tables were overturned and a lamp and ashtray broken. The girl's robe was found neatly folded on the davenport. Scattered about the living room were her torn pajama top, her pajama trousers, turned inside out, and her panties, described by police as "torn to shreds."

A leather awl, which police said inflicted the multiple stab wounds, was found under the bed in Clark's bedroom. Clark said it belonged to him and was customarily kept in the kitchen. A man's blue necktie was knotted about the girl's throat.

Ants Cause Fire When DDT Spray Ignites On Heater

SAN DIEGO, Calif., July 20 (AP)—Ah, those ants!

They were the cause of a fire here last night.

Glen Stephenson, 37, sprayed his apartment with a DDT solution to get rid of them.

The gas water heater ignited the spray.

Stephenson's apartment was badly damaged and he was burned on a hand and foot.

The ants? Oh yes, Stephenson got rid of them.

U. S. Invites Treaty Signers

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — The United States today invited 50 nations, including Soviet Russia, to join in signing the Japanese peace treaty at a conference opening September 4 at San Francisco.

Conspicuously missing from the invitation list were both the Communist and Nationalist governments of China and Italy. Also omitted were South Korea and three new French-sponsored states of Indochina.

Russia, which has denounced both the proposed "peace of reconciliation" and the manner in which the terms were worked out, is expected to refuse to sign. It is considered possible, nevertheless, that Moscow might send delegates to the conference to attack the treaty.

Japan will have the right after the treaty goes into effect to make peace separately with the nations which fail to sign at San Francisco.

Rita To Seek Immediate Divorce

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Rita Hayworth's lawyer said today "she wants a speedy divorce." He added that Prince Aly Khan apparently is wasting his time trying to make up with the movie actress.

"Miss Hayworth is definitely of the opinion that the matter is terminated," Attorney Bartley Crum said.

Earth Tremor Felt

CASSINO, Italy, July 20 (AP) — An earth tremor shook Cassino at 1 p.m. (7 a.m., E. S. T.) today. A number of war-damaged buildings collapsed but there were no immediate reports of casualties.

Crisis Is Seen In Abdullah's Assassination

Jordan's King Was Friend Of Britain

JERUSALEM, July 20—Jordan's King Abdullah, a friend of Britain who wielded strong force in the Arab world, was assassinated today beside a Mosque in old Jerusalem.

The slaying, on territory Abdullah took over in the Palestine War and ruled as "King Of Jerusalem," brought a new political crisis to the troubled Middle East.

The 69-year-old ruler was cut down by pistol bullets as he was going to pray at the tomb of his father at noon on the Moslem Sabbath.

He had claimed he was the oldest living descendant of the Prophet Mohammed.

He was born in Mecca, and he died on an inner doorstep of the Aqsa Mosque in the compound of the towering Mosque of Omar that embraces the Dome of the Rock. Koranic scripture says Mohammed rose to heaven on a white horse from the rock.

Assassin Is Slain

The assassin was killed on the spot by Abdullah's bodyguard.

An official announcement later said the assassin was a 21-year-old Jerusalem Moslem tailor named Mustapha Shukry Ashsho, or Ashou. The Arab News Agency and other sources said he was a member of the "sabotage corps" or "demolition squad" of an underground group called "The Sacred Struggle Organization." Two high-ranking officers wounded.

An earlier report from informed British sources identified the killer as Mustafa Shakir and said he had past connections with the exiled former Mufti of Jerusalem, now living in Cairo.

There was a feeling that his assassination was a clear blow to the prospects for continued negotiation between Jordan and Isreal. He was the only Arab ruler who dealt with Israel in the past three years.

Abdullah's body was flown back to Amman.

The vigorous, bearded king, 5 feet, 4 tall, had been at odds with his Arab neighbor monarchs from time to time over the years. Abdullah was a first world war ally of Lawrence of Arabia and a protege of Winston Churchill on the checkerboard of Mid-East politics.

The Jordan radio in Abdullah's capital, Amman, announced his 35-year-old second son, Emir (Prince) Naif was immediately named regent to rule over the 300,000 Jordan subjects. The radio then began Jordan's official mourning period with verses from the Koran chanted by the Nullahs (Moslem Priests).

Includes Old Jerusalem

The Jordan rule also includes Old Jerusalem and a slice of Palestine won by Abdullah's British-supported Arab legion in the war against the Israelis in the late 1940s.

Abdullah's assassination was the second involving Jordan within a week.

Riad El Solh, Lebanon's expremiar and strong man in the wars for Lebanese independence, was slain in Amman after a visit and dinner last weekend with Abdullah. The three assassins were identified as semi-Fascist Syrian-Lebanese Nationalists who stalked El Solh to Abdullah's capital. One

State To Probe Red Congress

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Three trustees of the Civil Rights Congress bail fund, financial "angel" of arrested Communists, were called on today to testify Wednesday in a State Banking Investigation into the fund.

State Supreme Court Justice Henry Clay Greenberg signed writs of habeas corpus calling on the warden of the Federal House of Detention to produce them at that time.

All three are serving contempt of court sentences for refusing to identify contributors to the fund, which forfeited $80,000 bond when four convicted Communist leaders jumped bail early this month.

The three trustees are Frederick Vanderbilt Field, millionaire leftist; Dashiell Hammett, author of the "Thin Man" and Dr. W. Alphaeus Hunton, a Negro scholar.

Attorneys for the fund contend that the investigation by the state banking superintendent is simply another way of trying to uncover identities of the contributors.

The investigators say they are looking into possible violations of a state banking law which prohibits the soliciting or receiving of deposits—in this case the contributions—without authorization.

RAPED, SLAIN — Janet Clark, 17, was found brutally slain at Champaign, Ill., yesterday in her home where police said her nude body was found in her father's bedroom with 45 stab wounds apparently inflicted by a leather awl. She had been raped and a man's necktie was knotted around her throat.

Crime Probe Witness Is Threatened

Francis L. Smith Gets Death Notice

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — The Senate Crime Committee said today a witness in its probe of Atlantic City gambling had become the target of a death threat. It promptly enlisted the aid of the FBI.

The witness, Francis L. Smith, appeared before the committee shortly after disclosure of the warning that he would be "rubbed out" if he testified.

Smith, a slight, sandy-haired man who operated a game of chance on Atlantic City's boardwalk, told of making a $250 "contribution" two years ago to State Senator Frank S. Farley, the Republican leader there.

Armed Capitol police sat by as he testified.

Chairman O'Conor (D-Md) of the crime committee said that police protection was being provided for Smith and his family while FBI agents investigated the threat against his life.

Praised by O'Conor for having the "guts" to testify, Smith identified Herman "Sumpy" Orman as the man with the real say as to whether various types of games operated in the city.

Other witnesses in the two-day hearing, which ended in late afternoon, described Orman as the gambling kingpin in the resort city. Orman denied it.

It was while Orman was being questioned that Richard Moser, the crime committee's chief counsel, disclosed the threat against Smith's life.

"Last night," said Moser, "a man named Joe Ryan, a jewelry salesman, walked into Smith's store and told the girl behind the counter to tell Smith that if he testified before the crime committee against Mr. Orman he is going to be rubbed out."

Wholesale Prices Drop Half Per Cent

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — Wholesale prices, as measured by the government, dropped another one half of one per cent during the week ended July 17. This was the seventh straight week prices have declined.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, reporting this, said its price index was 178.8 per cent of the 1926 average. This was 14 per cent above the average before the Korean War started.

Final Voting On The Measure Is Expected Soon In House

Anti-Administration Forces Score

WASHINGTON, July 26 (AP)—Administration forces in the House tonight delivered three sudden and unexpected knockout blows to proposed major curbs on the administration's price control authority, notably including a freeze on wage-price ceilings and a "reasonable profit" amendment.

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—Anti-administration forces rolled up a series of thumping victories in the House controls fight tonight and reaffirmed a decision to limit farm price rollbacks, including beef, to 10 per cent of the May 19 price.

This would ban the two rollbacks of 4½ per cent each on live beef prices ordered by Price Director Michael V. DiSalle, They had been scheduled to go into effect on Aug. 1 and Oct. 1, following up a recent 10 per cent rollback.

It would also prevent any rollbacks at all on farm products selling below parity—the government-set formula for assuring farmers a fair return on their products in relation to the things they buy.

Farm products selling above parity would be subject to rollbacks.

However, with a few exceptions, almost all farm products are now selling below parity.

With a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats in absolute control, the Chamber voted 234 to 183 on a name-recording rollcall to ban more than the present 10 per cent rollback on beef prices.

Earlier, the House beat down administration forces in other critical tests centering on amendments previously approved on a tentative basis.

The House refused to reverse its previous action banning livestock slaughtering quotas which the Truman Administration contended are needed to prevent a revival of World War II black markets.

The roll call vote against the quotas was 249 to 167. Foes of the quotas contended they actually encourage black markets by restricting the business of legitimate slaughterers.

Shortly before, the Chamber had dealt the administration another defeat when it voted 265 to 148 to write in a two-year curb on the import of fats, oils, peanuts, butter, cheese, and other dairy products if they compete with domestic products.

Anti-administration forces rolled up another smashing majority on a third test when the House 232 to 184 to stand pat on its previous refusal to empower President Truman to acquire and operate defense plants.

A coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats was completely in the driver's seat in all three votes.

Republican spokesmen contended the defense plant authority proposed for the President was so broad it would conceivably lead to nationalization of industry and would give Mr Truman "life and death" powers over business.

Later the House reaffirmed its stand against granting President Truman authority to create new government corporations to carry out defense production and eco-

Mason Admits Taking Money In "Con" Probe

Fleeced His Victims Of Over $88,000

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) —The fabulous Sam Mason admitted today that he tapped "clients" for thousands in "sewer money" on promise to bribe Washington officials.

"But," he asked senators, "what's wrong with that?"

In answer, a Senate investigating committee turned over his testimony to the Justice Department and Internal Revenue Bureau, with a view to prosecution.

Russian-Born "Con Man"

The committee has charged that Mason fleeced "gullible victims," including two Greek Catholic priests, out of a third of a million dollars.

Most of it was supposed to be used in lining up bargain dollar-a-year leases on government buildings. There would be a lot of buildings available, he told his clients, because the government was going underground to escape an atomic attack.

The committee said the 59-year-old Mason of New York, is really a Russian-born confidence man by the name of Mussman with a criminal record a yard long.

Mason, who said he once stuffed money into his hollow wooden leg, testified he had taken $88,000 from "clients" but said he had turned over most of the money to a mysterious "Mr. Eungart," now in Australia.

He also admitted he had not filed an income tax return since 1929 because he never had any money left at the end of the year. He said he lost a lot on the ponies.

Mason Testifies Calmly

The committee included in its testimony a criminal record attributed to Mason under the name of Mussman. It dates from 1922 and includes a long list of indictments and charges for mail fraud, bogus stock deals and larceny. At least two jail sentences are included, the last one a three to four year term at Charlestown, Mass., for larceny. The man was released in November, 1946, and apparently has a clean record ever since.

Fireman Is Killed, 50 Persons Injured

CHICAGO, July 20 (AP)—An explosion in a burning South Side building today killed a fireman and injured many other persons.

About 50 persons, mostly children, were cut by flying glass when windows were blown out by the explosion. The fire took place in a busy shopping neighborhood.

The fireman who lost his life was Edward Paulson.

He and other firemen were on the roof of the building when the blast occurred. It shattered windows in other stores in the block. Some of the dozen badly injured also were cut by glass.

The blaze attacked a row of small stores on the East Side of Ashland Avenue. They are housed in the same building.

American Legion Head Says Russia Air Force Greatest

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—Erle Cocke, American Legion national commander, said tonight the United States is a second-class air power.

Russia has 7,000 modern jet fighters, he said, against no more than 2,000 for this country.

In bomber and freight production, Russia is outbuilding the U. S. at a ratio of 4 to 1, said Cocke, and the Red Air Force has more than 1,000 bombers like the B-29s which "can reach America" with Russian atomic bombs.

In an address prepared for a Legion department convention here, Cocke declared:

"This is a frightening picture. But more frightening is the fact that it will take us until 1954 to match the Russians in the air."

He said "the Air Force build-up from 48 to 97 groups has virtually stopped" at an 87-group level attained the first of this month. Planes which were in storage for equipping new groups have been exhausted and new groups cannot be equipped until new planes come off production lines. He added that:

"About half of the combat planes in our combat units today are obsolete. In the event of war you would be sending your husbands, brothers and sons into battle with second-rate equipment."

Cocke contended Russian air strength clearly demonstrates that the 95-group goal for the U. S. is inadequate and said the Legion supports an increase in both Air Force and Naval aviation.

"To do this," he said, "an Air Force of 150 groups with 20,000 first-line combat planes is the rock-bottom minimum. For the Navy, 7,000 first-line combat planes are required

HISTORIC MARYLAND SEAL IS SECURED—The replica of the seal of Maryland, which was in the ceiling of the House of Representatives in Washington from 1857 to 1949, has been turned over to Maryland through the effort of Rep. J. Glenn Beall. Congress authorized the transfer of the state seal in the old ceiling to the various states when the House Chamber was renovated in 1950, and Rep. Beall immediately took steps to secure the 92-year-old seal for Maryland archives. Rep. Beall invited members of the Maryland Congressional delegation to attend the transfer ceremnoy in the capitol. Left to right are: Rep. Lansdale G. Sasscer, Rep. Beall, Rep. George H. Fallon, Davis Lynn, capitol architect who made the transfer, Secretary of State John H. Reeves of Maryland, who accepted the seal, Rep. Edward A. Garmatz, Rep. Edward T. Miller, and Rep. James P. S. Devereux.

Maryland State 4-H Club Fair To Be Held One Week Earlier

Maryland's State 4-H Club Fair will be held on week earlier with this years dates set at August 28-September 2. The announcement was made by Mylo S. Downey, state boys club leader at his College Park office.

Downey listed several advantages connected with the change in schedules. First of all, the youngsters taking part in the earlier-scheduled Fair will not have to miss the opening of schools as in previous years.

Secondly, less time will be required for judges to place the 4-H classes. Therefore, the animals may be removed from the grounds in three days instead of being kept at the Fair for six days as in previous years.

A third advantage given by Downey is that 4-H members will now be able to judge their animals' worth in the 4-H competition before making the decision to enter them in the open classes. Club members may register for the open classes as late as Friday afternoon, August 31.

These factors, says Downey, are expected to encourage more 4-H'ers to participate in the State Fair this year. He estimated that approximately 600 boys and girls will enter exhibits, in contrast with the 450 who usually take part.

In order that Fair-goers may see the 4-H winners and their animals during the second weeks of the Timonium event, a barn will be set aside to house the champion Club animals. This barn will be called the "4-H Hall of Champions.'

Post Office Fund Cut Is Defeated

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP)—The Senate today defeated, 30 to 28, a proposal to trim $36,100,000 from Post Office Department funds for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The vote followed a long debate, covering such things as whether the postman could increase his efficiency by making his rounds on a tricycle.

Former Senate Candidate Named In Jobs Probe

Forrest Jackson One Of Trio Arrested

JACKSON, Miss., July 20 (AP) — Three persons, including a former candidate for U. S. Senator, were arrested today on charges of conspiring to sell Federal jobs in Mississippi.

The trio were Forrest Jackson, who once ran for U. S. Senator and an important political figure in Mississippi; and Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Murphy, key witnesses at a U. S. Senate sub-committee investigation into alleged job sales here last April.

Each posted $2,500 bond and was ordered to appear in Federal Court here Sept. 5.

The three were among an undisclosed number indicted yesterday by a Federal Grand Jury after an eight-day investigation into reported job sales. The special grand jury started its investigation after a Senate sub-committee held open hearings both here and in Washington.

Jackson was attorney for the pro-Truman Democratic committee in Mississippi—a rump committee formed after the regular Democratic organization bolted the party to join states rights ranks in 1948.

The pro-Truman committee was accused of soliciting contributions in return for Federal job recommendations.

Mrs. Murphy was a committee member and her husband a former mail carrier.

Eckert Cleared Of Gaming Charge

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., July 20 (AP) — Paul Eckert, of Baltimore, was cleared of charges of conspiring to violate Maryland's gambling laws at Bowie race track in a directed verdict today by Judge J. Dudley Digges.

The Judge handed down his decision in Prince Georges County Circuit Court here in the absence of the jury after the state had rested its case and defense had moved for a directed dismissal of charges against all six who are standing trial.

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Saturday, July 21 (AP) — The Korean War was weathered in Friday.

Rains cut sharply into air operations. Bombers, sighting targets by radar through heavy clouds, attacked railroad yards in North Korea but were unable to observe results.

The biggest ground action reported was between attacking Allied elements and a company of Reds defending dug-in positions northwest of Yanggu in East-Central Korea. An Eighth Army communique last night said the fight began at 11 a. m. and was continuing at last reports.

nomic controls tasks. By a roll call vote of 250 to 167, it sustained an amendment by Rep Hardy (D-Va) knocking the requested authority from the bill.

Before final voting began the House shouted down a move to abolish all credit controls but voted 140-43 to allow 21 months instead of the present 15 months for completing payments on new and used automobiles.

Before starting final rollcalls, the House approved a committee amendment allowing a 20 per cent increase in rents over figures based on June 30, 1947. This follows the Senate bill. The provision applies in areas which are under rent control.

The Chamber shouted down a proposal by Rep. Multer (D-NY) to put a 120-day freeze on rent to conform with the freeze it has voted on wag and price ceilings, and another by Rep. Kennedy (D-Mass) to make the rent increase 10 per cent instead of 20 per cent.

The House also voted additional easing of credit controls on household appliances, furniture and home repairs.

Permits Trade-Ins

It would permit trade-ins to count toward down-payments on household appliances—television sets and the like. It also voted to lower the down payment on such articles from the present 25 per cent to 15 per cent, and to raise the maximum time for payment from 15 months to 18 months.

Installment credits on household furniture and flood coverings were changed from 15 per cent to 10 per cent down payment, and from 15 months to 21 months to pay.

The down payment on household repairs was left at 10 per cent, but the maximum time for payment was hiked from 30 months to 36 months. In case of roofing and siding, down payments were eliminated entirely.

Moving at top speed, the House voted to liberalize down payments on homes on an amendment by Rep. Denton (D-Ind. This would require prospective home owners to pay no more than 10 per cent down on houses costing up to $10,000 with 25 years to pay.

was killed by an Arab legion officer, another killed himself and the third escaped.

One of Abdullah's last acts was a speech condemning assassination as a political instrument.

The king himself, a bundle of energy who always wore the flowing robes and headgear of Araby and strictly observed the Islamic taboos against liquor and tobacco, led his legion on the battlefronts of Eastern Palestine.

In 1948, Palestinian Arabs proclaimed him King of all Palestine. He and his Egyptian, Syrian and other allies failed to take Palestine against the Zionists but Abdullah got what he wanted most out of it.

That was old Jerusalem and its Moslem shrines. He pledged himself to protect the Christian and Jewish holy places as well.

Abdullah's kingdom formerly was part of the British-administered, League of Nations mandate of Palestine. Jordan was split off and Abdullah became its king in 1946.

Court House Records Funds Available

New Equipment Can Be Obtained

The office of the Maryland comptroller has approved a recommendation by Associate Judges George Henderson and Morgan C. Harris for funds relative to making improvements at the Court House.

A letter to this effect was read at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

The comptroller's office has approved a request for $1,200 for the purchase of new roller shelves to be used in keeping of records.

To Make Photostats

In addition, $6,000 has been allotted towards the cost of installing a photostatic machine to take care of recordings in the offices of the clerk of the court and register of wills.

The letter, signed by Joseph McCusker, chief deputy of the Office of the Comptroller, says: "We believe this represents a big step forward in recording work."

Photostatic equipment has been installed in a number of offices with successful results, the communication points out. Such equipment is being used at Rockville, Upper Marlboro and Annapolis. Baltimore county has ordered the same equipment and will be making photostats within the next 60 days.

Cost Advances

The comptroller's office suggests that Clerk of the Court Joseph E. Boden contact other clerks of the court who have installed this equipment to get the benefit of their views.

The money from the state is to be withheld from the fees of Boden's office for the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1951.

Judge Henderson said yesterday afternoon that he had just learned that a photostatic machine, of the type which has been used in the court at Uniontown, Pa., for several years, can now be obtained for $10,300.

At yesterday's meeting, the commissioners discussed with Judge Henderson some proposed changes at the Court House, including revamping of the basement.

To Clean Basement

William Lemmert, chairman of the Board of Commissioners, said the basement will have to be cleaned before any decision is made as to the relocation of various rooms and offices.

That, of course, means a number of old records will have to be burned or disposed of in some manner. Judge Henderson said before any disposition is made of old records, they must be offered to the Hall of Records in Annapolis. "They can only be destroyed," he declared, "after certain laws are complied with."

Clerk of the Court Boden hails the approval of the purchase of photostatic equipment as "the biggest improvement we've had here in years," pointing out that it will expedite work in Court House offices and at the same time increase their efficiency.

Preliminary work in clearing the basement is expected to begin next week.

County Will Receive Bids On Repair Work

Separate sealed bids will be received by the Board of County Commissioners until August 10 on proposals for three projects.

The projects in question are the repairing of the south side of the county jail, repairing all windows in the County Welfare Building and alterations and installation of fire escape on the County Home.

Further information may be obtained from James G. Stevenson, clerk to the commissioners.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

When Gloria Lloyd, who not so long ago was one of the buds in my bouquet of long-stemmed beauties and now has blossomed into a Hollywod starlet, made a flying visit to New York I cornered her for a contribution to the model talk that goes on in this column.

As the daughter of my friend Harold Lloyd, I knew I could depend on Gloria for some pointers on how to win in the charm sweepstakes.

Starlet's Secret

"How about leading off with what you consider the most important secret of charm," I prodded.

"That's easy!" said Gloria. "Remembering that the eyes of someone are always on you is the best spur to charm a woman can have. If she keeps that in mind she'll always try to make sure that her posture, clothes and grooming are the best that she can muster. 'It doesn't matter' is a thought that will just never enter her head when it's something that concerns her actions, appearance or speech. With that as an approach to her life no woman can fail to charm."

"Is that what you do?" I inquired.

"Of course! Isn't that what you told me to do when I was a neophyte Powers Girl? It's a principle I've followed always. To carry it out, a girl has to be studying all of the time to learn as much as she can if she is going to keep herself attractive to the eyes and the ears of her world. And the best part of it is that you can't pursue that sort of program and be bored for a minute; you're just too busy keeping up with the world."

Most Valuable Accessory

Sagacious girl, that Gloria! "What do the other starlets think about such matters?" I asked.

"Every single one has a serious program for self improvement; they believe in the model ways just as much as I do. And believe me, they know the value of good grooming! I think it's the most valuable accessory to charm a woman can possess."

"What! More valuable than jewels or furs!" I said with all the mock shock I could muster.

"More valuable than a mink coat in January!" affirmed lovely Gloria.

County Receives Road Complaints

Complaints about the condition of roads throughout the county continue to mount.

At yesterday morning's meeting of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners a number of protests from citizen committees was aired.

J. French VanMeter, judge of the Orphans Court, speaking in behalf of residents of Brant Road, pointed out the road is filled with big holes and urged early repair.

Board Chairman William H. Lemmert said the heavy snows and ice of the past winter has slowed county roads work considerably and promised Van Meter repairs on the Brant Road would be made "just as soon as humanly possible."

Commissioner Holmes added that Brant Road is on the list of those in bad need of repair and said it will be taken care of.

Louis Hartsock told the commissioners Perrin Road, off Route 40, is almost impassable due to the holes and ruts. J. Walter Chapman, supervisor of the County Roads Department, said Perrin Road is next on the list to be fixed and added work will start either Tuesday or Wednesday.

A. L. Comer, Braddock Farms, said heavy rains and subsequent high water have resulted in water undermining an abutment of a bridge and wall along his property. Chapman said he will investigate the complaint immediately.

The State Roads Commission notified the county that in preparing condemnation plats for resurfacing work on Williams Road it would be necessary to determine the width of the existing right-of-way.

Examination of title abstracts, a letter states, shows in several instances a right-of-way of 50 feet. The state roads body wants information relative to the dedicated width or other secured right of way. The matter was referred to Chapman.

4-H Farm Boys To Attend State Conservation Camp

Maryland 4-H farm boys will have an entire week of camp life and valuable conservation training when they attend the State 4-H Conservation Camp at Pleasant Valley, Bittinger, next week. Nearly 100 outstanding 4-H boys from all 23 counties have been selected to take part in the event.

The five-day program is divided into three parts—the boys will be taught soil and water conservation, wildlife and fishery management, and forestry. Specialists from federal and state as well as private organizations will be on hand to instruct the group. All teaching will be done by demonstrations, lectures, and tours.

Harry W. Dengler, extension forester, and W. Sherard Wilson, assistant state boys club leader, are in charge of the camp.

Tuesday has been named as "Wildlife Conservation Day" and the boys, all of whom are required to be at least 15 years old, will be taught identification of ducks, song birds, and wild game animals common to the Maryland area. Proper methods of trapping farm furbearers will be stressed, along with the skinning of the animals and curing of hides.

Game Wardens will demonstrate how wild rabbits are trapped in areas where they are too abundant. The live animals trapped at the camp are to be released in areas where rabbits are scarce to replenish the supply. The 4-H'ers will also learn how to develop game refuges on farms by planting food and cover plants.

Identification of fish and the types of food they feed on will be taken up in the study of fish management. Part of this instruction will include the actual seining of a lake at the camp.

Other subjects taken up will be the management and improvement of fishing conditions in farm ponds and streams. The young anglers will also be taught the proper methods of fishing, even to tying flies.

On the day set aside for soil conservation instruction, the club members will tour a number of Garrett county farms, inspecting terraces, diversion ditches, contour pastures, and strip cropping.

As part of their forestry studies the boys will learn how to plant trees for reforestration, windbreaks, and for use as Christmas trees. They will also be shown the latest equipment and techniques for controlling disastrous forest fires.

Highlighting the camp will be periods set aside for swimming instruction, rifle marksmanship practice, and the exhibition of various firearms. A log-sawing contest and various sports are also scheduled.

Bumper Crops

The Department of Agriculture at Washington reveals that bumper crops are being harvested, with both corn and wheat estimates up from the optimistic predictions of June 1. There will not be a shortage in a single food category.

The prediction now is that 3,295,143,000 bushels of corn and 1,070,132,000 bushels of wheat will be harvested this year. Aggregate crop production, based upon current forecasts, may exceed that of any year of record except 1948, the department says.

The indicated corn crop will be one of the largest in the nation's history. Corn is, of course, the key feed crop for livestock. Broken down, the predicted wheat crop consists of 706,749,000 bushels of winter wheat and 363,383,000 bushels of spring wheat. An increase of 1.4 bushels in indicated yield per acre, plus a 20 per cent increase in seeded acreage resulted in the substantial increase over previous estimates.

Oats production, it is estimated, will exceed the government goal of 1,350,000,000 bushels, while the barley crop, now placed at 262,590,000 bushels, will be 11 per cent below the goal.

Pessimistic reports of crop damage are not being borne out by harvest tallies, and this is something for Americans to be thankful for. A plentiful supply of food at reasonable prices can be achieved only by full scale crop production, and farm prosperity that is based on adequate supplies instead of scarcities is the most firmly founded.

Inflation Note

This may be good news, or bad. It is one of those items that are difficult to evaluate. From Washington, of course.

It seems one government department is about to lay off 300 of the help. On August 10, that is. Technological advancement has made their services kaput. They will no longer be needed, and Uncle Sam wants them off the payroll.

That sounds like a deflation note, and good news for the taxpayers. If the government laid off more of the help, and spent less money, prices might stop going up. Cheapening of the dollar would be halted.

But wait. The 300 employees worked in the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, where they slipsheeted paper money as it was printed—so it wouldn't smudge. Now some genius has invented a quick-drying ink that makes it possible for fast presses to spew out the money in heaps with no danger of smudging. And no slipsheeting is necessary.

But if the government can now print paper money much faster than ever, is that good? Will that provide a brake for inflation.

It all depends upon what use the government makes of its new-found power—whether it learns to know its own strength. If it uses self-restraint and lets the presses cool off between billions, the net result of this advancement in the printing art should be good.

Damming The Flow

Russian and Russian-satellite military planners and industrialists are having more difficulty than previously in getting data on U. S. production, processes, specifications, models. Behind the Iron Curtain, anybody gathering such data would be subject to trial for industrial espionage. But this kind of information is still available to a large extent in the various trade periodicals and technical journals sold openly in this country.

The U. S. Department of Commerce requires an export license for the shipment of such publications to the Soviet bloc. But the journals can still go through the international mails.

The export of war-potential goods to Russia and its satellites "has long been embargoed not only by the U. S., but by . . . most of the free world," Presidential Press Secretary Short declared on June 15. Short was explaining the President's action in suspending the ban of the Kem amendment on economic aid to nations supplying Russia with war materials.

Even if a practicable method of stopping the flow of technical publications could be devised, they could still be sent by diplomatic pouch. But the flow runs two ways. As long as diplomatic relations between Russia and the U. S. are maintained, similar information reaches this country through diplomatic channels.

No Other Peace Like It

The peace treaty which the Allies, under the leadership of the United States, have proposed for Japan is, indeed, a unique document. For the first time in history a nation which started a war and waged it relentlessly is to go unpunished in any substantial way.

The treaty does strip the Japanese of their overseas holdings, including Formosa and various Pacific Islands, but it permits them to rearm, to build up their industries, and otherwise to regain their status as people of a sovereign country.

Of the 50-odd nations which were officially at war with Japan enough have approved the principles of the new treaty to make acceptance certain. The Russians had a plan of their own for establishing peace but were bluntly told they were out of order. The world is going along without them and fortunately they enjoy no veto power.

The Philippines are disappointed because they will receive no rations. Whether they will sign the treaty is a matter of speculation.

Otherwise the nations of the world are prepared to try the experience of a "peace of reconciliation." Whatever happens, it can have no worse results than have followed some peace treaties of the past.

Camps And Kids

This life-begins-at-40 routine is well enough for the old folks at home. But any discerning person from seven to 17 can set you straight on that. Life really begins on that long awaited day, when, with bags packed and fluttering parents giving parting and unheard advice, you finally arrive at railroad station or bus terminal to set off for camp.

It doesn't matter especially what camp, or where it's located. Near or far there are endless Pottawatamies, Cherokees, Onondagas and Shadybrooks to choose from. The locale may vary, also the rates. Otherwise the octane content of each is much the same—crew cuts, freckles, flashing grins, noisy and high.

Yes, indeed, school's out and it's heigh for the merry green woods. The trail awaits the hiker, the water's fine, the fish may or may not bite on your line. Happy days are here again.

See you later, mom; so long, pop.

How To Keep Well

The Care Of The Well Child

Periodic examination of children is becoming an American institution. The plan permits the physician to watch the growth and development of the youngster and affords the opportunity to see what the child is like when healthy to appreciate his condition when ill. It also gives the parents an opportunity to have their questions answered.

In the first year of life the infant should be taken to the physician at least every other month; in the next month, there are quarterly visits; and thereafter, twice annually until the boy or girl goes to school. This may seem like a waste of time and money but such checkups pay dividends that are not always apparent at first. The procedure is like having an architect supervise the building of a house; the physician supervises the child during the most formidable years of life.

In early infancy, feeding is an important consideration because minor deviations may have a lasting effect. During this stage the weight is watched carefully as well as the appearance of the baby. The physician also delves into the eating habits, sensitivity to foods, and the need for vitamin supplements. This is not difficult but its simplicity sometimes fosters neglect. At three months, prophylactic immunization for whooping cough, diphtheria, and tetanus are on the agenda. Vaccination for smallpox follows shortly thereafter.

Routine examinations also disclose abnormalities that may be remediable through early treatment. Congenital defects often escape detection at birth and several weeks may pass before they come to the attention of the physician. In the past, abnormalities of this type sometimes continued until they had progressed beyond the correctable stage. Nowadays surgeons have devised many new operations for defects of the heart, lungs, kidneys, bladder, and other organs.

Meanwhile the physician is watching develoment as well as growth. He is concerned with the muscle power and coordiation of the tike. Child guidance and mental hygiene also are offered under such a program. The mother benefits from the conferences as much as the child because she obtains many helpful hints along this line. Counseling on eating and sleeping habits is not too trivial to be discussed because such problems early in life may contribute to mental disturbances later. This is a form of prophylaxis that is just as vital as smallpox vaccination and diphtheria toxoid. It is surprising how many of us take parenthood for granted and neglect opportunities to learn more about the obligations and responsibilities that go along with being a father or mother. After all, the future of the youngster is at stake.

BAG BREATHING

H. C. writes: In your article on fast breathing due to nervousness, you state that breathing into and out of a paper bag often gives relief. How long should this be done and can a plastic bag be used?

REPLY

Rebreathing for several minutes at a time usually is sufficient and it makes no difference whether the bag is made of paper or plastic material. Everything is plastic nowadays except disease.

SCABIES

N. T. writes: Is it true that the itch lasts seven years?

REPLY

Not if the suffer is treated properly. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on scabies.

MOTTLED SKIN

N. W. writes: My physician has given me calcium and hormones for livedo reticularis but there is no improvement. Can you make any additional suggestions?

REPLY

Not if your physician has done a metabolism test and has made general recommendations concerning poor circulation. If the skin is mottled to such an extent that it is unsightly the lesions can be camouflaged with cosmetics.

OATMEAL AND HEAT

Mrs. L. H. writes: Is there any truth in the idea that oatmeal is not good for one in the summer time? The supposition is that it heats the blood but I find it a good energy food and have never noticed any heating therefrom.

REPLY

There probably are more legends built around oatmeal than any other cereal. There is no more truth to the theory you inquire about than to the statement that "it sticks to the ribs." Like other foods it produces energy but it will not warm the blood to such an extent that the body will catch on fire.

Truman Stages "Fireside Chat" For Congressional Democrats; Solicits Criticism And Confides Hope For Peace; Committee Draws Criticism

WASHINGTON—It was kept out of the newspapers but President Truman had another of his confidential talks with members of Congress at Blair House over coffee and sandwiches some time ago. Most significant development at the session was a blast at William Boyle, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and an impassioned presidential plea for peace by the President.

Present at the meeting were Senators Clements of Kentucky, Hennings of Missouri, Humphrey of Minnesota, Murray of Montana, and Smathers of Florida; together with Representatives Boggs of Louisiana, Hays of Ohio, Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, and Yorty of California—all Democrats.

Truman opened the discussion by urging his guests to speak freely on any gripes they might be nursing. He is used to criticism, he said, after all the brickbats tossed at him following the ouster of MacArthur.

"I don't care what the newspapers or my Republican foes say about me," he declared. "All I hope is that I am able to settle this crisis without one American city being atom-bombed and without the destruction of civilization by a third world war.

"What people say about me is of no importance if I can prevent that. After all, I have no personal ambitions."

Then he added—with a grin:

"Ive gone as high as I can get. There's no future in this job."

Waxing serious again, the President stated that there is a crying need for more constructive criticism, and less mud-slinging and reckless vituperation, if the government is to serve the best interests of the American people on both the foreign and domestic fronts.

Gabrielson's Fees

"A lot of Democrats are peeved about the RFC investigation, but it is constructive to let the public know both sides of the inquiry," Truman remarked. "Anything less is a whitewash I proposed to reorganize the RFC some time ago, but I got little help or encouragement from Congress."

Looking at Congressman Hays of Ohio, he checked himself and added:

"I did get some important help from you. Your speech about those big fees received by Guy Gabrielson (Republican National Chairman) for getting RFC loans for the Carthage Hydrcol Company was a great job."

"The only thing that made me mad about my speech on Gabrielson's fees," Congressman Hays interrupted, "was that the Cleveland Plain Dealer insinuated that the information was planted on me by the Democratic National Committee.

"Planted!" continued Hays. "Imagine that! Why, the Democratic National Committee didn't have either the brains or initiative to dig it up."

"And while we're on the subject, Mr. President," said the Ohio Congressman, "let's talk about our own national committee. I personally think it's a disgrace to the Democratic party and ought to be reorganized from top to bottom.

"The Republican National Committee is always on its toes providing Republicans in Congress with ammunition against the Democrats, but what has Bill Boyle and his outfit ever done for us? The answer is nothing.

Cocktail Democrats

"The only time the Democratic National Committee staff shows any signs of life is at the cocktail hour."

The President looked surprised, but made no comeback except to say that, while the National Committee had some weaknesses, it wasn't as bad as Hays painted it. He didn't drop the subject of the RFC, however, without a disparaging remark about Senator Fulbright, chief critic of the RFC.

"Everybody knows," remarked the President, "that Fulbright has written letters to the RFC himself in order to get loans for his friends"

When the conversation turned to General MacArthur, Boggs of Louisiana reminded Truman that California's Sam Yorty was the first to commend the President on the House floor for cracking down on the General.

"You know, I served as an officer on MacArthur's staff in the Pacific," observed Yorty, "and I know a lot about him. If anyone under MacArthur had been guilty of the brazen insubordination toward him that MacArthur displayed toward you, that man would have been court-martialed before you could bat an eye."

Acheson Defended

The President strongly defended Secretary of State Acheson, whom he called "the best secretary of state in 50 years." He added that it was not his responsibility to have a popular secretary of state, but one that is smart and able, especially when you have to deal with the Russians.

Truman suggested that, if Acheson's critics had to sit around the table with the Russians and negotiate with them, they would have a far greater respect for Acheson. The President also remarked that he has had "four secretaries of state all with the same policy," apparently meaning that the State Department is following his foreign policy and that the same policy will be followed no matter who is secretary of state.

The President also rehashed his foreign policy from the time he entered the White House, explaining that as a senator he had spent all his time on the Truman Committee investigating war scandals; so when he went into the White House, he had to bone up hurriedly on foreign policy.

Chinese Subterfuge

While the Communists were talking peace at Kaesong, they were shipping steel bridging equipment toward the front—equipment that has no use at the front except for crossing the Han River in anoher Communist drive to retake Seoul.

This is the first heavy bridging equipment that has shown up in North Korea. Shipped into the North Koreah port of Rashin from Russia, it was spotted by the Air Force on four railroad flatcars moving down the East Coast. Air Force planes bombed and strafed the train, succeeded in derailing it, but did not damage the bridging equipment.

A later air patrol, sent to finish the job, couldn't locate the four flatcars. They still may be en route toward the front, and later the Han River.

Consumers' Chance

By MARK SULLIVAN

The controversy in Congress over President Truman's request for continuation of controls and more of them is closely related to next year's Presidential and Congressional elections. But just how will the effect of the controversy work out in the campaign?

In the controversy, the most conspicuous issue was the rollback decreed by Price Controller DiSalle in the price paid farmers for beef cattle. This was strongly supported by the Administration, strongly opposed by farm organizations and by the farm bloc in Congress.

For several reasons this controversy was especially vivid to the great body of the country's consumers. It is true that a rollback in prices to a lower level is an extreme assertion of the power of government, more so than a mere freezing of existing prices. This accounted for some of the opposition in Congress. But the bulk of the opposition was a deference to interest of farmers. This is what consumers saw and were stirred by.

The price of beef is extravagantly high. It is much higher than even the level of artificial "parity prices" which have been brought about for most farm crops by the Department of Agriculture through operation of the price support law The price of beef is indefensible. Yet it was defended, conspicuously and with highly-organized vigor, by farm organizations. It was defended—in the sense that rollback of it was opposed—by farm bloc members of Congress who habitually accord with what farm organizations want.

Consumers Hit Hard

By all this, consumers were made vividly aware of the determination of farm organizations to hold onto advantages farmers have increasingly had during the last several years. At the same time the price of beef has been an especially vivid illustraion of the hardship to which the whole body of consumers generally has been subjected during several years by the government policy of price support of practically all farm products.

Altogether the debate in Congress about the rollback in prices of beef, has made food consumers aware more than ever before, of the conflict between their interest and the interest of farmers as a group. Consumers were made aware also that politically they are a neglected group; that in actions in Congress they do not have weight comparable to that of farmers as a group. This is a familiar fact. Some two years ago (August, 1949) Democratic House Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, speaking about a measure having to do with price support of farm crops, said almost plaintively: "It is about time that somebody in this debate say a few words for a forgotten class in America—the consumer.'

True, individual consumers can write letters to members of Congress and many do. But these do not have the focused force of an organized drive such as was conducted against the rollback in beef by Midwest branches of one of the great national farm organizations. As described by Mr. John W. Ball of the "Washington Post," Grass-roots meetings are being held nightly in small farm communities ... Those present are urged to write their representatives and senators in Washington."

Farm Vote Important

Consumers have an opportunity in next year's election. Ever since the Presidential election of 1948, members of Congress belonging to both parties, and politicians generally, have remembered that President Truman won mainly through carrying mid-west farm states which previously had been strongly Republican. And they remember that Mr. Truman got this vote mainly by a promise that if elected he would bring about increased support of farm crops, partly through provision by the government of storage facilities for crops. That memoy had a large place in the present debate over the rollback in beef.

In the strictly farm states are nearly a hundred seats in the House of Representatives, and fully a hundred more seats are in states in which farmers have sufficient numbers to be decisive in elections. Both parties understand fully that the farm vote is extremely important in next year's election

But how is the voter to find his way in the maze of contradiction which the debate on the beef rollback has included: President Truman and his administration originated it, and this was a contrast with the strong appeal he made for the farm vote in 1948. At the same time in Congress a large number of Democrats, including some leaders, were for ending the rollback.

On the broad matter of price support for farm crops, over the years, consumers would find it hard to draw a line between the two parties Price support of farm crops, like the beef rollback, and like the other controls in the present debate, is pressure politics rather than party politics. Evidently consumers have not learned the art of pressure politics.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Treaty With Japan

No partisan politics should be permitted to interfere with the signing and ratification of the proposed Dulies treaty with Japan. This is a crucial document in the solution of our Asiatic problems. If the United States can have a line of friendly and allied nations, running unbrokenly from Japan to Australia and New Zealand, we should, at any rate, not be in peril of having the West Coast of territorial United States as our first line of defense.

The "Hongkong Standard," on June 27, called attention to the indisputable fact that the Communists did not start the Korean War merely to possess Korea. This newspaper said editorially:

"The attack on South Korea by the Korean Communists, even if it had been successful, would not have been an end in itself. It was obviously the intention of Russia to have all of Korea occupied as a springboard against Japan. The unexpected decision of the United Nations to defend the Republic of Korea by an international force may have upset Moscow's immediate plan of operation, but it has in no way discouraged Moscow from trying to conquer Japan through its satellites."

This same newspaper close to the scene and often expressive of Nationalist Chinese views, further says:

"The conquest of Japan may take either of two forms. The first is an uprising in Japan with the ready response of the Japanese prisoners of war now under Moscow's command and of the Korean and Chinese Communists. This was perhaps the original plan. The other is an open invasion of Japan by the Chinese Communists under the pretext that Peking has been barred from participating in the Japanese peace treaty or under any other pretext which Communist ingenuity may conceive of."

The State Department is pursuing sound policy in going ahead with the Japanese treaty without waiting for Russian approval. That approval would never be forthcoming by ordinary negotiation; it is doubtful whether there will be Russian participation in the San Francisco Conference. For, no matter how you look at it, the restoration of Japan among the nations and its rebuilding as a military base ipso facto weakens the power of Soviet Russia in Asia.

Japan had, prior to its defeat in 1945, a marked infiltration among the Chinese. Some of the most notable followers of Dr. Sun Yat-sen were pro-Japanese in the sense that they feared Russia more than Japan and they favored an "Asia for the Asiatics" movement. Wartime propaganda painted Wang Ching-wei, as a Japanese puppet, but, in the history of the Chinese movement toward liberty and independence, no figure was closer to Sun Yat-sen or more trusted by him. I was associated with Sun Yat-sen for many years and once carried a message from him to like-minded leaders in Japan.

It is impossible to believe that such a poignant relationship established over a period of 30 years has altogether been killed by war. Many of the older Chinese military men studied in Japan or in Japanese schools in China, particularly in Manchuria. The Chinese Communists are aware of this strong Japanese influence and have been liquidating hundreds of thousands of Chinese who have been under either Japanese or American, especially Christian, cultural influences. However, they would have to kill off many millions of Chinese, and at great speed, even to scratch the surface.

Besides, the Korean War has proved to be an almost fatal error from the Chinese Communist standpoint. They did not expect any resistance and certainly not the force of the resistance which first General MacArthur and then General Ridgway produced. Had they succeeded quickly in Korea they would undoubtedly have pushed into Burma and eventually Siam (Thailand). The significance of Burma is rice. If Soviet China could control the rice of Burma and subsequently Siam, it could reduce the hunger in China and even raise the standard of living of the Chinese people. As it is, every private report I have had from China speaks of hunger.

The standard of living of the Chinese is so low that the lessening of the rice supply has always produced revolution. It is internal revolution — what nowadays is called guerilla warfare — that is the real hope for China.

The Japanese have had a long and competent experience at that. A restored and independent Japan must be a great factor in the affairs of China. That country possesses extraordinarily able men, even now.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — What strange goings on in the world of diplomacy! Just a few short weeks ago the United States was rent asunder by the cry that when Britain and France say they want something done or that they want something undone, there must be no offending of our allies.

'Twas argued, too, that if America didn't go along with its allies, the allies wouldn't go along with us, and that we must not "go it alone."

Yet today, as Britain and France protest that they don't want America to get naval or air bases in Spain or have anything to do with the Franco government there, the United States goes ahead anyhow.

From both President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson come the firm policy that says bases in Spain are essential to collective defense and that, notwithstanding the protests of the British and French governments, an agreement will be made with the Franco government.

Going It Alone

Still ringing in the ears of members of Congress are the recent cries that overseas bases are so important that, if we ventured to assert our maximum force in Korea against their protests, we would be alienating our allies and that this would lose us bases in Europe Again and again administration members of the Joint Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees of the Senate hammered those points home as they interrogated witnesses in the MacArthur hearings. Again and again the "yes men" among the administration's witnesses solemnly concurred.

What has happened since? Are we now defying our allies, deserting our allies—and "going it alone"? or has the American government decided to do what it thinks is best for Europe's defense nothwithstanding the "left wing" protests that are powerful enough to stay the hand of the governments in both London and Paris?

For it doesn't make sense to be reading about opposition by Britain and France to military measures designed primarily to help protect them. They could offer the argument on the Far Eastern controversy that all military forces would be needed for Europe's defense and hence must not get bogged down in Asia. In this instance, the object is Europe's defense. So when internal politics now influences the policies of the British and French governments, it is inevitable that the American government, which is supplying the bulk of the money and the bulk of the naval and air power for Europe's defense, should finally decide to protect its own interests with adequate bases.

There is another strange thing about the British viewpoint. In the case of the diplomatic recognition and British sponsorship of Red China for admission into the UN, official spokesmen for Britain said again and again that, after all, ideological considerations are not vital in giving recognition and that the main criterion is whether a government is in military control of its territory. Certainly General Franco and his government have complete control of the territory of all Spain. Franco has been recognized—so why is his aid unwelcome?

As for military-assistance projects, the British-American plan to aid Tito in Yugoslavia brushes aside ideology, too. For he is still a Communist.

Hypocrisy Of Diplomacy

Such inconsistencies merely illustrate the hypocrisy of present-day diplomacy. The spectacle of the governments of Great Britain and France turning down a chance to get a 400,000-man army—as well as valuable bases beyond the Pyrenees, where big airfields can be operated in relative safety, affording a separate approach to Russian territory—is not one that the average American will understand. To the nonpolitical mind which isn't immersed in ideologies or politics, the matter of defenses is a cold-blooded problem of saving lives and building up military strength to prevent a world war.

Plenty will be said here in Congress about the strange behavior of the British and French governments in urging that America send troops to Europe while at the same time declining to make use of Franco's troops. Plenty will be heard about whether it is wise to continue furnishing more and more economic aid to Britain and France under the guise of stopping communism when the aid of the most powerful anti-Communist regime in Southern Europe is spurned.

These are certainly days of strange arguments but it is gratifying that the President and the Secretary of State are not being swayed by the viewpoint of the British Labor government. Who knows—maybe enough firmness will develop here to disregard also the protests of the British and French about a determined policy in the Far East. There may be occasion for this if the "cease fire" parleys turn out to be just a military tactic by the Communists.

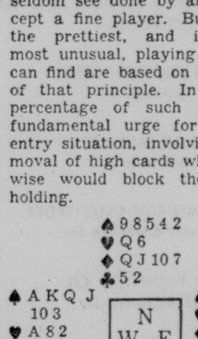
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

GIVE ONE TO GAIN TWO

NONCHALANTLY giving up one trick, in order to gain two or more others, is something you seldom see done by anybody except a fine player. But some of the prettiest, and incidentally most unusual, playing plans you can find are based on application of that principle. In a goodly percentage of such plays, the fundamental urge for it is the entry situation, involving the removal of high cards which otherwise would block the opposite holding.



(Dealer: West. North - South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	Pass
4 ♠

Don't try to call that the best rubber bidding of this deal. Lay it partly to West's desire to score his spade honors. Now, looking at all four hands, what double-dummy play would you give it after North leads the diamond Q? Bet you wouldn't guess what West did.

After ruffing the diamond lead, following low cards from dummy and South, West laid down two top trumps and noted South's club 6 discard, marking North with five trumps. After considering alternative plans, West ran all of his trumps, extracting all of North's. You might do the same, but what would you discard on those spades? West saw fit to toss all three of dummy's clubs. Would you?

As West figured it out, this left him only three losers in his hand, two in hearts and one in clubs. Next he led clubs. It made no difference whether South came in at once with his K or held it up. West was able to discard hearts on diamond leads. Dummy's guarded K was sure to win the fourth round of that suit, and it made no difference to West whether he lost two diamonds or two hearts in addition to his club.

* * *

Your Weekend Question

Do you know the play against a No Trump game whereby the defenders, seeing that the declarer can score two of the first three tricks in their suit, must let him win the first, instead of taking the first and letting him win the next two? Can you set up an example of it?

Kathryn MacMannis Is Bride Of Wilbur E. Ruehl

Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. MacMannis, 6210 Mossway, Baltimore, formerly from here, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Kathryn Engle MacMannis, to Wilbur Ewald Ruehl, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ewald Ruehl, Park Heights.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized June 15 in Second Presbyterian Church, Baltimore, with Rev. Paul C. Warren, D.D., officiating. Mrs. Charles T. Beckwith, Arlington, Va., was matron of honor for her sister; and the bridesmaids were Miss Betty Ruehl, Cumberland, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Ann Reynolds, Cumberland; Mrs. A. J. Owens, Norfolk, Va., Miss Donna Lee Andross, West Hartford, Conn. Harry Merrick, Silver Spring, served as Mr. Ruehl's best man while Joseph Moss, Baltimore, formerly of Ridgeley, W. Va.; Joseph Schapp, Joseph Tydings, Havre de Grace and Wayne Burgemeister, Baltimore, were the ushers.

The bride was attired in a white Chantilly lace gown, fashioned with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, long pointed sleeves and full skirt with long train. A lace cap, decorated with pearls, held her fingertip length veil. She carried a white orchid surrounded by a cascade of white roses.

Her attendants wore light blue, ballerina length nylon marquisette gowns, made with tucked bodice. With them they wore linen shoes to match and headbands matching their cascade bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums, daisies and carnations.

Mrs. MacMannis was attired in a gown of ashes of roses Chantilly lace with a matching headband. She wore a corsage of orchids. Mrs. Ruehl wore a dusty roses Chantilly lace gown with matching hat and had a corsage of gardenias.

The bride is a graduate of Allegany High School and Fairfax Hall Junior College, Waynesboro, Va. The bridegroom graduated from Massanutten Military Academy, Woodstock, Va., and now is a student at the University of Maryland.

Mr. and Mrs. MacMannis entertained with a wedding reception at the Blackstone Apartments, following the ceremony. After which the couple left for a wedding trip to the Poconoe Mountains. The bride's traveling costume was a black pique suit trimmed in white. With it she wore white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruehl are now residing at College Park.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Weisgerber, twin daughters, Marlyn and Carolyn, and another daughter, Anna Marie, Delphos, Ohio, accompanied by Donald Grethouse, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Bloss and daughter, Carol Long, Mexico Farms Road. Carol will accompany them to Ohio next week.

Mrs. Genevieve Wagoner, 808 Greene Street, has returned home after being a patient in Allegany Hospital.

Mrs. Leo C. Cameron, 323 Maryland Avenue has returned home after visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. William P. Cumisky, Ramey Air Force Base, Puerto Rico. Mrs. Cameron was accompanied by her daughter, Wanda Lee.

Mrs. Martha S. Keller, 108 Elder Street, has returned home, after undergoing a thyroid operation in Memorial Hospital.

Circuit Has Reception For Pastor

The congregation of the Oldtown Methodist Circuit entertained with a reception for Rev. William Anderson, the new pastor, and his family. The circuit includes the Olivers Grove, Mt. Tabor, Paradise, Mt. Olive and Oldtown churches. The party was held at the Oldtown parsonage, Thursday evening.

Rev. Anderson, originally from Cumberland, was employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, before becoming a minister.

A welcome was extended by Ralph Buser of the Paradise church. Merle Reckley, Mt. Tabor, led in prayer and a musical program was presented with Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Lenora Taschenberger and Mrs. Sue Ginevan playing the piano. The congregation of each church sang a hymn as its contribution to the program. Solos included, "Beautiful Savious' and "I Never Walk Alone," by Miss Marian Davis; "Danny Boy," Marian and Elaine Twigg; and "It Is No Secret," Roger Anderson.

Concluding the evening refreshments were served in the form of a covered dish luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Elbin and daughters, Kingsville, Texas, and Mrs. Herman Ball, Hyattsville, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Triplett, 112 Greene Street.

Outsiders Win Four Races At Fairgo, Beach Admiral Pays Off At $45.40

Downs Tops Riders, Williams Set Down, $190,101 Wagered

Outsiders grabbed the spotlight at Fairgo yesterday by winning four of the eight events for payoffs ranging from $45.40 to $19, as a crowd of 4,300 persons wagered $190,101 to soar the four-day mutuel handle to $722,747.

Fast Feather started the long shots rolling by grabbing off the opener. The F. R. Boone mare beat Tiz Tiz It, owned by Enoch P. Price of Frostburg, by a nose and returned the nice mutuel of $24.80 for each $2 straight investment. Hot Wire finished third and Hal's Play, the favorite, owned by Louis Waingold of Cumberland, finished in 6th place.

Beach Admiral Pays Best

The longest shot af the day registered in the fourth when A. T. Taylor's Beach Admiral with Mike Sorrentino up, defeated Hi-Barry and Charan which were coupled in the betting as the Lee-Ford entry. The payoff on the Admiral was $45.40, $15. and $7.20.

In the fifth event, J. Eversole piloted Four West to a 10 lengths' victory over Sporting Final, the favorite, over the muddy route of 1 1/16 miles and again the form players took a beating. Backers of Four West received $27.80, $11. and $5.20.

Always Late Is Not

Always Late, owned by L. A. Borowy and ridden by H. McKinney, was on time in the 8th and again the long shot players profited—to the tune of $19 for each $2 played on the nose of the winner. Hiya Pop was second and Penny Hill, third.

Chalk players got a chance to cheer in three races yesterday when Dutel captured the third at $6.60, Indian Ballard romped home first in the 6th at $6.20 and Havey B. beat One Up and Tomke to grab off the major portion of the purse in the seventh. The J. G. Cremen gelding returned $6.40 for $2.

Swing High, third choice in the wagering, annexed the second event on the card and coupled with Fast Feather for a winning daily double combination of 2-2 and a payoff of $127.80, the second best double price of the meeting.

Williams Is Suspended

The stewards announced that Jockey Richard Williams has been suspended for the remainder of the Cumberland meeting and for 10 additional days. Williams is charged with deliberately fouling in Thursday's 8th race in which he rode Glacial Run into second money. Williams, incidentally, was leading the race for the jockey's prize prior to yesterday's program.

J. Eversole rode two winners yesterday—Four West and Indian Ballad—but Willie Downs forged into first place with 36 points closely pursued by Mike Correntino with 35. Don Yates continues to set the pace for the trainers with 16 points but Mrs. G. A. Saportas, Jr., jumped into second place and now trails by a single point.

Yesterday's $190,101 mutuel handle was $33,560 above the amount bet on the 4th day of the 1950 meet. The four-day total for the current session tops the corresponding days last year by $100,392.

White Race Is Feature

The eighth renewal of the Clifton W. White, named in honor of the former president and general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association, is the 6th event on today's card at Fairgo. Post time for the first race is 2:30 p. m., E.D.T.

Walcott Given Big Reception On Return Home

Champ Gets Rousing Welcome At Camden

CAMDEN, N. J., July 20 (AP) — Jersey Joe Walcott brought the heavyweight boxing championship of the world home to Camden tonight amidst the greatest reception the city ever accorded a native son.

Joe Walcott

A smiling Walcott, his hands clasped over his head in sign of victory, stepped off a two-engine plane at Camden Airport at 4:15 p. m. E.S.T., to the sands of his fellow Camdenites. The crowd, estimated by Camden Police Chief Gustav Koener at more than 5,000 surged through police ropes and surrounded the plane.

"Welcome home, champ," the crowd chanted as Jersey Joe posed for a battery of news photographers and film cameramen. Following Walcott from the plane were his manager, Felix Bocchicchio, Trainer Dan Florio, second Arnold Herman, and press representative Jim McCullough.

The plane, which brought Walcott and his party home from Pittsburgh where he won the heavyweight championship Wednesday night by knocking Ezzard Charles out in 55 seconds of the seventh round, had been loaned to the group by Thomas E. Millsop, vice president of the National Steel Corporation.

E. George Aaron, director of public safety, said at least 100,000 persons lined the streets to watch the motorcade from the airport to city hall.

After police were able to clear a path through the coverging crowd, Walcott managed to reach his wife, Lydia, and six children who had been anxiously awaiting his arrival for some 20 minutes.

The happy champion embraced his wife and did a little dance as the two boys tried to shake his hand and the four girls attempted to kiss him—all at once.

The Walcott family—Arnold, Jr 17; Vince, 11; Ruth, 12; Doris, 14; Elva, 15, and Carol, six — was brought to the airport in a green convertible Cadillac, as part of an 11-car motorcade escorted by motorcycle police.

Waiting on the airport lawn before Jersey Joe's arrival, Mrs. Walcott said she certainly was happy about her husband winning the championship but, "I'd sometimes rather he'd be a champ at something else. I don't like boxing."

Teal Is Leader In Golf Tourney

Holds 3-Stroke Edge With Score Of 134

MILWAUKEE, July 20 (AP)—Glenn Teal, Knoxville, Tenn., pro, fired his second straight four-under-par 67 today to take over the unchallenged lead at the halfway point of the Blue Ribbon Open Golf tournament.

Teal wound up after 36 holes with an eight under 134, three strokes ahead of his nearest rival. A brisk 32 coming in today, four under the scorecard, produced his second successive sub-par round on the par 35-36—71 North Hills Country Club course.

Trailing the Tennessean, three strokes back, were Julius Boros, Mid-Pines, N. C.; Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif.; and Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., with 137.

The low 90 scorers at the end of today's round advance tomorrow into the second half of the $20,000 meet, third richest in the nation this year.

Teal, Snead and two others—Ed Oliver, Wilmington, Del., and Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex.—had shared the top spot jointly when play opened today on the 6,257 yard course. Oliver and Hawkins slipped to 75s today for 142 totals. Snead wound up with a 70, going one over par on the back nine after being two under at the turn.

The two leading money-winners of the tournament circuit at this point, Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, were four strokes off Teal's pace with 138. Tied with them were Joe Kirkwood, Jr., Hollywood; George Fazio, Pine Valley, N. J., and Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill.

Times-News tossers defeated the Exchange Club in a ten-inning Hot Stove League battle last night at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 5-4, but the game was played under protest filed by Manager Ernest Killingsworth.

The Exchange Club pilot charged that Bittner, whose hit won the game, stepped across the plate and hit the ball when the sign was on to give him an intentional pass. Killingsworth also charged that the umpire restricted Catcher G. Smith from stepping aside to catch the ball on the intentional pass.

In the 10th, Lynn walked, stole second and third and raced home with the winning run after two out when Bittner reached across the plate and hit the ball over the centerfielder's head.

FAIRGO NOTES

By C. V. BURNS

Walter Haight, racing expert of the Washington Post, was in a reminiscent mood the other afternoon and recalled the days when vaudeville acts were staged during intermission between the races at Fairgo.

Jennings Randolph

Haight still gets a chuckle over the time Rep. Jennings Randolph of the second West Virginia District, was introduced over the loudspeaker as "William Jennings Bryan."

Several years later, Haight was writing about the Cumberland track and he called Randolph, who was still in Congress, to tell him that he would like to use the Bryan yarn in his column if it was O. K. with him.

Randolph told Haight that he would not object but he would like the writer to get the score straight.

"They didn't introduce me as William Jennings Bryan once," the Congressman shouted. "Believe it, or not, they pulled the same boner again last year!"

CHICAGO, July 20 (AP)—The sixth place Washington Senators tonight ruined the chances of the Chicago White Sox to bound into undisputed first place in the American League by defeating them 2-1 in 10 innings.

Jenkins Cracks 22 Land Speed Marks In Utah

3,000 See Veteran End Colorful Career

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, July 20 (AP)—Ab Jenkins, the old master racer, smashed 22 land speed records today before smoke and fumes drove him from the cockpit of his huge car.

The disabled Mormon Meteor III ground to a stop just three minutes away from a new one hour record, ending a long and colorful racing career for the former Salt Lake City mayor.

Disappointed, Jenkins crawled from the cockpit and reiterated that this was his last race:

"At 68, I've outworn the car," Jenkins said.

Last Race, Wife Says

"He's never going to race again," she declared.

Jenkins set out today to break 40 American and world records over the vast, crusty salt flats where he first started racing nearly 20 years ago.

When he finished, he had set five world unlimited records, six American unlimited records, five international Class A records and six American Class A records.

The quiet spoken, silver haired dean of America's speed car drivers was running at 141 miles per hour when he was forced to stop. He then jumped from the two and one half ton machine to escape injury.

At the time, he was on his 14th lap, only one half lap away on the 12 mile circular course from the one hour record.

The Meteor apparently ran over a wood marker on the edge of the course. A hose broke and the radiator water started to leak. The temperature rose to 300 degrees. Jenkins, blinded by smoke and fumes, veered from the course and pulled to a stop.

He said it would be a "tremendous job" to recondition the vehicle.

Jenkins, holder of many safety awards for his driving, set a new 100 mile record in the world's unlimited division of 190.6 mph. This was about six miles per hour better than his old mark.

3,000 Watch Farewell

Jenkins already held all existing records from 25 miles up to 24 hours. Only last Labor Day he came out of retirement to smash 34 of his marks set 10 years earlier.

Pennsy Woman Shooter Ties Harry Barton For High Gun

Shirley Orndoff Hits 97 At Ridgeley; State Events To Open Today

Miss Shirley Orndorff of Connellsville, Pa., and Harry J. Barton, Pinto dairyman and sportsman, shattered 97 out of a possible 100 16-yard targets to tie for high gun in the warm-up shoot preceding the 31st West Virginia State Trapshooting Tournament yesterday at the traps of the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club.

Three gunners tied for third place, namely, Calvin Collis, Bunker Hill, W. Va.; Tony Francis, Westernport, and Dr. B. R. Kinter, Bluefield, W. Va., with scores of 96.

Lawrence Stefl, Uniontown, Pa., won the handicap event by breaking 49 out of 50 from the 18 yard line. Orville Eberly, also of Uniontown, was the runner-up with 48 from 22 yards.

Richard Hornick, Johnstown, Pa., hit 46 out of 25 pairs to capture first place in the doubles. Eberly was second with 45.

Ray Loring, of Vandalia, Ohio, president of the Amateur Trapshooting Association, and Mrs. Loring are here to cashier the West Virginia state events which get under way today and end on Sunday. The Handicap and doubles championships will be decided today with the program scheduled to start at 10 a. m. Tomorrow the men's and women's singles and all-around champions will be determined. Midland Post nosed out Fort Cumberland Post in a Mountain District, American Legion Junior Baseball League contest yesterday at Community Park by the score of 6-5.

The home team spotted Midland five runs in the first two frames then knotted the count by the fifth by registering five runs on four hits, including "Chuck" Eirich's two-run double, and two walks.

A hit and two errors in the top of the seventh gave Midland the winning run.

Highlighting the contest was the fielding of Richards and Williams, Midland infielders, who turned in several nice plays.

Lefty Arnone went the route for Midland, yielding five hits and fanning 10. Harry McFarland held Midland to six safties and struck out five.

Savitt And Flam Defeat Japanese

U. S. Takes 2-0 Lead In Davis Cup Series

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 20 (AP) — Davis Club fledglings Dick Savitt and Herbie Flam swept over Japanese opponents without the loss of a set today to give the United States a 2-0 lead in the first round of the American Zone tennis eliminations.

Savitt, the big-dark-haired lad from Orange, N. J., who recently won the Wimbledon championship, fought off five set points in the opening series to subdue Fumiteru Nakano, Japan's little international veteran, 7-5, 6-3, 6-2.

Then Flam, Los Angeles' tireless retriever who holds the nation's No. 2 ranking, staged two stout rallies to conquer the Nipponese top-ranked player, Jiro Kumamaru, 7-5, 6-0, 7-5.

The matches — featuring Japan's first Davis Cup competition in 13 years and the first international meeting with the Americans since 1921 — were staged under a warm sun that bathed a crowd of 1,500 at the exclusive Louisville Club.

Thus America's young cup forces moved into a position to clinch the first round victory in tomorrow's doubles, starting at 2:30 p. m. (EST).

The Japanese have little hopes of upsetting Uncle Sam's crack tandem of Billy Talbert of New York and Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, a hard-smashing, sharp-volleying pair unbeaten in 16 matches over two years.

Against this team the Japs will send Nakano and Goro Fujikura, a bespectacled left-hander from Tokyo. The final two singles matches, reversing today's lineup, are scheduled Sunday.

Walcott Is 37

CAMDEN, N. J., July 20 (AP)—How old is heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott?

Records of the Camden County Bureau of Vital Statistics provided an official answer today: 37.

Jersey Joe, who knocked out Ezzard Charles in Pittsburgh Wednesday night to win the title has been a boxer for at least 20 years.

The birth certificate on file shows that Arnold Raymond Cream (Jersey Joe's correct name; he long ago adopted Joe Walcott as his ring name) was born in nearby Pennsauken Township January 31, 1914.

LEAD JOCKEYS' RACE—Willie Downs, of Baltimore (left) and Mike Sorrentino of the Bronx, N. Y., are running one-two in the race for the gold wrist watch Harvey's Jewelry Store is offering to the leading rider of the 10-day race meeting at Fairgo. At the close of yesterday's program Downs had a 4-4-4 record and 36 points. Right on his heels, however, was Sorrentino with 4-4-3 and 35 markers. Jimmie Baird was the winner of the prize in 1950. He's not at the present meet.

Cats can see better in the dusk than a human being because cats' eyes are sensitive to ultra-violet rays and their pupils are capable of greater expansion, thus letting more light in.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Harvey E. Devore and Thelma Lorraine Devore, his wife, vs. Catherine Leota Devore Sullivan, Alice Lee Devore and Jean Louise Sullivan and William Sullivan, No. 22264 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the adoption of Jean Louise Sullivan by Harvey E. Devore and Thelma Lorraine Devore, his wife.

The Bill recites that the said Jean Louise Sullivan is the daughter of William Sullivan and Catherine Leota Devore Sullivan. That the said William Sullivan is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, his whereabouts being unknown. That Catherine Leota Devore Sullivan, has signed a consent to the adoption of said minor child. That Harvey E. Devore is the Grandfather of said minor child and Thelma Lorraine Devore is the step grandmother of said child.

It is thereupon ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, this 29th day of June 1951, that the Plaintiffs, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some daily newspaper published in Allegany County Maryland, once a week for four successive weeks, before the 1st day of August, 1951, give notice to the said William Sullivan of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor on or before the 18th day of August 1951, and show cause, if any he may have, why the relief prayed herein by the plaintiffs should not be granted as prayed.

WINNER—Owned by F. R. Boone, trained by J. L. Twigg.
FAST FEATHER raced under restraint, moved up boldly entering homestretch and under a hard ride just got up. TIZ TIZ IT set the pace under hustling tactics came up at the top of the homestretch and just failed to last. HOT WIRE far back in the early stages, circled his field and closed resolutely. BRIARBROOM was in the thick of contention early but weakened when called upon. The others were out matched.

SECOND RACE—6½ furlongs. PURSE—$900—625-125-100-50. 4 and up, claiming, all $1,000. HANDLE—$17,066. DD—$19,332.

SWING HIGH showed good ability over the track. Assumed clear lead down the backstretch but weakened slightly and had to be hard driven to stave off the challenge of BEETLEBOMB down the stretch. Latter worked his way up gradually moved towards outside in stretch and was wearing the winner down with each stride. HAWKWOOD ARESS well up throughout, made a strong bid turning into the homestretch but weakened. GOLDEN PLUM was under a strong pull early stages but failed to respond to strong urging. LUCKY LINDA quit after going a half mile.

DAILY DOUBLE—Fast Feather (2) and Swing High (2) paid $127.80.

WINNER—Owned by Mrs. W. B. Dietrich, trained by S. Greene, Jr.
DUTEL ran as though much the best. Assumed a clear lead soon after the start and won with plenty in reserve. VALDINA CLOWN moved through on the inside made a game effort down the back stretch but was no match for the winner. BRAVE LEONA worked her way up gradually and closed well in the final half mile. GOLDIES FUN turned in a good performance. HIGH NOTE on the outside throughout failed to make up any ground in a poor effort. MERRY NYMPH turned in a dull effort.

FOURTH RACE—About 5 furlongs. PURSE—$1,000—700-150-100-50. 2 yr. olds, claiming, $3,000 to $2,500. HANDLE—$22,382.

WINNER—Owned by A. T. Taylor, trained by Mrs. G. A. Saportas, Jr.
BEACH ADMIRAL was much the best. Took clear lead at the start, went extremely wide entering stretch but was quickly straightened out and won under clever handling. HI-BARRY moved between horses down the back stretch and made up ground at the end. CHARAN was well up throughout and had no excuses. SPEEDY DUST weakened after showing good speed for two furlongs. GLITTER BIT made a strong challenge along inside in the stretch but was well beaten off. THRONE and SAPLING failed to display any speed in the going.

WINNER—Owned by H. Meyers, trained by W. F. Parks.
FOUR WEST far back in early stages, moved through on the inside after going six furlongs, opened up a long lead entering stretch and won easily. SPORTING FINAL displaced SEA LEVEL for command after going half mile but could not menace the winner. SEA LEVEL took command at the start, but weakened badly when called upon. BUSY BONES made a strong challenge but flattened out turning into the homestretch. VIOLATION failed to display any speed during the running.

SIXTH RACE—About 5 furlongs. PURSE—$1,100—750-200-100-50. 3 yr. olds, claiming, $1,750 to $1,500. HANDLE—$25,378.

Group Singing Is Led At Piedmont By Seaman

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — A band concert by the junior band, sponsored by the Potomac Fire Company, Westernport, directed by Charles Ducas, and a talent program featured the official opening of the Piedmont Playground on the high school grounds Thursday evening.

The program announced by Edward Seaman, a member of the Piedmont High School faculty, included a cowboy song and yodle by Arbutus Taylor; clarinet solo, Jerry Harrison; song and dance, Betty Lee Dixon; solo, Tommy Kooken; vocal solo, Bonnie Kooken; band selection; song and dance, Becky and Carolyn Harshbarger; accordion solo, George Matthews; song and dance, Sue Nofsinger; cornet solo, Bobby Broadwater; vocal duet, Sue Nofsinger and Bonnie Kooken.

Group singing was led by Seaman. Harold Marsh, co-director of the playgrounds, sponsored by the Tri-Towns Recreation Association, outlined the programs being carried out each week on the various playgrounds and appealed for more volunteer help.

Members of the Piedmont City Council attended and Mervin High, a city councilman, made brief remarks.

The program closed with the band playing the grand march, with many persons participating. Following was an announcement by "Smoky" Householder of Keyser, thanking those who helped Keyser in the recent program at one of their playgrounds'. The program ended with the band playing the National Anthem.

Mt. Savage Marine Receives Award For Heroism In Korea

MT. SAVAGE.—Marine First Lt. Howard G. Blank, son of Walter F. Blank, Mt. Savage, received a letter of commendation ribbon with combat "V" at Parris Island, S. C. recently for heroism in Korea.

The Mt. Savage marine received the decoration at special ceremonies from Major Gen. Robert H. Pepper, commanding general of the Recruit Depot at Parris Island.

Lieutenant Blank was cited for his actions from November 27 to December 12 while serving as a mortar section leader in Korea. His commendation pointed out that, regardless of danger, he continually exposed himself to enemy fire to deploy his section in the most advantageous position for accurate, effective fire.

The marine officer came into the corps in December, 1942, and was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Reserve January 1, 1945. After two years on inactive duty following World War II, Lieutenant Blank was appointed a regular marine officer and has been on active duty since June of 1948.

The Korean veteran is now serving as a company officer for a class of platoon leaders taking their primary training leading up to a commission for themselves.

Concrete Work On Keyser Span Almost Complete

Parkersburg Fire Delays Steel

KEYSER, W. Va.—The last stretch of concrete for the deck of the new Potomac River Bridge from Keyser to McCoole was poured about noon Friday.

Superintendent Henry Dye, in charge of the present contract work, said that through the rest of the day, concrete was poured for that portion of the sidewalks that have not been completed over the river and through to the McCoole section. He said also, that he expects to have additional information on the metal for the bridge railings by Monday.

There was some fear that a part of the railing material had been seriously damaged in the fire that spread through the plant in Parkersburg last Sunday night, where the rails and upright portions of the railing was being fabricated. He will visit the plant over the weekend to get additional information.

If a great amount of the metal parts was destroyed there might be a long delay in completing the bridge, but there is hope that some of the metal may be available.

With all concrete poured for the deck, only the two inch surfacing of the deck with black top remains for that part of the bridge. Concrete posts are to be placed on the sidewalk edge for supports for the fencing and the pouring of concrete for the sidewalks. Painting of the structure will probably be the last of the operations on the bridge.

The English artist G. F. Watts did not sell his paintings. He gave them to the nation.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 20—(INS)—As good as Loretta Young is in comedy—and there are few actresses who are better—she's still going to have to stick to the straight and narrow path—and no nonsense. Her picture, "Half Angel," brought on an avalanche of criticism from her fans. They didn't like their Loretta in this sort of thing.

Loretta Young

So, I am sure it's good news to her many admirers that Loretta goes to Columbia to star in "The Mother," for Harry Cohn. With that title it couldn't be anything but a sweet, sentimental story.

Larry Marcus, who wrote "Cause For Alarm" for Loretta, is the author of "The Mother," an original. Buddy Adler is set to produce, and Rudy Mate to direct her. You may remember that "Cause For Alarm" rated rave reviews from the highbrow critics—most of whom would have given Loretta an academy nomination if they had had their way.

When Jean Peters joined 20th Century-Fox, there was quite a fanfare and much talk about her. Then for some reason we heard little about her and she seemed to be lost amidst all the other glamor girls on that lot.

Now again we're hearing about Jean. After she finishes "Viva Zapata" she'll have the top role in "Wait Till The Sun Shines, Nellie" opposite David Wayne. This is the story that takes place in a small town over a span of sixty years and Jean plays her own grandmother—if you know what I mean.

Henry King, who directs only the biggest, and George Jessel, who produces only the best musicals, are the team elected to bring this to the screen. It starts August 13.

If it hadn't been sheer music to their ears, the Paramount bosses might have been embarrassed at the way Dixie Crosby was bent double with loud laughter at the preview of "Here Comes The Groom."

When she came out, Dixie said she thought it was the funniest picture Bing has ever made—and Der Bingle has always said she is his No. 1 critic (Editorial comment! I agree with Dixie — it's such a funny comedy.)

The end of the week, Dixie and Gary just recovering from an operation) leave for Lake Tahoe and then Hayden Lake, joining Bing and the other boys at the latter spot.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Mrs. Dean Martin has given up the road tour with Dean. It was too strenuous so she's coming home to stay until after her baby is born.

I suppose I should feel flattered. A French movie columnist writing for the Cinemonde, by-lines his movie column, Louella Tout Le Monde—meaning, Louella Everybody.

What does this mean? Farley Granger has been dating Janet Thompson, Los Angeles socialite who was recently presented at court. Farley and the young lady have been at Mocambo several times.

Bill Bendix planes out July 26 to do "Detective Story" in Norwich, Connecticut.

During the flood Mary Carlyle and her baby were in Kansas City visiting her husband, Jimmy Blakely, who was making a government film there. Mary and the children got out of the hotel only to discover she had left her jewels. Jimmy went back to get them and was stuck on a fire escape for twelve hours.

Jon (Cosmopolitan) Whitcomb and Steve Dohannos are giving a party in Westport in honor of Claudette Colbert—not Colbert the star, but Colbert the painter, the artist.

If you think Tony Curtis' marriage to Janet Leigh has hurt his popularity with the femmes listen to this. His fan mail has jumped to 1500 letters a week.

Lucille Rymer and John Carroll were at the King's for a business confab with George Distel, the owner. The Carrols have bought a ranch and they're going to raise beef, and Distel is a customer.

Charles Bennett writes me from Cuernavaca, Mexico, to say he and Betty have not broken up and there's been no suggestion of it. That I'm glad to hear. He says "Madness Of The Heart," a Margaret Lockwood picture which he wrote two years ago, is a smash hit in Mexico.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Florida Governor Refuses To Testify

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — The Senate Crime Committee has dropped its efforts to question Gov. Fuller Warren of Florida about crime in his state.

It said "he refuses to testify under oath'—the committee statement underlined the words "under oath'—and that it did not want to hear from him otherwise.

Chairman O'Conor (D-Md) of the committee said the Governor has turned down all opportunities to testify on committee statements that organized criminal operations have been tolerated by law enforcement authorities responsible to the Governor.

It is not good form to accept an invitation to a card game if you cannot play the game.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Should you resent having someone forget you?

Answer: It is certainly not flattering to have someone whom you met and talked with at an evening party show no sign of recognizing you on the street next day. But the "slur" may be less serious than you think. The person may be short-sighted, or you yourself may look some different than you realized in street clothes. At best, you rarely are as important to your neighbors or make as profound an impression on them as you would like, and the more self-centered any other person is, the truer this will be. It is the other fellow's self-absorption, not anything wrong with you, that is most apt to make him (or her) forget you.

Has your child a right to dislike you?

Answer: Yes, says P. M. Freeston in the English magazine, Childhood. "The angry child has a point of view," which he cannot help holding for the moment, and there is no use in trying to deny it, or blaming or punishing him for it. As he sees the situation, it is: "I want this. Mummy can give it to me. She doesn't. Therefore she is unkind." He sees things this way because he lives not only one day, but one moment at a time, so that at a given moment all that you did for him yesterday—or ten minutes ago—has vanished from his conscious mind. He will acquire memory and "perspective" by degrees as he grows older.

Have your worries a real basis?

Answer: You can probably "prove" they have to your own satisfaction, yet their unreal sources almost certainly outweigh the real ones. For just as it is unconscious impulses that make you worry in the first place, so you select certain things to worry about because of the unconscious "meaning" they have for you. The extent to which you worry about going broke, for instance, depends much less upon the actual chances of your doing so than on such unconscious feelings as that you do not deserve to have money. To cut down your worrying, face the worst of any given danger involved and realize that you could live through it.

Lemon squash is the term used in England for lemonade.

By BOB CONSIDINE

LONDON—(INS)—If you plan to come to England this summer, don't let anyone talk you out of taking in the festival. It's a first class show—not as overwhelming as were the fairs of New York, San Francisco and Chicago before the war, but worth your time and shillings.

The festival's focal points are on the south bank of the Thames at London, where the bulk of the exhibits are handsomely based on land once corroded by poverty and Nazi bombing, and at Battersea, a bit up the river, where a tame amusement park named "Pleasure Gardens" has been built.

But unlike our remembered fairs and expositions, England's festival is nation-wide. Every city and nearly every hamlet is celebrating its contribution to British life with a show of some sort. You can't get very far away from the festival in England this year. It's broad scale ranges from the manuscripts and cottage at Stratford-On-Avon to the obscure likes of a wizard little stamp and pewter exhibit at High Uppington, Middlesex.

This spreading of what we usually consider an activity which normally must be concentrated has enabled the British to add such "exhibits" as Buckingham Palace, Parliament, The Tower, Westminster, Big Ben and the like—all superbly lighted each evening of what has been a surprisingly temperate London summer.

One would have to be a pretty determined anglophobe to fail to be touched by the British outlook on their festival. This is, with the exception of the short-lived Olympic games in 1948, the only touch of color this rationed and taxburdened land has had in more than a dozen years.

The fact that the South Bank Exposition has risen from festering slum and blasted brick is considered symbolic of the entire country's struggle to get back on its feet. The British are justly proud that no American money was needed to stage the festival; proud, too, of the fact that Britain was the first voluntarily to give up Marshall Plan aid; proud of the way the RAF is paying half the cost of making the Anglo-American airbases of England the strongest in the world.

Fun-seekers among the U. S. visitors will find the Pleasure Gardens about as flat as British beer, though there is one horrifying "ride" which flattens its customers against the interior of a large vat, in grotesque positions, by means of centrifugal force. Sufferers from heart trouble please omit.

The South Bank exhibits, especially those housed under the largest dome ever constructed, place a rather heavy strain on pilgrims who do not have university degrees in chemistry, engineering, archaeology, meteorology, zoology, physics and the like. As one who never finished high school, I had to be led by the hand. But what one of Sir Alexander Maxwell's men explained to me was impressive.

There is a "modern housing" exhibit which has attracted enormous crowds of wistful people, come to stare at such futuristic devices as central heating, refrigerators, deep freezes, venetian blinds and other things we take for granted. An exhibit of hens and cows at work is a smash success, too. As is a garbage dis-pos-al.

But the longest queues are drawn by the telecinema, a 400-seat theater which may be the prototype of larger temples of our own. Its program is made up of full-screen television, clear as crystal, and breathtaking, if still primitive, three-dimensional films and cartoons.

A good show and a good-natured one. In the colorful "Lion and Unicorn" building (the Lion symbolizes strength and the Unicorn legend and tradition) there is an exhibit of English language newspapers from all over the world—and a fun-poking caption which reads:

"English is understood almost everywhere . . . and the English almost nowhere."

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Our Tragic Sense Of Smell

I was lying in bed the other day singing that old folk song "Dream Girl, Dream Girl, Beautiful Lustre Cream Girl" and reading NBC's new code of practices for radio and television when I fell upon a paragraph which arrested the song just before that poignant line, "You owe your crowning glory to—Lustre Cream Shampoo.".

John Crosby

"Intimately personal products which are not acceptable conversational topics in mixed social groups; laxatives and deodorants are not accepted unless the program and commercial presentation are handled in accordance with the highest standards of good taste and business ethics," says NBC in this paragraph.

• — • — •

I don't fully understand this paragraph. You mean, NBC, deodorants are not acceptable conversational topics? They are in our house. We never get over discussing the romances blighted because the girls weren't half safe. Frankly, I never thought any girl was half safe or even one quarter safe; I consider them dangerous no matter what you drench them with, but that's neither here nor there.

Anyhow, that side of the story—the fact that the course of true love is largely dependent on what deodorant a girl uses—is well known. But there is another side of the story, NBC, and this one had better be suppressed over the air too. This one is the story of a friend of mine, name of Halligan, whose life was ruined, not because he didn't read the deodorant ads and take heed, but because he did.

Halligan was on the verge of marrying one of those horse-loving girls who never get more than a brief canter from the stables. Naturally, she was a little gamey and Halligan, I think, might have endured this with equanamity but for the deodorant ads. He was overeducated in this respect, reading all of them and listening to them carefully on the air. Finally, he did what he thought was the proper thing for any normal, red-blooded, full-nostrilled American. He broke it off, as he had been carefully instructed to do.

Well, sir, it was just the other day this girl inherited $20,000,000. Halligan's heart, which had survived the loss of the girl without serious damage, was broken right in half by the loss of the $20,000,000. He has, to put it mildly, lost faith in the deodorant people. In fact, if he ever meets one on the street, the deodorant man better take cover if he wants to be anywhere near half safe.

Last time I saw Halligan, he was brooding darkly over a glass of beer, muttering: "For 20,000,000 fish a man could have his nose operated on or maybe even cuf it off."

As far as television is concerned, my sympathies are on the side of the deodorant mob. They've had a terrible time trying to mix what NBC calls "the highest standards of good taste" with a reasonable approximation of coherence. There is one TV commercial, for example, which shows three witches—lovely sleek, well-groomed girls, but witches, nevertheless—their eyes alight with scandal, whispering to one another: "Mary lost her man because of that. Because of that! Because of that!" Because of what? Her brother's an embezzler? She's got maybe two heads? Speak up, man.

• — • — •

The most abstract of them all, a commercial which is almost as pure an art form as music in that it's hard to explain by anything so mundane as words, is one where a robed woman—half in the light, half in shadow—goes down a gloomy corridor as doors close on either side of her.

Pure mysticism, that one. My explanation is that this girl is half woman, half elf and she isn't welcome either in the world of people or the world of elves because neither world can see her, touch her or—the most sinister tragedy of all—smell her.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

School For Area Firemen Planned At LaVale Hall

A ten-week training school to qualify area firemen as instructors will get underway August 23 at the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department Hall.

Plans for the course were discussed last night at a meeting attended by Robert Byrus, new director of the Fire Service Extension Service of the University of Maryland, College Park. He is formerly of Iowa.

William A. Wilson, Midland, treasurer of the Maryland State Firemen's Association, said three-hour classes will be held every Thursday night. The minimum number of registrants is ten.

The training program, Wilson added, has been set for firemen in Allegany and Garrett counties. It is one of six to be conducted throughout the state for instructor aspirants.

Various district fire companies were represented at the meeting and methods to improve training were outlined. The Cumberland delegation included Fire Chief Jeremiah T. Defibaugh, Assistant Chiefs Robert C. Long and Virgil A. Parker and H. Clifford Spiker.

Today, four officials of the state association will leave for Baltimore to attend the organization's first executive meeting of the year. They are Cromwell C. Zembower, LaVale, state president; John S. Pritchard, Grantsville, member of the board of trustees; Homer Ambrose, McCoole, member of the state fire prevention committee, and Wilson.

Durocher Will Stay As Giants Manager

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—Leo Durocher signed a one-year contract today to continue as manager of the New York Giants through the 1952 season.

No terms were announced but both Durocher, who came to the Giants from Brooklyn in July of 1948, and owner Horace Stoneham said they were "mutually satisfied." Guesses as to the salary were in the neighborhood of $50,000.

Name Coach Today

PITTSBURGH, July 20 (AP)—The University of Pittsburgh said today a new head football coach to succeed Len Casanova will be named at 9 a. m. (EST) press conference tomorrow.

Speculation immediately rose that it would be Lowell P. (Red) Dawson, now assistant coach at Michigan State College. Neither university officials nor Dawson would confirm this report.

To Undergo Operation

PHILADELPHIA, July 20—(AP)—Ed Burtschy, Philadelphia Athletics' right hand pitcher will be operated on Monday in Union Hospital, Baltimore, for removal of bone chips from his right elbow.

Arthur Ehlers, club general manager, said the doctor predicted Burtschy's pitching arm would be as good as new after the chips were removed.

Grid Loop Quits

PATTERSON, N. J., July 20 (AP)—The American Football League, oldest professional minor league in the nation, will not operate in 1951, it was announced tonight.

Joseph Rosentover, AFL commissioner, said the decision was "due to many factors, the most important of which is the critical manpower situation at present."

Rosentover, who headed the league since its inception in 1935, said the league will be back in competition in 1952 unless "unforseen obstacles develop."

Dodgers And Braves Win In Little Loop

The Athletics scored their 7th consecutive victory over the Giants, 16-2, the Braves whipped the Indians, 9-1, and the Dodgers trimmed the Tigers, 8-1, in Little League games played yesterday.

Page, Pope and Farrell hit homers in the Athletics' victory. Manager Charley Hornbrook sent 12 players into the game and the A's were credited with executing their first double play of the season in the third inning when Hedrick speared a fly ball in left and doubled a runner off second.

McCullough, Hedrick and Smith, Athletics' pitchers, held the Giants to one hit—a single by Beckward. Page had a perfect day at bat for the A's with a home run, triple and walk in three trips.

Weltman and Beck hit four-baggers in the Braves' triumph. Wolford banged a triple and double, Cumiskey had two singles and Weltman got a one-base knock in addition to his homer. Judy had two hits for the Indians.

Bill Buzzard's Dodgers made it 11 wins in 13 starts by whipping the last place Tigers. Valentine limited the Tigers to two hits while Fair, Wallace and Valentine paced the Dodgers' offensive with two blows each. Valentine smacked two doubles and Wallace smashed a four-bagger. Johnson and Weatherholt obtained the Tigers' hits. Scores:

Pennsylvania Hopes To Telecast Five Football Contests

PHILADELPHIA, July 20 (AP)The University of Pennsylvania has agreed to a "changed" NCAA television plan, but still hopes to telecast five games, Athletic Director Francis T. Murray said today.

Murray announced that Penn has agreed to report to NCAA on all revenues, attendance and contracts, and to pay its share of the approved expense of the NCAA television committee. He said the university would abide by whatever decision the NCAA television committee makes on its request to telecast five home games, including the Army and Navy games.

Murray said he had requested permission to televise five games so that the university could, in part carry out its television contract with the American Broadcasting Company. Penn had contracted with ABC to telecast all eight home games for a reported $200,000.

Keyser Ridge Wins Over Garrett, 3-2

Keyser Ridge nosed out Garrett in a Southern Somerset County Baseball League game yesterday at Garrett, Pa., by the score of 3-2.

Harry Keister won his own game in the top of the 7th when he doubled to score Pete McKenzie who had led off the final stanza with a three base wallop. Keister held the home team to three safeties.

McKenzie, Drew and Keister shared six of Keyser Ridge's eight hits. The score:

Virginia Once Had 15 Race Tracks

According to the American Turf Register of 1830 there were in that year forty-five race courses in the United States. Virginia led the list with fifteen tracks. Kentucky was next with eight, then came Maryland and North Carolina with four each; Alabama and South Carolina with three each; New York, Tennessee and Pennsylvania with two each and Ohio, Mississippi, New Jersey and the District of Columbia each had one.

Market Develops Split-Price Personality But Goes Ahead

NEW YORK, July 20 (AP)—The stockmarket developed a split-price personality today, but nevertheless it managed to maintain its forward movement.

Railroads and utilities were leaders of the advance.

Steels, motors and radio-televisions kept dragging down all day long.

Eastern Air Lines, which this week announced long-range plans to convert to pet power, gained 1⅛ to 21⅞. Pan American World Airways was sixth most active issue of the day up ¼ at 10. The company reported operating revenues up 30 per cent in the first five months of this year and passenger revenue miles up 27 per cent over a year ago.

Twentieth Century-Fox jumped 1⅛ at 19⅜ after announcement that it would use the Columbia Broadcasting System's TV color process in its big creeen television shows.

Hudson fell off ⅞ at 13⅛ after directors announced that they were not taking dividend action at this time. The company previously paid 25 cents quarterly and 25-cent specials in March and June. Hudson production has been halted for six weeks in a dispute with the union.

Admiral was off ¼ at 21⅞. The company reported first half earnings equal to $2.12 a share as against $4.24 a year ago.

Radio Corp. was the day's most active issue, off ⅜ at 21⅜. In second spot was Fedders-Quigan off ⅜ at 12¾. They were the only two in the list of 15 most active issues to decline.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 30 cents at $92.30 with the industrial average unchanged, rails up 60 cents and utilities 30 cents.

There were 1,051 individual issues traded of which 511 advanced and 293 declined. There were 29 new highs and 21 new lows for the year.

Volume totaled 1,350,000 shares, compared with 1,130,000 shares yesterday.

Moving up were Santa Fe up 1½ at 152, Nickel Plate 2 at 191, Northern Pacific ½ at 46¼ (fourth most active), Standard Oil (NJ) 1 at 64¼, Superior Oil of California 10 at 440, Consolidated Natural Gas 2¼ at 60¾, Chas. Pfizer 1¼ at 41¼ (11th most active), Goodyear 1½ at 85½, Douglas Aircraft 1⅛ at 47⅜, the Milwaukee Road 1¼ at 20½, and Marine Midland ⅝ at 10⅞ (third most active).

Some wider gains included Firestone up 2 at 107½, Pan American Petroleum 3½ at 36, Peoples Gas 2⅞ at 119 and Reynolds Tobacco 2 at 45.

Keyser Bicycle Theft May Get Hearing

KEYSER, W. Va. — A bicycle, valued at $45 and owned by Paul Harvey, West Piedmont Street, was recovered by local State Police the day after its disappearance.

Young Harvey was swimming at Bogg's Swimming hole on New Creek Drive at the time of the alleged theft. Police found the bicycle at a home on Radical Hill and a youth was taken into custody and questioned, and will likely be given a hearing in Juvenile Court before Judge E. A. See next week.

Two Army Planes Crash Near Petersburg, W.Va.

Pilots Escape Injury As Ships Collide On Field

Poor Visibility Blamed By Officers

Two F-47-D Air Force planes were smashed at the Petersburg, W. Va., emergency airport about 10 o'clock last night but the pilots of the two craft miraculously escaped injury, residents in the Petersburg area reported.

The two aircraft, attached to the 133rd Fighter Interceptor Squadron, Brenier Air Base, Manchester, N. H., were on a routine flight to the Greater Pittsburgh area.

Poor Visibility

Because of poor visibility in Eastern Pennsylvania the two pilots got off their course. They finally were attracted to the Petersburg air strip by a beacon light.

The first pilot to land, First Lt. John D. Bayles, made a safe landing on the field although he brought the plane to a stop only three or four feet from the end of the runway.

However, the other flyer, Capt. Sherman R. Smith, came in for a landing traveling at greater speed and his craft smashed into the other plane. Lt. Bayles was standing nearby at the time of the crash.

Although spectators said that the crafts were virtually demolished they did not catch fire, probably because both were virtually out of gasoline at the time.

Custodian Witness

Clyde McUlty, custodian at the airport, witnessed the crash. Petersburg firemen and many residents of the community, who heard the collision, hurried to the scene to find the two officers unhurt.

West Virginia State Police Cpl. F. H. Tribbett arrived at the airport a short time later and took charge of the investigation.

The two pilots planned to spend the night in Petersburg. Other craft are expected to be flown to Petersburg today to get the men and check the damage to the planes.

PARK ADDITIONS—Some fine feathered friends have been added to Constitution Park this year. Shown above are a pair of peacocks acquired about two weeks ago from Mrs. Frank J. Trammel, Hedgesville, W. Va. Robert R. Golden, superintendent of the park, is proud of the new additions and says they present a beautiful sight for Cumberland residents who daily go to the park for relaxation. In the lower picture are a group of ducklings which were born recently and will soon grace the waters of the park's pond.

Constitution Park Adds Colorful Birds To Display

Probably the most colorful attraction at Constitution Park this season is a pair of recently acquired peacocks now making their home here.

The pair of beautiful birds was presented to the park about two weeks ago by Mrs. Frank J. Trammel, Hedgesville, W. Va. near Martinsburg who up until the death of her husband a few months ago had made a hobby of raising birds and other pets.

The Trammel estate located along the Potomac River is named "Honeywood Farms" and it was there the peacocks were born and raised. Last year the Trammels had 14 peacocks but 12 were destroyed by a weasel that made its way into their pen.

Following her husbands death Mrs. Trammel found caring for the variety of birds and pets too much and sought a place for them. Mr. and Mrs. William Duthie, 217 Union Street, close friends for years visited her and suggested Constitution Park as an ideal home. Two weeks ago Duthie brought them to Cumberland.

The beautiful birds have become accustomed to their new home and Robert R. Golden, superintendent of the park, said yesterday that one of the most colorful sights he has beheld thus far is when "Tom" the male, struts around with his tail fanned and is caught in the glow of the morning sun.

The newly acquired attraction at the city park are being well cared for and daily are attracting many residents who go to the park for moments of relaxation.

Frostburg Elks Improve Home

FROSTBURG — Frostburg Lodge No. 470, B.P.O. Elks, has had a new asphalt tile floor laid in the reception hall of the Elks Home, East Main Street. The new flooring is a combination of red and black, and adds to the beauty of the building.

The improvement of the reception hall is one of a number of improvements now underway by the Board of Goernors of the lodge, for the purpose of making the interior of the building more attractive.

RIU Will Hold Open Meetings For Road Crews

The Railroad Industrial Union, which recently won the right to continue as bargaining agent for engineers and firemen on the Western Marylan Railway, will open an organization drive here soon.

Elmer E. Davis, this city, president, said meetings of RIU locals will be thrown open to Baltimore and Ohio engineers, firemen, conductors and yard switchmen.

The Cumberland local, he said, meets the first and third Wednesdays at 7:30 p. m. (EST) in the Knights of Malta Hall. At 9 p. m., Davis said, the meeting will be open to all railroaders who are interested in the industrial movement.

Early this month, Davis said, the RIU defeated the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen for the third time since the RIU was organized here in 1947.

The National Mediation Board said the RIU got 108 votes to 100 for the Brotherhood in the balloting among engineers. The Industrial Union won 158 to 94 in the polling among firemen.

Davis said the B. of L. F. and E. also tried unsuccessfully to gain bargaining rights also in 1945 and 1947.

Two Divorces Granted

Two divorce decrees were granted yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court. Katie M. Hook was divorced from Philip P. Hook and is entitled to resume her maiden name of Katie Dorsey. Dorothy A. Swarner was given a divorce from Charles F. Swarner and was granted the right to resume her maiden name of Dorothy G. Abe.

Local Pastor Will Speak At Small Clan Reunion

The entertainment committee has planned a program of sports, music and games for the all-day basket picnic form of event. A. R. Small is clan president and officers will be elected for the coming year.

Rev. Gearhart will also be speaker at the annual Daley Day Homecoming, August 5, at Daley Christian Church about five miles east of Central City, Pa. He will speak at the afternoon services at 2:30 o'clock.

The afternoon program includes: selections by Shade Township High School Band, directed by Dave Dysert; "America"; silent prayer for deceased members; prayer, P. D. Reitz, Johnstown, Pa.; welcoming remarks, F. G. Sine, Johnstown, Pa.; remarks by persons attending; band selections; historical talk, James M. Miller, Central City, Pa.; songs, girls quartette; announcements and acknowledgments; offering; band selection; report of the secretary-treasurer; report of the nomination committee; talk, Rev. Gearhart; song, "The Church in the Valley by the Wildwood"; benediction; and band selection.

The new planning committee will meet after the program.

Rev. Howard Byers of the Central City Christian Church will be preacher for the Sunday school service at 10 a. m. Mrs. Howard Fleegle is superintendent. F. G. Sine and W. E. Lohr, Johnstown, will be elders.

Russell M. Pebley, Johnstown, Pa., is president of the homecoming committee. Other members are: Forrest M. Cable, Johnstown; assistant; Henry Fleegle, Daley, vice-president; D. W. Lambert, secretary-treasurer; James M. Miller, historian; Lowell B. Herkebile, publicity; Elmer Lambert, Daley, grove and water; and Howard Fleegle and sons, grove preparation.

The Daley Church was built in the summer of 1881.

Naval Reserve Draft Immunity Is Explained

Only Three Groups Considered Exempt

How Selective Service affects members of the Naval Reserve was explained today by ICDR W. E. Woodson, Jr., Inspector-Instructor, local Naval Reserve.

Inquiries being received at the Naval Training Center indicate that many non-drilling naval reservists consider themselves to be draft exempt. Commander Woodson emphasized that such is not the case and pointed out that only three groups of reservists are currently not subject to draft call.

Group 1 consists of members of drilling units on or before June 24, 1948. Reservists in this category are not subject to the draft so long as they remain in good standing in their units.

Group 2 consists of persons who have joined drilling units since June 24, 1948. Although they have no legal protection from the draft, under a working agreement between the Navy and Selective Service they may expect not to be inducted unless demands increase sharply.

Group 3 consists of advanced students in the Naval reserve and certain other officer candidates NROTC students in their junior and senior years are deferred from induction if they agree to serve for two years on active duty after being commissioned.

There is no "draft immunity", either permanent or temporary, for non-drilling naval reservists, Commander Woodson said. Members of this group have virtually the same relation to Selective Service as would non-reservists.

Men liable for induction may be enlisted in the Naval Reserve unless they are holding one of the following type classifications issued by local Selective Service Boards: 1-A, 1-A-O, 4-E, 4-F.

No person who has received a call for pre-induction examination will be accepted or enlisted in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Virginia Telephone Workers To Request New Wage Talks

WASHINGTON, July 20 (AP) — Officers of the CIO's Communications Workers of America said today they will request further negotiations with the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. to seek better terms than those rejected by employes in Virginia.

Workers represented by the union voted down a pay raise which had been tentatively agreed upon by the company and union negotiators. The tentative agreement called for weekly wage increases ranging from $3 to $9.50. The union represents about 6,000 company employes.

Glenn Watts, the union's director for Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland and the District of Columbia, conferred with CWA president Joseph A. Beirne after the company offer was turned down by union members.

CWA headquarters here said the union's Virginia leaders will meet with Watts in Richmond Monday to makep lans for reopening negotiations with the company.

Oak Conditions Being Studied To Find Cause

Pathologists Take Samples From Area

Samples of dead and dying oak trees from Allegany and Garrett Counties have been taken to College Park and Beltsville where cultures will be made in an effort to determine the cause of their condition, District Forester William H. Johnson said yesterday.

Dr. W. F. Jeffers and Dr. Curtis May, pathologists at the University of Maryland, were in the two Western Maryland counties Wednesday and Thursday gathering specimens for their study.

Johnson explained that they spent most of Wednesday in the Green Ridge area, where a number of white oak trees are dead or dying. Thursday they collected more evidence on Savage Mountain and in the area above the Savage River dam. Most of the trees checked Thursday were red oaks, the forester stated.

These dead and dying trees are not widespread in this area, Johnson emphasized. They are found in scattered places and in small groups.

Dr. Jeffers and Dr. May, were accompanied to Western Maryland by A. R. Bond, assistant state forester. They left on the return trip Thursday afternoon.

Some concern has been expressed that the ailment affecting the oak trees may be oak wilt, which has been found in neighboring West Virginia and Pennsylvania. The studies by the pathologists should find the answer, Johnson observed.

Youths Waive Local Hearing

Two Alexandria, Va., youths, charged with transporting a stolen automobile across state lines, yesterday were ordered held under $1,000 bond for Federal District Court in Baltimore after they waived preliminary hearings before United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett.

The youths, Preston S. German 20, and Charles P. Spilman, 18, were returned to the County Jail, pending the arrival of representatives from the United States Marshal's office in Baltimore.

German and Spilman have admitted they stole an automobile bearing New York license plates in Alexandria Tuesday night, according to the sheriff's office here. They were picked up about noon Wednesday on Route 40, between Frostburg and Cumberland.

Authorities reported the youths had taken the stolen automobile into Pennsylvania beyond Frostburg and then turned around and headed toward Cumberland.

Ridgeley Post Arranges Picnic

The annual basket picnic for members of Knobley Mountain Post No. 136 American Legion, Ridgeley, W. Va., and their families and guest members and their families will be held Sunday on Helmick's Farm, along Patterson's Creek, near Fort Ashby, W. Va., Post Commander Leo V. Mills said last night.

Transportation to the picnic grounds will be provided from the Post Home, beginning at 10 a. m. Sunday. The picnic will begin at 11 o'clock. Although each family will bring its own basket, refreshments will be served by the picnic committee, K. Albert Wolfe, chairman.

Those driving to the picnic grounds are reminded that they should turn right at the bridge in Fort Ashby. Signs directing motorists to the farm will be placed at frequent intervals. Games will be played and there will be prizes for children.

The Post entertainment committee also is planning to have a shrimp feed for members and friends at the Post Home at 8 p. m. Friday, July 27. Tickets for this feed may be obtained only at the home.

Court Probates Widows' Wills

Wills of two widows, both of whom died July 11, were admitted to probate yesterday in Allegany County Orphans' Court.

The will of Mrs. Rose Williams, 67, 77 Armstrong Street, Grahamtown, designated her son, Reynold Dale Williams, LaVale, as executor of the estate. The document stipulated that her estate should be divided equally among her five children, Reynold Dale Williams, June Reiber, Pauline R. Scott, Percy L. Williams and Harley R. Williams. It was dated February 19.

Mrs. Elizabeth Burnworth, 79, 226 Emily Street, in her will named her son by a previous marriage, Earl F. Wolfe, 130 Polk Street, as executor of her estate. She left her entire estate to Wolfe. The will was dated November 10, 1938.

Invitations Sent For Teachers' Salary Meeting

Session Planned At West Side School

Form letters inviting interested citizens of four Western Maryland counties to attend a regional meeting in Cumberland Thursday, August 2, for the study of teachers' salaries have been distributed this week by State Senator Louis L. Goldstein, chairman of the Legislative Council's sub-committee on teachers' salaries.

The first of the sub-committee's three regional meetings was held Wednesday at Salisbury. The second will be Wednesday, July 25, in Annapolis and the last will be here at West Side School, Paca and Chase Streets, at 10 a. m. August 2.

Senator Goldstein's letters have been sent to members of the General Assembly, the several Boards of County Commissioners, the several County Boards of Education, the several County Superintendents of Schools, the several presidents of Teachers' Colleges and other interested citizens.

"It is the hope of the sub-committee to obtain a close survey of public opinion throughout the state as to the extent of the state's participation in the payment of teachers' salaries," Senator Goldstein's letter reads in part.

"In order to systematize arrangements for the meetings, the sub-committee is requesting that the State Senator from each county take charge of listing and presenting the speakers from his county. Speakers are urged, if possible, to present to the committee a written summary of their remarks," he concludes.

Serving on the sub-committee with Senator Goldstein, who is from Calvert County, are Senator Robert B. Kimble from Allegany County and Delegate John C. Luber of Baltimore City.

The local meeting is for the citizens of Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick Counties.

Jr. Symphony Parents Form Booster Unit

Parents of orchestra members and friends of the Allegany County Junior Orchestra organized and elected officers at a meeting in Mt. Royal School auditorium Thursday night.

Those elected were: Mrs. A. E. Christner, LaVale, president; Albert H. Kliffner, 905 Shades Lane, vice president; Mrs. Richard W. Trevaskis, 220 Baltimore Avenue, secretary; and Mrs. Charles E. Nield, 111 Grand Avenue, treasurer.

Mrs. Christner said the purpose of the new organization was to establish a fund to enable the orchestra to travel as a demonstration concert group, and to stress the idea that the orchestra is a county-wide organization. She said the symphony orchestra which is directed by Martin Eric Weisman, LaVale, is the only one of its kind in the state.

The new group has not decided on a name for the organization but will meet every fourth Tuesday of the month in Mt. Royal School auditorium at 8 p.m. The next meeting is scheduled for August 28.

The Junior Symphony Orchestra is comprised of children from eight to 16 years of age.

Uniforms For Deputies Unlikely

Allegany County will not follow Washington County's lead in having deputy sheriffs uniformed, Sheriff Edward R. Muir said yesterday.

His statement was made in comment upon the recent developments in Washington County, where Sheriff Edward Rowland has just obtained permission from the county commissioners to have his deputies wear uniforms. Rowland said the deputies are sometimes hampered in their duties because they don't look like law enforcement officers when thy are in civilian clothes.

Last year Roy E. Van Fleet, who was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff of this county proposed that deputy sheriffs be uniformed.

Postal Reserve Unit To Train At Meade

Part of the 729th Army Postal Unit, 2nd Army Organized Reserve Corp, will leave tomorrow afternoon for two weeks of active duty summer training at Ft. George G. Meade, according to 1st Lt. Thomas B. Comiskey, Jr., commanding officer.

The two-week training period will cover basic and postal subjects.

Those going with the unit are: 1st Lt. Thomas B. Comiskey, Jr., 418 Holland Street; Sgt. First Class Thomas A. Carscaden, Jr., 211 South Allegany Street; Sgt. First Class Charles E. Hartung, 314 Piedmont Avenue; Sgt. Donald G. Paulman, 1202 Holland Street; Cpl. Paul A. Nicholson, 112 North Cedar Street, and Pfc. Charles R. Ross, 1118 Quantril Way, Baltimore.

Election To Close

The election of 13 new directors of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will come to a close Tuesday at 3 p. m., according to G. William Bibby, chairman of the committee on elections.

Local Negro Boy Takes Top Honors In Talent Program

The dancing ability and agility of 12-year-old Donald Keyes of Pine Avenue Playground took first honors in the Intra-City Talent program staged in the amphitheater at Constitution Park, last night.

Edmund F. Hoey director of city recreation, said last night the young Negro boy really stole the show with his version of the Spanish Tap, a rhumba tap and an acrobatic dance.

Taking second honors was Fred Hillegas, 8, of Post Playground who played "Too Young" on his accordion. Hillegass is a student at Fort Hill High School.

Third place honors were taken by a young lassie named Janet Hemming who sang "Little Curly Hair" and did an Hawaiian and acrobatic dance, accompanied by Mrs. Bertie Rank.

The three first prize winners in last night's finals each received bronze medals. Joe Schellinger, 14, of North End Playground and who attends LaSalle, won fourth prize by singing "To Young", "You Made Me Love You" and "Blue Skies." The fifth award winner was Jenetta Markley, Fort Hill student who represented Penn Avenue Playground and played the guitar and sang "I Sail My Ship Along."

Hoey said last night the top five contestants will receive points toward a playground intra-city banner to be awarded the playground with the most points. The playground will retain the banner for next summer and relinquish it to the 1952 winner. Points last night were given according to placement 25, 20, 15, 10 and five.

Judges at last nights show were Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, William H. Buchholtz, commissioner of finance, and John I. Spiker. All 15 playgrounds had contestants in last night's program.

Horse Shoe Contest Held At North End

Post Playground Wins City Title

Competition was keen and excitement ran high in the city recreational horse shoe and box hockey contests held at North End Playground yesterday afternoon.

Director Edmund Hoey announced the Post Playground contenders garnered most points in the horseshoe pitching bouts with a total of 13, with East Side and North End each getting ten points, Gephart and Pennsylvania Avenue eight and Johnsons Heights one.

In Class A competition for boys from 16 to 17 on a 40 feet throw, Eddie Winters, representing Penn Avenue won out over Gene Wieber, East Side. Russell Brant, Post Playground took honors in Class B competition over Joseph McIntosh in the 13 to 15 age group, with a throwing distance of 34 feet.

Class C group for girls from 13-15 years was won by Jean Weltman, Post Playground, over Nancy Kegg, North End. Their tossing distance was 32 feet. Dick McGann, North End, defeated Bill Hanekamp in the finals of the Class D group from nine-12 at a pitching distance of 30 feet.

Class E girls competition with age groups of nine to 12 was won by JoAnn Knepp, Gephart over Donna Smith, East Side, at a tossing distance of 28 feet.

Pennsylvania Avenue representatives led the way in getting 16 points in box hockey competition with East Side garnering 15, Gephart 11 and Post and North End four each.

In Class A for boys William Rice, Penn Avenue, won out over Gene Weber, East Side. Kerry Kroll of Penn Avenue, took top honors in Class B over Joseph Martin, Gephart. Class C box hockey for girls was won by Wenda Adams, East Side, over Mary Librant, North End. William Hanekamp, East Side, won out over Kenny Yandelvitz, Gephart in the Class D group. In Class E competition Ella Mae Divelbess, Penn Avenue won over Regina Eichner, Gephart.

State FFA To Hold Convention At Md. University Next Week

Maryland members of the Future Farmers of America will hold their annual convention at the University of Maryland July 24-26. The State Department of Education sponsors the convention.

There will be three half day convention sessions, and 8 contests under the supervision of Harry McDonald, supervisor of agriculture.

Maryland Farmer Degrees will be awarded approximately 35 boys. The most outstanding FFA boy will receive the Star Farmer award. Officers will be elected. The chapter winning the state FFA safety contest will also be announced at the convention which is being held during National Farm Safety Week.

Boy Scouts See Fire Fighting Demonstrations

Approximately 100 Attend Program

Boy Scouts at Potomac Council Camp were given demonstrations of forest fire fighting equipment Thursday night by members of the Maryland Department of State Forests and Parks, according to Willis V. Smith, executive secretary of Potomac Council Boy Scouts of America.

The youths were shown how to use a Panama pumper which operates from a fan belt on a truck. The truck which carries the pump also has a hundred gallon water storage tank.

Various tools and their uses in fighting a forest fire were also explained to the Scouts. The boys were given another demonstration on how a two-way radio can be of use in forest fire fighting.

After the demonstration period, a question and answer session about forest fire fighting was conducted. The boys were then taken to the camp dining hall to see a color motion picture showing the work carried on by the Department of State Forests and Parks.

Smith said approximately 100 boys and scout leaders attended the demonstrations and movie. He announced a similar program will be held next week as part of the regular camp activity.

Industry Group Is Sent Check

A check for $5,000 to the Cumberland and Allegany County Industrial Promotion Company was mailed yesterday afternoon by James G. Stevenson, clerk of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

This $5,000 is provided in the commissioners' budget for the 1951-52 fiscal year to aid in the promotion of new industry in this county. An act of the recent session of the State Legislature authorizes payment of the $5,000.

Funds for industrial promotion have come from three sources this year. The Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, the county commissioners and the Promotion Company contribute $5,000 each.

Maryland Life Insurance Increases 157 Per Cent

Maryland ownership of life insurance has increased by $2,400,000,000 since 1930, the greatest 20-year growth in the history of the state, in spite of the slowing up during the early '30s, the Institute of Life Insurance reports. This is a gain of 157 percent.

Some of this increase was due to population increase, but the institute points out that, even adjusting for the gain in number of people living in the state, the rise in life insurance ownership per capita in the 20-year period was 79 percent.

At the start of this year, life insurance owned by Maryland families totaled $3,932,000,000. This compares with $1,532,000,000 owned in this state 20 years before.

The 1930 population in this state of 1,632,000 had risen to 2,334,000 at the start of this year.

For the nation as a whole, the 20-year gain in life insurance ownership was 120 percent, rising from $106,413,000,000 to $234,047,000,000. In the same period, however, population increased from 122,775,000 to 150,521,000. Adjusting for this population growth, the gain in life insurance ownership countrywide was 79 percent.

The state with the greatest gain was New Mexico, with 170 percent. The areas with the greatest overall increase included the southern tier of states and the upper belt of the mountain states. This has been in part a reflection of the economic advances in the south and the improvement of farm conditions during the period, the institute commented. The states with the largest industrial centers showed the smallest per capita gains, generally, but this was primarily because they had developed their insurance base more effectively than other areas by the start of this last 20-year period.

Weather

Yesterday was a cool, comfortable day with clouds obstructing the sun's rays from time to time. A somewhat stiff breeze made the air dry and less humid. Temperatures stayed in the high 70's. Constitution Park's weather station reported the high temperature as 78 degrees, the low as 55, and at 8:20 p. m., the mercury leveled at 71 degrees. Humidity was marked at 49 per cent. The weatherman predicts fair weather for today with hardly any change in temperature.
